Workshops for Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Explorer leaders will be held in the afternoon as well as a budget building conference and the annual business meeting of the council. The beginning sessions will start at 2:30 p. m. in the Red River Valley Room of the Union. Following a welcome from Floyd K. Christianson, president of the Lake Agassiz Council, the Scouters will participate in the four different sessions.

While their husbands are attending the various meetings in the afternoon, ladies at the meeting will be the guests of the University at a special production of the play, "J. B." in the new Burtness Theater on the University Campus. Following the play, a tea will be held in the Student Union.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

It Will be Uphill

It is evident, from the three games that have been played, that coach Ralph Skay and his baseball Prowlers will be having an uphill struggle if they are to make a successful defense of their District 31 title and be a threat for the regional crown.

In the three games played, the Prowlers have scored one win, that being a 16 to 15 decision over the Goodridge Huskies, and taken a pair of losses, to Red Lake Falls, by an 11 to 10 score, and to Fosston, by an 8 to 5 margin. And these games revealed some weaknesses in the Prowler squad, both as to defensive talent and as to offensive power. The pitching, except for John Aune's game against Fosston on Tuesday afternoon, and Tony Poole's early-inning stint against Red Lake Falls, hasn't been too reliable. The Prowler hurlers have been plagued by wildness, but this lack of control could be due to the usual early-season lack of competition.

Face Fertile and Bemidji

The Prowlers will be given a thorough testing this week when, starting tonight, Wednesday, at Fertile, they play three games against first-rate opponents. Tonight's game is against the Falcons of Fertile, and if righthander Rod Olson gets the nod to pitch for coach Chuck Johnson's club, base hits will be hard to come by.

On Friday night, on the Fair Grounds diamond, the defending regional champion Bemidji Lumberjacks will be meeting the Prowlers. It is probable that coach Horace May will send his veteran righthander, Pete Barthelemy, against the locals. Coach Skay will probably counter with righthander Tony Poole. And on Saturday afternoon, on the Fair Grounds diamond, coach Mike Hajostek will bring his Red Lake Falls Eagles here in an attempt to duplicate their previous win over the locals.

The results of these three games should provide coach Skay with the data to complete his "book" on the Prowler squad.

Boat License Reminder

County auditor Charles Rodekuhr forwards the reminder that all boat licenses with numbers having the suffix of AA or AB or AC, etc., should be renewed this year.

What makes auditor Charles somewhat concerned is the fact that the past records show that his office should be renewing about 350 licenses this year and to date he has relicensed about 80 boats.

The boat-owner must bring his old license to the agent in order to be issued a new license. If the old license cannot be located, a new application must be submitted to the Bureau of Boat & Water Safety in St. Paul. This department will then check their records for title. With the fishing season due to open on May 18, it is a "must" to have boat licenses renewed.

No Justice

For four hours on Saturday, in the state V.F.W. bowling tournament that was held at International Falls, Carl Onkka of the local contingent of bowlers participating in the tourney, held first place in the singles competition and also the state record. Carl, or "Silvers" as he is called by the area bowlers, rolled games of 203, 226, and 277, for an actual-pins total of 706. Carrying a handicap of 26 pins, Carl's aggregate was a huge 732.

This was the first time in state V.F.W. bowling competition that a bowler had posted a 700-plus total. And Carl's total held first place until Maynard Thoren of Ely came up with a 744-pin aggregate.

Thoren, with a handicap of 66 pins, bowled games of 205, 268, and 205 for an actual-pins score of 678. This total, plus his handicap, gave the Iron Range kegler a 744-pin aggregate.

Well, Carl will have the satisfaction of getting a 700-pin patch from the ABC, and that's quite an honor.

Many Summer Events Slated in Minnesota

The opening of the Guthrie Theatre in Minneapolis, a summer bonspiel in Duluth, and a week-long caravan of trailer-traveling families from all parts of the country, are highlights of the new edition of Minnesota's summer calendar of events, compiled by the state department of business development.

The Tyrone Guthrie Theatre, a highly publicized milestone in Minnesota's cultural growth, opens its first season in Minneapolis Tuesday, May 7, following dedication services for the unique theatre building on Sunday, May 5.

The theater's season extends from May 7 through September 22nd. The first play, "Hamlet", stars George Grizzard, Jessica Tandy and Ellen Geer. The three other plays to be presented in the initial season are "The Miser", opening May 8; "The Three Sisters", opening June 18, and "Death of a Salesman", opening July 16, all directed either by Sir Tyrone Guthrie or Douglas Campbell.

The summer curling bonspiel, in the Duluth Curling Club, will take place July 25-28.

Trailer-traveler families will swell the population of the Bemidji area during the July 4 week of June 29 through July 6th, for the annual national caravan of the Wally Byam Caravan Club. More than 1500 trailers will be assembled in the Beltrami County Fair Grounds, creating a virtual city within a city for a week-long program of business and vacation activities.

The calendar also contains the schedules for a wide variety of other events and attractions, ranging from traditional, well-known festivals to county fairs and local fishing contests.

Among the events which traditionally attract large numbers of spectators or participants are:

The 15th Annual Rochester Art Festival, June 9.

The Annual Trail Ride in Lake Carlos State Park, Alexandria, with 700 riders from the Midwest expected on June 8 and 9.

Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls June 11.

The Hiawatha Pageant, at Pipestone National Monument, on three weekends, July 19-21; July 26-28; and August 2-4.

Duluth Portorama, July 31-August 4, incorporating the International Folk Festival, at Leif Erickson Park, August 3.

Minnesota State Fair, August 24-Sept. 2nd.

World's Only Box-Car Days, at Tracy, Sept. 1-2.

Defeat of Jesse James Day, in Northfield, Sept. 7.

Sporting events listed in the calendar include the second running of the U. S. Canada International Canoe Derby, between Ely, Minnesota, and Atikokan, Ontario, which originated last year in Ely and this year will be run in the reverse direction from Atikokan, July 1-4; the St. Paul Open Golf Tournament August 1-4; Midwest Regional Tournament of American Water Ski Association, Winona, August 9-11; 31st Annual Pine-Palm Golf Tournament, Detroit Lakes, August 12-18, and home games of the Minnesota Twins and the Vikings.

Speedster Termed No. 1 Killer on Road

Driver Error Held Cause of 9 out of 10 Casualties

Nearly nine out of every 10 casualties on the nation's highways in 1962 were caused by human error and lack of judgment. And the speedster still ranks as the Number One Killer on the road.

These and other grim reminders were disclosed in a report issued by The Travelers Insurance Companies. The report is compiled annually from information provided by state motor vehicle departments.

Of the 40,500 persons who lost their lives in traffic accidents last year, 32,300 died in accidents caused by driver error and traffic law violations. Moreover, according to the report, nearly 3,000,000 persons were inured in auto mishaps blamed on drivers' mistakes.

The fast driver continued to be the greatest menace on the highways. Nearly 13,000 deaths and more than 1,145,000 injuries were directly attributable to excessive speeding.

A Travelers spokesman pointed out that — like the majority of accidents — most highway casualities could have been avoided. They were caused by human failure, he said, and it is clearly evident that our biggest task is to get this message across to the American public.

"If we can do this effectively," he added, "we have an opportunity to make dramatic improvements in the field of traffic safety."

Editorials . . .

"The glory of the nation rests in the character of her men. And character comes from boyhood. Thus every boy is a challenge to his elders. It is for them that we must win the war—it is for them that we must make a just and lasting peace. For the world of tomorrow, about which all of us are dreaming and planning, will be carried forward by the boys of today."

—Herbert Hoover

Egzasperating

The Christian Science Monitor calls our attention to the interesting fact that the letter X has six sounds to its credit. As the first letter of a word it generally, but not always, has the sound of Z. As the second letter it is generally G or K, and so on. These are the things that make spelling needlessly difficult.

It isn't ony the letter X that confuses. All of our letters are tricky. The letter S sometimes has the sound of SH. Sure it does. All of which is very egzasperating for those of us who must consult frequently with Mr. Webster.

The Campaign Is Under Way.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Senator Barry Goldwater are well out in front in the popularity polls that are being conducted among possible candidates on the Republican ticket in next year's presidential race. The Gallup poll for April gives Rockefeller at 43 per cent rating compared to 26 per cent for Goldwater. In February Rockefeller rated 49 per cent and Goldwater 17 per cent, the change during the two-month period being definitely in Goldwater's favor.

While next year's election is still far in the future, the top-level campaigning is already well under way with President Kennedy having a decided edge in the guessing at this stage. The fact that he will be running for a second term will be a big advantage and indications are that the national economy will be in full bloom at election time. Expansion programs, both public and private, point to a new peak next year, especially in the cities.

But there is no such a thing as a certainty in politics, and many things can happen between now and election day. Whichever way it goes, the campaign should be interesting.

Congress Finally Interested

Daylight saving time is finally becoming a national issue. As we move into another period of the confusion resulting from time tinkering across the nation, the question is finally receiving serious consideration by Congress, and hearings on proposals for national uniformity are now being held. Commenting on this development, Joseph W. Sullivan, writing for the Wall Street Journal, states that this year's switch to daylight saving time in many sections of the country may be the public's last big chance to reset clocks and watches without an official okay from Washington. He says:

> "The leeway now taken by many states and cities in setting local time is both costly and confusing, it's asserted by clock-conscious grumblers representing a number of U. S. industries. At Senate Commerce Committee hearings the critics hope to convince Congress that it's time for Federal Standards that would mean more uniformity.
> "Pushing hardest for changes are railroads, airlines and bus companies. Just printing new timetables revised for assorted time changes in spring and fall costs railroads $500,000 a year, rail executives estimate. The comparable bill for interstate bus lines is reckoned at $250,000. Moreover, many companies claim the expenses of planning for widespread re-shuffling of passenger runs are greater yet. Such changes are often necessary, carriers say, when one big terminal moves its clocks ahead an hour and another doesn't.
> "What the transport industry would like is either a complete ban on fast "summer" time, when clocks are advanced one hour, or a requirement that the entire U. S. observe it. Either way, it's figured, clocks in the country's four main time zones would keep ticking in the same relationships year-around."

Adding to the confusion, according to Sullivan, are the widely ranging dates for observing daylight time that cause many headaches. He says that of the 28 states that now sanction summer time changes, only 11 provide for uniform statewide on- and off dates—the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October. Minnesota is one of the states that leaves it up to local preference whether to observe daylight time at all. And, according to Sullivan:

> "Other industries are backing the transport companies' push for more uniformity. We'd like very much to see some order brought from the present chaos; time confusion has meant continuing frustration for the radio and television industries, declares a spokesman for the National Association of Broadcasters. American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres, Inc., figures its ABC television network could dispense with over $1 million worth of videotape machines and other equipment used to maintain network TV shows in their same time spots when some audiences are observing daylight time and others aren't.
> "When New York moves two hours ahead of us during the summer, we lose contact with our Eastern banking connections, adds a Tennesee banker. New York banks may have closed for the night when the Tennesseans want to phone them in late afternoon. Nashville which is in the Central Time Zone, voted in 1957 to observe daylight time. But Tennessee law forbids it; when the city tried to make the change, state officials, backed by the Tennessee Supreme Court, ordered a halt."

A perfect solution for this problem may not be possible, Sullivan thinks. The opposing extremists probably would not be able to adjust their differences harmoniously. But, he believes:

> "—most backers of greater time uniformity would settle for a milder measure proposed by the Commerce Committee's chief, Democratic Sen. Magnuson of Washington. His bill would permit some regions, such as the Northeast, to continue shuttling an hour from the front to the end of the day in summer while other sections, perhaps much of the South, might keep the same time all year. But Federal time-keepers would rule on all the changes and set uniform switching dates. Violators, presumably city fathers in most cases, could draw fines of $100 a day."

It is encouraging to know that the confusing issue is receiving the national attention that it deserves.

Twelve Billion Dollars

Don Brown of the Waseca Herald reminds us what a $12 billion deficit means in terms of interest costs. On interest rate of one per cent means a cost of $120 million a year. At three and one-half per cent the annual cost would be more than $420 million a year. And that means a cost of more than $120 million a day without paying anything on the principal. And each deficit will be added to our already staggering debt total of more than $300 billion.

This is the kind of medicine President Kennedy and his New Frontier doctors are prescribing for us to restore our health. They tell us we are terribly sick and that the way to get well is to build up bigger and bigger deficits over a period of years. And the two men we have sent to Washington to represent Minnesota in the United States Senate are giving their support to that kind of nonsense.

If there is anything cheerful in this prospect it is the probability that these debts will be paid off with ten-cent dollars. The generation that follows us may decide that the best solution is to wash out all debts and start over again. Our spenders will not be heroes to them.

Are They Dangerous?

Three proposed amendments to our federal Constitution have suddenly become controversial. The sudden interest is due to a strong statement by Chief Justice Earl Warren of the Supreme Court, in which he charged that the proposals, if adopted:

> "—would make profound changes in the judiciary, the relationship between the federal and state governments, and even the stability of the U. S. Constitution."

He told a Duke University audience that the three specific amendments in question have drawn little public attention but that in 24 states, one or both houses of the legislature have approved one, two or even all three. The three proposals that he objects would:

> "—take away from the federal court all jurisdiction in state legislative apportionments.
> "—establish a court composed of the 50 chief justices of the United States in cases involving federal-state relationships.
> "—change the amending process so as to practically supplant the congress in favor of the state legislatures."

Not being learned in the law, we are not qualified to pass judgement on these proposals. But as we read the brief statement of intent our reaction was not one of alarm. It seems to us that they would strengthen state authority, and that we favor. We have been concerned about the increasing concentration of authority in the federal government and a rapidly growing federal bureaucracy.

We are satisfied however that the Chief Justice has performed a proper service in calling the nation's attention to the questions that are involved in these proposals, and we would like to hear the pros and the cons on the issues. Any proposed amendments to our Constitutions, state or federal, deserve widespread publicity and thorough discussion. As Warren states:

> "If proposals of this magnitude had been made in the early days of the republic, the voices of the lawyers of that time would have been heard from one end of our land to the other.
> "Surely the constitution should be as precious to us now as it was then."

Interesting Opinions

"Lenin is reported to have said that the way to destroy a nation is to debauch its currency. Undoubtedly there is truth in this. It seems evident that those who have the power to regulate the money supply of a nation have the power to nurture or destroy it."

Borrowed Nonsense

"I want you to write me a story about someone you like very much and tell me why", the Edmonton grade-one teacher instructed her class. "I like my grandma best," wrote her favorite, "because when I go to her house for a visit she gives me pennies and cookies and a nice dinner. If I am very good she lets me play with her poker chips."

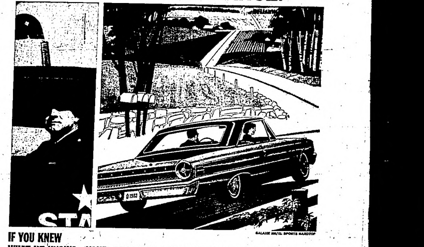
TOTAL PERFORMANCE:



GALAXIE 500/XL SPORTS HARDTOP
IF YOU KNEW
WHAT HE KNOWS...YOU'D BE DRIVING THE 1963 TOTAL PERFORMANCE FORD
Ford is traditionally the nation's Number One police car. The reason: Total Performance!
When it comes to cars the police don't take chances. Put yourself in a State Trooper's shoes. Every day you must patrol hundreds of miles in your cruiser. Mileage and time grind into a man and his machine, but when the bell rings you've got to be ready. Chase. Turn. Corner. Quick stop. You've got to be able to do it all if you're going to do your job.
Listen to a trooper list the reasons why he prefers a Ford and you realize how difficult it is for any car to measure up to his standards. The car must be strong . . . it has to stand up to big mileage. It must be silent . . . when you practically live in a car a rattle can sound like a kettle drum. It must be swift . . . powerful enough to catch any car on the road. It must be sure . . . dependable even in the face of the unexpected. Strong. Silent. Swift. Sure. A four-word outline of total performance. The police demand it. That is why they choose the total performance Ford. Why should you settle for anything less?
Whatever your special demands and needs, the total performance Ford is the car most likely to satisfy you all the way down the line. You can prove this for yourself.
First, look at Ford's astounding record in open competition this year in the grueling Daytona, Riverside and Atlanta 500's, and in the demanding Pure Oil Performance Trials. Only a car with total performance could roll up so many impressive wins.
Second, before you buy any new car, test-drive the solid, silent Super Torque Ford. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Make this important discovery—if it's built by Ford, it's built for performance . . . total performance.

SIGNING an official proclamation designating the remainder of 1963 as the centennial of the dual banking system of the United States is Mayor Orin Green of Thief River Falls. Standing are Gene Beito, vice president of Northern State Bank, left, and J. J Womack, president of Union State Bank, whose institutions are joining in the centennial observance.

Northern and Union State Banks in Thief River Falls will join with all other commercial banks of Minnesota during the period May 3-11 in observing the centennial of commerical banking. Activities have been planned to focus the attention of the public on the important role that banks have played in community progress.

J. J. Womack, president of Union State Bank, and Gene Beito, vice president of Northern State Bank, stated that the "past year has been a period of marked progress for both the banks and the community, and we are proud to participate in the May 3-11 observance of Minnesota Bank Centennial Week".

In an official proclamation, Mayor Orin Green stated that, "Banks in our area and throughout Minnesota have an excellent record of service to the public. Our bankers have always kept the needs of our citizens in view, and have been and will continue to be a vital symbol of the American free enterprise way of life."

He termed the dual banking system "a clear and historic response to the Constitution's call for checks and balances" in the apportioning of governmental power. "Under this system," he said, "private ownership of our banks has a choice of doing business under either state or federal supervision. This gives the private citizen protection against arbitrary or oppressive policies and actions at either level of government."

On February 25, 1863, President Abraham Lincoln signed into law the National Currency Act, which gave the United States its first uniform national currency, and created a new system of nationally chartered banks which took their place beside the already established state-chartered banks. Thus, the Act of 1863 marked the beginning of our present-day dual commercial banking system.

This act did away with the previous system of paper money issued by individual banks, and provided means for supervision and controls leading to a soundly based banking structure. It was the first step in "Progress Through Service — A Century based banking structure. It was a first step ing", the Centennial theme to be observed by all commercial banks during 1963.

The new program is under the direction of Dr. Robert Hudson of the college counseling services who will work directly with each student to assist him in providing the best program possible.

This program is for students who have been accepted by the college. Once accepted, they will be given a choice of three dates when they can take advantage of this service. The service will be provided from June 18 through August 23.

Alumni Reunion at N.W. School Now Slated for July 6

The annual summer Alumni Reunion which was scheduled to be held July 13 at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, has been changed to Saturday, July 6. This change in date will permit alumni who come for the reunion at the school to attend some of the events of "Pioneer Days" which will be celebrated in the city of Crookston on that day. The date of the Crookston event was changed from July 13 to July 6; therefore, the reunion date was rescheduled.

This year, the graduating class of 1913 will be celebrating its 50th anniversary and class members are making plans for a "special reunion" of the class. Other graduating classes making plans for special reunions are 1923, 1938, and 1948.

Minnesota Farm Leaders Discuss Spring Bond Drive

Ray Wolf, of the University of Minnesota, recently appointed state agriculture volunteer savings bonds committee chairman, met with agricultural leaders in the state recently to discuss the part they can take in promoting the sale of U. S. savings bonds during the Freedom Bond Drive for 1963, May 1st thru July 4th.

They met at the Student Center on the St. Paul campus for a "dutch treat" luncheon meeting with treasury savings bonds division representatives. The Freedom Bond Drive was discussed with emphasis on the importance of promoting the sale of savings bonds at this time.

Those present felt that since the sale of U. S. savings bonds is a way in which the Treasury can finance the great costs of the defense and space programs without inflationary pressure, every family should be asked to invest at least a part of its savings in U. S. savings bonds.

Grass Retardant to Be Tested in State

The Minnesota Highway Department hopes to reduce its grass mowings on rural highways from three to one per year and on urban roads from eight to about five. That is — if experiments with a grass growth retardant prove successful.

A chemical retardant called MH-30 (maleic hydrazine) will be applied to several test sites between now and June 1. The sites include sections of median strips on the TH 100 west beltline, Interstate 494, TH 61 in the St. Paul Park area, the interchange area of Interstate 35W near Medford and other locations.

The department experimented in 1961 and 1962 with MH-30 but only to a limited degree. The results were only partly successful and not conclusive. The current experiments are expected to establish the value of growth retardants.

Highway research engineers believe MH-30 is capable of retarding grass growth to an acceptable degree, but that application of the chemical was not made at the best time in past experiments. In one case it was applied just before a heavy rain period and in another case, in the fall, which proved to be the wrong season."

In early experiments weed infestation occurred with use of the chemical. In later experiments a weed-killer was used along with the grass retardant and it proved both successful and compatible. Although a slight browning of the grass is caused by the chemical, it disappears in a short period.

Unless two mowings per year can be saved by each chemical application, the general usage of the chemical would be economically unjustified, according to the highway department. However, its use can be justified in areas difficult to mow, such as around bridge abutments and on steep slopes.

A MIRACLE

Did you ever hold in your hand a rose, a plant, or even a tiny seed and wonder where its beauty comes from? Or did you plant a seed and watch, day by day, and marvel at nature's way? How miraculous are the ways of nature; so beautiful that man can never fashion or create a rival.

Another word for nature, of course, is God. He creates. Beauty in all its forms comes from Him, and to us they are given; nature's bounties, we call them.

When you go to church this Sunday, say another word of "thanks" for all that is good, all that is beautiful; all that you possess!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Rev. Arthur Olson, Missionary to China, To Speak at Zion Lutheran

Rev. Arthur S. Olson, former missionary to China, will be the guest speaker at regular and special services to be held Sunday at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. He will speak at worship services at 9 and 10:30 a.m. will show slides at a 5 p.m. fireside hour. At 7 p.m. he will show a movie on Hong Kong.

Rev. Olson was among the first Lutheran Free Church missionaries to begin mission work in China. He received his education at Augsburg Academy, college and seminary, graduating from the seminary in 1915, leaving with his wife for China in December of the same year.

Most of their mission work was accomplished in Suichow, Honan Province, central China. Following Pearl Harbor and the outbreak of World War II in 1941, the Olsons were imprisoned by the Japanese for nearly two years, after which they were repatriated to the United States. In 1945 they returned to their mission station but in 1948 they withdrew to Shanghai and later to Hong Kong due to communist invasion.

During the summer of 1948, Rev. Olson became the China director of the Lutheran World Federation, holding that position until 1958. He was active in establishing several churches at Hong Kong and worked among refugees there, returning with his wife to the United States last October.

Rev. Olson was born near Farmington and his wife is a native of Northfield.

State Traffic up Nine Pct. in March

Good Weather Accounts for Most of Increase

Travel on Minnesota's rural trunk highways in March increased by 9.3 per cent over February, the Minnesota highway department reports! March traffic was about 7½ per cent over the same month a year ago.

The March increase over February is slightly above normal and attributed to ideal weather. The increase over the same month a year ago is also above normal, but March travel last year was below normal due to heavy snows.

The largest increase in March over February was on US 10 east of Moorhead, with a 22.4 per cent increase; next was US 61 northwest of Red Wing, with 15.4 per cent; US 10 northwest of Anoka had a 13.4 per cent increase; and US 169 northeast of Chaska showed a 12 per cent increase.

The only decrease in March travel was on US 169 south of Onamia, which showed a 15.6 per cent drop under February. This is attributed to the annual March decrease of ice-fishermen going to Mille Lacs lake.

The highway department makes counts the year around, using 31 automatic traffic recorders on permanent locations on rural trunk highways. These are supplemented with portable recorders at other locations, which are moved periodically. Traffic counts are used, with other information, to determine present and future highway needs.

SS Payments In County Hit $87,634 Total

Old-age, survivors and disability insurance benefits are becoming increasingly important as a community resource according to Walter D. Kistler, manager of the Grand Forks district office of the Social Security administration.

In Pennington county, social security benefits amounting to $87,634 per month were being paid to 1,605 people at the end of December, 1962. In the state of Minnesota 352,488 people were receiving $22,862,186. per month.

"While the benefits are intended primarily for the beneficiaries' economic security, they help business in the community generally as most of the money is spent for food, clothing, and other nexessities," Mr. Kistler stated.

In the nation as a whole social security benefits at the end of 1962 were being paid to over eighteen million people at the rate of over a billion dollars per month.

Nis Anton, 67, Killed Today in Tractor Mishap

Nis Anton, 67, long-time resident of the Thief River Falls community and a prominent area farmer, was killed about 8 a. m. today in a tractor accident near his farm home. The accident was investigated by the Pennington county sheriff's department.

Sheriff Charles Richards said the accident occurred at the intersection of SAR 7 & SAR 16 about 5 miles southwest of Thief River Falls. Anton was driving a tractor pulling a cultivator and making a left turn from SAR 7 to go north on SAR 16.

According to Richards, the cultivator hit a fence post used to mark the edge of the crossing. The tractor overturned in the northeast corner of the intersection, pinning Anton beneath it. School children waiting for the school bus saw the tractor overturn and summoned help. Two tractors were used to raise the Anton tractor so that the victim could be removed.

Dr. E. O. Thorsgard, Pennington county coroner, ruled the death accidental and stated no inquest would be held. He said the victim's chest was crushed and that internal injuries had been sustained.

Funeral services for Nis Anton have been tentatively set for Thursday at 2 p. m. from Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls with Rev. Leland Steen officiating. To Sell $613,000 Bonds May 14 for Lost River Work

One of the first requisites leading to the improvement of the Lost River channel in Red Lake, Polk and Clearwater counties will be effected at Crookston May 14 when bids will be received for $613,000 negotiable bonds, says the Red Lake Falls Gazette.

The bond issue will include $181,000 Lost River improvement bonds and $15,000 for a drainage ditch—which is Red Lake County's share in the flood control project.

All of the costs with the exception of some $50,000 for bridges, will be assessed to the benefited property holders along the river which has flooded farlands excessively in recent years.

Bond issues for Clearwater county totaling $82,000 and for Polk county in the amount of $335,000 will also be sold May 14. Once the bonds have been bid, bids for the actual work along the river will be let with construction to start this summer. Total cost of the project will be lower than the bond issue, however.

The project will include deepening, straightening and snagging operations. The Lost River enters Red Lake county at Oklee and winds about 13 miles due west where it joins the Clearwater river two miles east of Terrebonne. The lower reaches of the river in the county will require only snagging or clearing of obstructions since the channel there is deep and well defined.

Biskup-Halme Vows Are Spoken at Middle River

Miss carol Emelie Biskup and F. William Halme were united in marriage at an 8 p. m. candlelight cermony on Saturday, April 20 at the First Lutheran church at Middle River. Officiating at the double-ring service was Reverend James Hanson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Biskup of Middle River, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Salma Hanson and the late Frank Halme.

Mrs. James Hanson served as organist and played a recital of appropriate music before the ceremony, later accompanying Mrs. Duane Loven, vocolist, who sang several sacred numbers.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father, by whom she was given in marriage. Procesional was the Bridal March by Wagner. Her gown of taffeta, designed with a scoop neckline, was enriched by Alencon lace and featured Mary Stuart sleeves and a basque waistline with a full gathered skirt which swept into a chapel train. KITCHEN KARNIVAL

MRS. WM. MEHRKENS, SR.

On the sunny exposures, the red rhubarb's already peeping through the soil, and the small-fry, perhaps remembering the rhubarb pie of last spring, is already drooling over the thought that there'll soon be more in the offing. Pop is keeping an eye on the patch too, no doubt, silently wondering. . .and waiting. This pie is one of the variations of the old spring stand-by. We received it from Mrs. William Mehrkens Sr. of Holt.

RHUBARB PIE

Fill unbaked pie shell with cut-up rhubarb. Mix together:
1 cup sugar
2 heaping tablespoons flour
pinch of salt
2 small eggs

Beat well. Pour this mixture over the rhubarb, dot with butter or margarine, and cover with pie crust which has been pricked to allow the escape of steam. Seal edges and flute. Bake in a hot (375-400 degree degree) oven for 30 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degrees and continue baking about a half hour or until tender when tested with a fork.

The Mehrkens are retired farmers who live in the village of Holt. They have seven children, all married. They are, Emma (Diercks), Lois (Avery), Selma (Voth), Verla (Hauschiedt), Luella (Peterson), and Carol (Anderson), who make their homes in St. Paul, Red Wing, Goodhue, and Sioux City, Ia., and William Jr., of Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Mehrkens likes sewing, especially making quilt tops and embroidering. She likes to work with the good earth, especially in raising vegetables, but she also raises some flowers.

Cancer Vaccine Is In Research Stage

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a series of "The Four Keys To Cancer Control". This article describes the search for an anti-cancer vaccine.)

By Pat McCrady
Science Editor
American Cancer Society

In scattered laboratories throughout the world a few scientists are seeking a cancer antigen. If they find it, many believe cancer control will be a relatively simple matter.

An antigen is a large molecule, such as a strange and specific protein, which exists in microbes and viruses but not in the human body. When an antigen-containing substance invades the body, the system produces antibodies which destroy the invader by attacking the antigens.

Viruses, such as those which cause smallpox and polio, contain the foreign molecules called antigens. Inoculation with dead viruses, weakened viruses or related but non-disease causing viruses containing the antigen causes the system to produce antibodies against disease-causing viruses. Virulent viruses then are destroyed promptly when they enter the antigen-alerted system.

Disease-causing cells, such as the bacillus of whooping cough, also contain an antigen; it is routine in medical practice to vaccinate babies against the more common of them.

A Cancer Vaccine?

If human cancer is caused by a virus, and if the virus can be isolated and grown in tissue or test tubes, the virus or its antigen then could be used as a cancer vaccine.

Even if cancer is not caused by a virus, but if all cancer cells contain a common antigen — which does not exist in normal cells — the cells or the antigen could be used as a vaccine.

With an antigen common to all human cancers, it would become possible to:

(1) Immunize against cancer just as it is now possible to immunize against polio and whooping cough; (2) Treat cancer patients with vaccines made from their own tumor or from pooled or cultured human tumors; or (3) Inject animals, like horses, with human tumor vaccine, harvest their antibody-loaded blood (antiserum) and inject the antiserum into cancer patients.

If it turns out that cancer cells produce an antigenic poison, or toxin, as many disease-causing cells do, it may be possible to immunize against the toxin as one does against tetanus or bring at least temporary relief from the poison with anti-toxin. Some feel it may even prove practical some day to immunize against common and potent cancer-causing molecules.

Scientists in Sweden, the Soviet Union, Japan and a few laboratories in the United States have reported evidence of a preliminary nature indicating that human cancer antigens do exist. The antigens are in a crude state; the evidence of their existence is circumstantial, not direct. Nevertheless, a few human experiments, bold or brilliant or both, already have been undertaken.

Vaccine Tests

In Sweden, several hundred aging but healthy people have been vaccinated with "antigen-containing" extracts of pooled human cancers. Because these people are at an age when many soon will come down with cancer, the tests may show within a very few years whether or not the vaccinations have offered any protection against cancer.

In Dallas and Buffalo, advanced cancer patients have been injected under or into the skin with preparations from their own cancers. The hope is that antibodies and other cancer-resisting substances will form, destroy the vaccine and then destroy cancers wherever they are in the body. A great majority of the patients have died of their disease; enough have shown response, however, to encourage continuation of the experiments.

Antibody substances (gamma globulin), produced by injecting horses with material from human tumors, have been tested against cancer in a few hundred patients. The trials, originating in Cleveland, now are being conducted on a small scale in a few other centers.

In Japan and in Houston, Texas, scientists have reported isolating in impure form a "toxohormone" produced by cancer cells from animals and humans. The tedious process of purifying the material is in progress. When this is done, it will be given a thorough testing for its biological effects and possible counter-measures.

Meanwhile, in many laboratories it has been found possible to immunize animals against transplanted cancers. The vaccines used so far, however, have proved to be specific for the kind of cancer from which they were made — not for the numerous other kinds of cancer.

Cancer immunization, still in its infancy, is an exciting field, which shows more and more promise of human application as a widening circle of scientists become interested in it.

David Rasmussen to Serve May 8-31 at N.D. Hospital

Forty-two second year medical students at the University of North Dakota have been assigned to clinical clerkships at hospitals in the state. The clerkships are from May 8-31 and are set up to give future doctors experience in patient contact, according to Dr. T. H. Harwood, dean of the Medical School. Included in the group is David Rasmussen of Thief River Falls, who will be stationed at a Valley City hospital.

The students are under the supervision of resident doctors, appointed by the school of medicine.

The students will return to the campus to receive bachelor of science degrees in medicine and the arts at UND commencement exercises, June 2. They will be honored at a luncheon in the ballroom of the Student Union at 11:45 that day. The luncheon is open to medical students, faculty, and staff, and their families and friends who have come for the graduation.

Second year medical students will transfer to other medical schools throughout the United States to complete the last two years of their medical training.

S-E-R-V-I-C-E. Service! That is the first order-of-the-day for every librarian. Service is the backbone of any public library and service is the one commodity that is always listed on the "Today's Specials" wherever business is good. . .and business is always good at your library.

Service, in the librarians' world, is not based on "front desk" work alone. Service to the public does not begin, nor end, with the checking in or out of a volume or a periodical. While one librarian is "waiting on trade" another may be searching diligently for a hard-to-run down fact, such as the number of feathers normally covering a blackbird; or how to repair asphalt roadways! Service, to the library's user and to the librarians on duty, is a word that covers a multitude!

Each duty of a librarian is but another way to give the best of what the library has to offer to the borrower, whether adult or juvenile. The purchasing of volumes, for entertainment or reference, is the duty of the head librarian, and the most important one, for without books your library would cease to be and there would be nothing to serve, consequently no one to be of service to! The selection of volumes, then, is the first service to the reading, knowing public.

How these volumes reach the hands of the borrowers is another story, and quite a lengthy one at that. Each step undertaken is necessary however, if the word "service" is to keep its meaning.

Each staff member tries to be as efficient, as impartial, as courteous as it is humanly possible to be. Each staff member gives of himself in order to meet the needs of the borrower. So whether ordering a new book, preparing it for the shelf, checking it in, or out, checking reference material, answering a telephone caller's request for a fact or figure, mending a book, typing a letter or a card, or any of the hundred and one duties performed by the librarian, each and every one is done for the sole purpose of service to the borrower at your public library.

Speaking of ordering books, several new ones are now ready for the shelves. Perhaps you'd like to read one, or another, or all.

Death, swift and ugly and violent, is the basis for "The Deed" by Gerald Frank. The volume is devoted to the description of the assassination of the first Baron Moyne, British minister of state in the middle east. His murderers, two very young men, aged 22 and 17, were members of the... Stern group. Nearly 20 years after the deed was done, the trial held and the hangman fulfilled his duty, the story is set down for all to read. [illegible] of facts, [illegible] the reader to judge for himself the act committed by the two young underground members. This is not a tale for the timid but it is an engrossing one for those who like to weigh the pro and the con.

"When the Legends Die", a new one by Hal Borland, is a gripping novel of a Ute Indian boy reared by his father, who had killed in self-defense, and a mother who ran away to the protectiveness of the hills to lead a secluded family life until death claimed both. The young Tom Black Bull, sullen, wild, restless, develops a talent for riding vicious horses when he returns to civilization. He then makes his talent work for him at rodeos, but he soon sickens of the unscrupulousness of the rodeo manager, and goes out on his own to eventually become one of the great bronco riders. He earns the name "Killer" because he has literally ridden horses to death. The author is a powerful writer and his vividness makes the rodeo scenes exciting. His characterization of the Ute grips your imagination and leaves you grasping for understanding of this lone, and lonely, man, reared in the ways of the forest creature and driven by the ways of man.

Please, dear borrowers, do not hasten to your Library on Tuesday, May 7, to take these two volumes home with you, for it will be closed. . .all day!

THERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT SOCIETY reporting that has invoked the ridicule of male readers and writers alike. Perhaps it is the masculine revolt against the fondness of women for flowery descriptions or the very complete attention paid to fashion and dress — particularly of women and particularly in wedding stories.

The following is something of a fictitious wedding story which you will never see printed on an actual occasion. Names and descriptions are purely fictitious and any resemblance to real persons should cause them to blush.

Blossom Buttercup, daughter of Mrs. J. L. Buttercup and the late Mr. Buttercup, was united in marriage Thursday noon to Mervin Misfit, transient laborer (on occasion) who has no home address. The ceremony was performed by Fora Proffitt, local justice of the peace before three of the bride's brothers and two bloodhounds.

Dressed in a loose-fitting pink dress, orange hat, green shoes and Argyle bobby-sox, the bride was given in marriage by her oldest brother Bill. The groom wore a borrowed blue suit with baggy trousers and shiny seat and a white shirt which buttoned down the front. His shoes were black leather with holes in the soles and covered with mud from his escapade in exercising the dogs. The couple wore no jewelry because they didn't have any.

Little Luke Buttercup, youngest brother of the bride, served as gun-bearer. Following the ceremony, which was cut short by the time allotment for the bride's coffee break, the groom was accompanied by his new brothers-in-law to look for a job. Personally, this reporter hopes he doesn't find any in town.

Complaint has been registered here by a private citizen who objected to high school students taking a short-cut through the courthouse when going from school to the downtown area and back again. The practice apparently started during the winter when the few steps in heated quarters were quite welcome. Need for it at this time of year, however, is somewhat doubtful.

In actuality, sinc students must go down one flight of stairs and up another to go through the courthouse — and open at least three doors in the process — there would be a saving in physical energy by not taking the short-cut. How about it kids? Won't the scenic route do in the summer?

Last week marked the 50th anniversary of the invention of the zipper, so it said in Norm Holen's "Topics of the Times" column. Tribute must be paid in verse to such a noteworthy event:

ODE TO A ZIPPER

Fifty years ago you were discovered,
Making it easy for us to be covered
Without using many other kinds of things
Like buttons, pins and clips and rings.

You surely are a many-toothed little creature;
Who could even think you up I'd feature
Some fair genius. He would, of course
Be someone with unbounded brain resource.

I know at times it seems a genius it would take
To mend your battered body if you brehk,
And some have truly lost their sanity
While using you and all sorts of profanity.

Oh, zipper, you are worth your weight in gold—
But worse than worthless when your clasp won't hold.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Laura Duerst

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

I wish to thank all the people who served on the various committees to make the Homemakers Achiement Day so successful.

A new drying process that produces fruit with bright color and fine flavor of sun-dried fruits has been developed by Agricultural Research Service, engineers in California. Fruits dried by the new technique — called "dry-blanch-dry" (DBD) — not only has the bright colors and fine flavors of sun dried fruit, but, when cooked, is actually moe like fresh fruit. Peeled peaches and pears, unknown on today's markets, can be dried to an attractive quality by the DBD process.

Although now more expensive than sun drying, the DBD process is much faster, and rising labor costs may reverse the economic disadvantage. The new process eliminates exposure to rain. In drying apples it eliminates the need for sulfuring, now required by mechanical drying of this fruit. Golden raisins can also be produced without sulfuring.

Oil and wax don't mix. Using an oil mop to dust a waxed floor may soften the wax, making it dull and smeary. Use a vacuum cleaner or a dry dust mop. If dust is difficult to pick up with a dry mop, dampen the mop slightly with a little water.

I have received several phone calls on the recipe that was in the paper last Monday. Here it is again. Hope everything is there this round.

Butterscotch Squares
¼ cup butter
2 cup brown sugar firmly packed
2 eggs
1½ cup flour
2 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup broken nuts or 1 cup dates

Melt butter in heavy sauce pan or skillet, add sugar and bring to a boil over low heat, stirring constantly. Cool. Add eggs, flour mixture, vanilla, and nuts or dates. Pour into greased cookie sheet. Bake 30-35 minutes at 300F. When slightly cool cut in squares.

Model Assembly Told To Rotary

Reports on the Model United Nations Assembly held recently in Winnipeg were given at the noon meeting of the Thief River Falls Rotary club held Monday at the Elks club held Monday at the Elks club rooms in Thief River Falls. The local Rotary club sponsored delegates to the seventh annual event which is conducted through Rotary club sponsorship in the United States and Canada.

Representing the local Rotary club and Lincoln high school at the event were John Aune and Brian Mostue, senior students, and Joe Mrkonich, social studies instructor. The local delegation was assigned to represent the Ukrainian SSR at this year's event.

Mrkonich introduced the students and reviewed some of the background activities of the event. He also commented on the international banquet held on the Saturday evening of the assembly — an extremely formal dinner with a multitude of silver and glassware held at the Royal Alexandra hotel. Speaker was His Excellency Michael Comay, Israeli Ambassador to the United Nations.

Brian Mostue reported on the business sessions of the assembly, stating that it is difficult to adopt the views of the country which is opposed to our normal line of thinking. Representing a communist country, as the Thief River Falls group did this year, is made more difficult by the sentiment expressed by free nation representatives at the assembly.

Resolutions discussed and acted upon by the assembly included the following: 1. The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees; 2. The United Nations Conference on Trade and Development; 3. The Question of General and Complete Disarmament; and 4. The Policies of Apartheid of the Government of the Reublic of South Africa.

John Aune reviewed the social portion of the trip, telling of the hospitality of the host family in Winnipeg and the functions attended. Dances were included in the social program as well as the international banquet. He expressed thanks to the Rotary club for sponsoring the trip and helping to support the Model U. N. project.

MODEL United Nations activity was provided at Winnipeg recently for this delegation from Thief River Falls Lincoln high school. Left to right are students Brian Mostue and John Aune and advisor Joe Mrkonich. Representing Ukrainian SSR at this year's event, the delegation was faced with the problem of trying to act as they believed delegates of a communist nation would act at the United Nations. Sponsored by Rotary clubs in the United States and Canada, the seventh model UN assembly was attended by a large number of high school seniors and advisors.

OPTIMISM is running high in the rural areas this spring and seeding is well underway in most portions of Pennington county. In the above photo is Merle Dagen who farms three and one-half miles northwest of Thief River Falls. Last year he was unable to plant a kernel of grain on his farm of more than 400 acres. When this photo was taken Thursday, Dagen had already planted grain on 93 acres this spring. To facilitate filling his drill, he parked his truck on the edge of the road, backed the drill up to the truck and loaded loose grain with a shovel.

Lakehead Pipeline Contracts Awarded

Contracts have been awarded for the laying of 167 miles of crude oil pipe line this sumer in Manitoba and Minnesota, it was announced today by R. E. Trammell, general manager of Interprovincial Pipe Line company.

In a line-looping program now estimated to cost $18,500.00 this year, Interprovincial and its United State subsidiary, Lakehead Pipe Line Co. Inc. are continuing a program begun last year when 38 miles of 34-inch pipe was laid southwest of Bemidji.

Contract for construction of 41 miles in Manitoba has been awarded to Bannister Construction Limited. Four separate sections are planned, each about 10 miles long, extending west from Souris, Glenboro, Manitou and Gretna. July 2 has been set as the starting date.

In Minnesota, two 63-mile schedules are planned, with Mannix Construction, Inc., of Minneapolis, securing one and Williams Brothers company, of Tulsa., getting the other. The Mannix portion stretches from a point about 10 miles west of Donaldson to just east of Cass Lake, while the Williams section reaches from Cass Lake to Wrenshall.

Construction on the Minnesota looping is scheduled to begin on July 1, although Williams Brothers have expressed their intention of starting clearing the right-of-way early in May.

Pipe for the United States Looping is being supplied from the A. O. Smith corporation plant in Milwaukee. The 34-inch pipe will be the largest yet produced in the Milwaukee plant. Alberta Phoenix Tube and Pipe Ltd., will supply the big-inch pipe for the Canadian portion from its plant in Calgary.

'U' Economist Reviews Issues in Wheat Vote

Some of the issues behind the 1964 wheat referendum upon which wheat farmers will vote May 21, are outlined this week by a University of Minnesota agricultural economist.

Elmer Learn says the overall wheat situation is so complex that no amount of analysis can point to any obvious choice. Each grower must consider his own income in terms of level and stability, the extent to which he feels government intervention in the wheat market is desirable, how he feels about controls — mandatory or voluntary — and other factors.

Wheat, says Learn, illustrates the problem basic to American agriculture generally. Too many resources are devoted to agricultural production in relation to what consumers demand. The result is either government programs or lower than satisfactory returns to producers, at least in the short run.

If resource adjustment is to be accomplished, Learn continues, there are two broad choices: either government - sponsored programs can be used to adjust resources while maintaining prices and incomes, or the adjustment may be accomplished through the market, under pressure of lower prices and income.

"The market is an undiscriminating device and may be painful," according to Learn. "On the other hand, government programs do impose restraints on individuals."

He says that wheat represents the most critical of all commodity problems. Stocks of wheat in government storage have continued to grow. By July 1, 1961, carryover stocks reached a peak of 1.4 million bushels — more than enough for a full year's domestic and export requirements. Even so, recent years have seen about 400 million bushels of wheat, or two-thirds of our wheat exports, being sold under special programs.

As a result of the growing crisis in wheat surpluses, Learn says, the 1964 wheat program has been proposed to face the situation in more clear terms than in the past. "The alternatives presented in the referendum are by no means the only ones and perhaps not the best of all possible alternatives," he says. "But the referendum does force farmers to make a very clear-cut decision with regard to wheat."

The basic choice in the 1964 referendum is between a "yes" vote which would put into operation a program to reduce wheat production resources through mandatory government regulations and a "no" vote which would leave greater decision making freedom to producers but lower levels of prices and incomes.

The choice is not made once and for all through the 1964 referendum—regardless of how the vote goes. In case of a "no" vote, Congress could conceivably pass new legislation. If the referendum passes, it wouldn't necessarily mean the same program for 1965.

Learn adds that consequences of the referendum will extend to more than wheat. To some extent, wheat farmers also produce feed grains. Unlimited production of wheat would be inconsistent with limitations on feed grain production.

"In the early 1950's," Learn continues, "we had limitations on wheat but very loose controls on feed grains, giving rise to a shift in resources to feed grain production. Through voluntary programs, in the current administration, we got controls on feed grains, but at a relatively high government expense."

Recent action on Congress helps answer some of the questions about the relationship between wheat and feed grain programs. The House of Representatives last week passed a feed grain bill providing for restrictions on feed grain production on a voluntary basis. "Therefore," Learn says, "Congress is apparently willing to continue a voluntary program on feed grain along with mandatory restrictions on wheat."

Lincoln Students on Lions Program

Brian Mostue, John Aune Report on Winnipeg UN

Brian Mostue and John Aune, Lincoln high school seniors, told the Lions club last Wednesday of their experiences while attending the recent Model United Nations sessions in Winnipeg, their participation having been sponsored by the local Rotary club.

Joe Mrkonich, their advisor, who accompanied the youths to Winnipeg, also spoke briefly. The two boys gave highlights of the sessions, at which they served as delegates from Ukrainia of the USSR. The affair closed with a banquet at the Royal Alexandria Hotel, at which the principal speaker was the ambassador from Israel.

The speakers at the Luncheon were introduced by James Wilson, program chairman.

> "Disarmament is a mirage. I don't mean it is indistinct or delusive. I mean it isn't there. Every ship, every plane could be scrapped, every stockpile destroyed, every soldier mustered out, and if the original reasons for holding arms were still present, the world would not have been disarmed. Arms would simply be in a momentary state of suspension, preparatory to new and greater arms."

General Clay Again

General Lucius Clay, head of an advisory group appointed by President Kennedy to study the foreign aid program, and who recommended substantial cuts in appropriations for such aid, is not satisfied with the downward adjustments that were recommended by the President. In appearing before the House Foreign Affairs Committee he suggested that an additional cut of $200 million be made.

The White House request had been for $4.9 billion. Following the committee's report President Kennedy suggested a reduction of $400 million. General Clay favored cutting this down to $4.3 billion.

We like this man Clay and we would have much more confidence in our ability to survive as a free nation if we had more like him in Washington. Presumably he is primarily concerned with the stability of our own economy as being essential to the survival of our concept of freedom. It appears that his primary concern is not the next election.

The Public Interest

Many interesting ideas are being advanced as to how costly strikes and work stoppages can be avoided. There seems to be general agreement that better procedures for settling labor disputes must be found. There are, of course, wide differences of opinion as to what those procedures should be.

The Engineering News-Record of New York, expresses the fear that public exasperation with the present jungle-law approach may result in laws that would be still more harmful to both management and labor. Pointing out that public interest is involved in most of these disputes, it suggests that public interest be given greater consideration, and representation at the bargaining tables. It states:

> "If the President's complex and far-reaching guideposts for non-inflationary wage and price decisions are to be effective, and if public opinion is ever-going to be a significant influence for right or wrong in collective bargaining, the public itself must somehow be introduced to the fundamental issues and intricacies of the bargaining process.
> "If the public has a stake in bargaining—which everyone seems to admit—it has a right to that introduction and a right to know what is going on. That right accrues beyond question whenever labor and management fail by default to discharge their obligations to the public, and resort to strikes or lockouts. In view of the storm clouds now gathering on the horizon, the present would seem to be a propitious time to start that introduction."

Lunar Lunacy

Just a few years ago we were shocked into the realization that Russia had made spectacular progress in the exploration of space. Sputnik was the first man-made satellite placed in orbit.

Now we are engaged in a tremendously costly race for supremacy in space. It is heralded generally as the race between the free world and Communism. Actually it is our country, representing the free world, versus Russia. Our country is paying the bill for the "free world" performance.

Under the circumstances it is interesting to get the reactions of a prominent British scientist on this space race in which we have become so heavily involved. Incidentally, he favors our side. Expressing a Canadian point of view is the following comment by the Financial Post of Toronto:

> "Dr. R. L. F. Boyd, British physicist, has said something original about the race to the moon. He thinks the Russians may be stringing the Americans along.
> "Moscow's plan, he suggests, may be to get the U. S. fully committed to spending $20 billion to $40 billion on putting a man on the moon, and all geared up for the attempt, and then to announce that the Soviet Union would not dream of spending money so foolishly.
> "Boyd is not an Englishman crying sour grapes. One of Britain's top space scientists, he belongs to the official Anglo-American committee on space co-operation.
> "He is against moon shots as a waste of funds. He says 90 per cent of the information they might yield is obtainable by observation from the earth. He is "ashamed" that space explorers can get all the money they ask for while medical research is starved.
> "One of the cliches of this argument is that man must satisfy his limitless curiosity and use his inventive powers to the full. This is true as a theoretical proposition but of course it is not the reason for the lunar competition.
> "The moon, conceivably, could be a base for missiles and H-bombs. Whether it could or not, getting to the moon first will impress a lot of Asians and Africans. They are going to be convinced of the technical superiority of the country, and the economic system, that manages the feat.
> "It seems quite certain that, were it not for these military and political profits from the scheme, neither Russia nor the U. S. would be bothering about the moon. They would be spending the money on cancer research, irrigating deserts and a hundred other jobs waiting to be done on earth.
> "What it comes to is that a settlement of the Soviet-American quarrel is necessary not only for peace but for the best use of humanity's resources."

Wheat Referendum

Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman has moved all of his vast field organization into the areas where wheat is grown to explain the administration's control plan to wheat growers who will decide this month whether or not the plan should be adopted. The plan has strong support and also strong opposition among farm groups. It will be an interesting election.

The government's wheat program from the start has been unsound in that it has encouraged the growing of low quality wheat in areas of the country that normally were not considered as being in wheat producing territory. Farmers in some states are now growing wheat that isn't good chicken feed and are getting the same support protection that is available to the growers of hard wheat in our northern states.

The Bureau of Economics Studies of Macalester College, in St. Paul, conducted a study of the problem recently and in a 40-page report, states that farmers in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Montana could increase wheat plantings in 1964 and enjoy expanded markets—rather than cutting them back as the law requires, because the high quality of hard, red spring wheat raised in the area is actually in short supply. The report explains that if the wheat referendum is favored by two-thirds of those voting:

> "It will lock in artificial benefits for unneeded wheats, but only at the expense of spring wheat farmers and their well-earned rights to great production and good dollar markets, both here and abroad, for our best bread wheat."

On the strength of this study, and much other corroborating evidence, we are satisfied that the administration's wheat program is not in the best interests of our area.

Which Group?

John Weber, in his Murray County Herald, says the Minnesota Education Association is deeply worried about the growth of the State Federation of Teachers and has recently issued a statement to the effect that members of the teachers union should be barred from high office in the M.E.A.

Weber thinks this is the wrong approach to the problem, stating:

> "The association apparently hasn't had as much experience with unions as most industries in the state. If it had, it would know that it is handling its union problems in exactly the wrong way.
> "Barring federation members in this way will only encourage independent-minded teachers to join the union. There is no quicker way to make a true independent do something than to tell him he can't."

We have no idea what the right answer is to this particular problem and we will let the good people in the M.E.A. do the worrying about it. But if the union takes over the M.E.A. then, no doubt, another organization would be formed, made up of those educators who are primarily interested in the professional status of teachers.

In this problem of public education, the first concern should be the public interest, which has to do with such things as the quality of education as well as the cost. All good citizens are for the best educational facilities they can afford, making available to their young people all of the educational opportunities they are capable of absorbing and inclined seriously to seek.

It is just as sinful to spend the taxpayer's dollars wastefully for education as to spend them wastefully for any other purpose. Because education in a good case, favored by all, the spending of education dollars does not get the close scrutiny by good citizens that other public expenditures receive. For that reason, we suspect, more of our tax dollars, spent for education, at all levels, are wasted.

And this is one of the public interest problems that is involved in the question as to which group is going to dominate the operation of our schools.

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

by Governor
KARL ROLVAAG

There has been much said and written in recent weeks about Minnesota's mental health programs, and what must be done to improve them. I consider advancements in the fields of mental health and mental retardation as one of the primary objectives of our state.

A Former Leader

Minnesota has been a leader in programs for the mentally ill and the mentally retarded. It is almost 100 years since our first hospital for the mentally ill was opened at St. Peter. Nearly three-quarters of a century has passed since a Faribault institution for the mentally retarded was opened. These institutions represented early efforts on behalf of our people to find solutions to the problems of mental illness.

Dedicated Staffs

No one would claim that serious overcrowding, low staff pay, and understaffed institutions do not exist today in our mental treatment centers. These are very real problems and should be of great concern to all. I think it might be said that it is the credit of those many individuals and groups who have worked hard to strengthen programs to alleviate mental illness, rather than constant efforts by the state, which has provided impetus for progress in this area.

Progress Indicated

Minnesota has made many significant beginnings. Ten years ago, there were more than 11,000 men and women patients. Today there are about 8,000. Behind this important trend are many reasons, including new drugs, increased staff, improved medical and psychiatric treatment, increased community services, and new aid understanding from county welfare boards. Yet much more must be done.

Cost Per Patient Up

The per capita daily cost per patient has gone up. In 1953 we spent about $3.00 per day on each mental hospital patient and $2.62 for the mentally retarded. Today we spend $5.38 for the mentally ill ($5.40 is the national average) and $4.13 for the retarded. We could wisely and usefully spend considerably more, but this is a significant beginning.

Local Health Centers

The community mental health center program, developed in recent years, now serves 80 percent of our state's population. These centers are, perhaps, the most potentially important new development in the field of mental health. Already they have helped focus the problem of mental illness in the community. Instead of locking the problem and the patient in a distant institution, we now have community centers where public health and rehabilitations programs can reach them. We now have 17 such centers throughout Minnesota making early treatment available and helping greatly to reduce hospital loads.

Long Road Ahead

While we have made progress in some areas of our mental health programs, there is still a long road ahead. Among many recommendations I made to our legislature a short time ago are: to encourage, through a $2 million grant-in-aid, and increase in community mental health service programs until they provide adequate coverage for the state's population; employ urgently needed new personnel for our mental hospitals to give more individual attention to patients; establish daytime activities centers for the mentally retarded; establish an interim commission to study the laws affecting commitment, treatment, and release of mental patients.

An Open Door

We stand at an open door. No medical program can stand still; it must move forward or it becomes obsolete. We must be willing and prepared to implement those that are relevant to Minnesota's problems.

Social Security Man Here Tuesday

Offers Help to Persons Planning on Retirement

A representative of the Grand Forks district office of the Social Security administration will be in Thief River Falls at the city Auditorium Tuesday, May 7, at 10:00 a.m. Individuals who have questions regarding social security or who wish to file claims may contact him on that date.

"The social security office will be glad to help you plan in advance of your retirement, so you may be fully informed about applying for social security retire benefits," said Walter D. Kistler, manager of the Grand Forks office.

"Three ages are important in this connection: age 62, if you wish to start getting benefits early at a reduced rate; age 65, if you retire at that age (full benefits); and age 72, if you are still working ... since full benefits are payable then regardless of your earnings."

Carnegie Library Delegates Attend Disrict Meeting

Representatives from Carnegie Public library board and staff will attend the district library meeting Tuesday from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. at Moorhead Public Library. District meetings are jointly sponsored by the Minnesota Library association and the library division of the state department of education.

The business meeting will cover current state developments, MLA activities and current legislation. The afternoon program will include a section on programming for cooperation between public and school libraries.

Attending from the library board will be Mrs. A. E. Jacobson, Mrs. H. O. Chommie, Mrs. Lloyd Bennes, Mrs. L. B. Hartz and Mrs. Stanton Dahlen. Staff members attending will be Miss Frances Shanahan, librarian, Mrs. Earl Gjernes and Miss Bertha Hastad.

Heads Appropriations

Rep. Fitzsimons Chairman of Powerful Committee

(Editor's Note: The following story was supplied by the House Conservative Caucus in St. Paul and is published to increase public knowledge of the state Legislature and its operation.)

"One of the most powerful and able men in the Legislature" — those words have been used many times this session by veteran Capitol observers in describing Richard W. Fitzsimons, chairman of the all-important House appropriations committee.

Fitzsimons, a 41-year-old Argyle farmer, is presently serving his sixth term in the Legislature. For five of those terms, he has served on the appropriations committee and this year assumed the chairmanship when the conservatives organized the House.

These same Capitol observers agree that Fitzsimons has met the serious responsibilities of his position with dignity and firmness.

He has directed the activities of the 29-member appropriations committee (17 conservatives and 12 liberals) on a literal day-and-night schedule since the first week of the session in January. His committee is the only House group to meet on a daily basis. Add to this schedule the many subcommittee meetings, and a grand total of more than 3,000 man-hours of time have been spent in the process of bringing the appropriations bills before the House.

It is safe to say that the appropriations committee actually controls every area of state government—through management of the state's purse strings. Fitzsimons has worked closely with subcommittee chairmen in watching requests for funds from all departments.

Now, in the closing days of the session, chairman Fitzsimons role is even more important. He has the power, under House rules, to bring any and all appropriations bills up for consideration at any time, and when his request is made all other House business is stopped and these matters are given immediate attention.

Fitzsimons will also play an important role in suggesting names of men to be appointed to the Senate-House conference committees on appropriations. This is the group of men who will hammer out the final details of the appropriations bills and present them in final form to both bodies of the legislature. Incidentally, only minor differences exist between the House and Senate bills.

A total of $649,710,177.26 in direct appropriations has been approved by Fitzsimon's committee to operate state activities for the next biennium. This figure includes money for education, welfare and corrections, highways (excluding those which are financed by gas tax receipts) state departments and semi-state departments.

The final appropriations bill — for state buildings — was expected to be reported out in the next two or three days. This program is not financed by direct appropriations, but rather through the sale of long-term bonds by the state.

Chairman Fitzsimons stated this week that he is certain that the recommendations for expenditure made by his appropriations committee can be met without additional or increased taxes.

"We have studied every request most carefully. Each department head has appeared before our committee, and we have checked their requests, item-by-item. I might say that we have been able to trim quite a bit of "fat" from some of the requests that were made of us," Fitzsimons stated.

As one capitol newsman stated recently, "The Legislature could use more men like Argyle farmer Fitzsimons. He knows his job, and he has performed an excellent service for all of the people of Minnesota."

RICHARD W. FITZSIMONS

CHAIRMAN of the powerful House appropriations committee in the Minnesota Legislature is Richard Fitzsimons, Argyle farmer, serving his sixth term in the House of Representatives. He has served on the appropriations committee for five of his six terms and was named chairman when the conservatives organized the House this year

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor the Times:

My friend, Drenz Bjornaraa, sent me "Looking Backwards" from your April 11 edition. It tells about the firm of Kohn and Fiterman who took over the Chevrolet dealership at that time. In fact, there was no Chevrolet dealer in town. At the time Ford was the popular car. We worked like demons to sell 12 passenger cars the first year and we wound up with a book profit of $328, with which my former partner was exceedingly pleased because he felt it was an indication that we would move ahead rather than go busted.

My former partner retired about 15 years ago and has since been living in Pacific Palisades, California.

I remarried and have a 4-year-old daughter. It looks like I am starting from scratch again.

Referendum Rally for Wheat Vote Slated Thursday

Farm Organizations Form Committees for Sponsorship of Rallies

A farmers' rally in support of the wheat referendum on May 21 and a strong rural area development program for northern Minnesota will be held in the Thief River Falls city auditorium at 8:30 p.m., Thursday, May 9.

The northwest Minnesota meeting is sponsored by the Minnesota Citizens Wheat Information Committee and the Citizens Wheat committees of Pennington and neighboring counties, William B. Pearson, master of the Minnesota Grange and chairman of the Citizens Wheat Information committee, said the rally is seeking to encourage greater farmer participation in all programs, whether something as immediate as the wheat referendum or as long-range as rural development.

Local people in charge of the program include Carl R. Anderson and Clarence L. Peterson of Thief River Falls, and John L. Radniecki of Trail, members of the Pennington Citizens committee, plus local farm cooperative officials.

Speakers at the program will include Elmo Mahoney, Kansas wheat farmer and staff consultant to the ASCS in Washinton D.C., who will tell how the new wheat and feed grain programs are expected to affect farmers' income next year.

Ben Wichterman, member of Minnesota ASC state committee, will explain the wheat and feed grain choices that farmers have next year. He also will spell out the alternative choices farmers have in the May 21 wheat referendum.

Art Hanson, Minnesota Farm Home Administration chief and leader in Rural Area Development, will put forth some of the opportunities farmers have to capitalize on rural development programs in northern Minnesota, with emphasis on need for long-time planning. In addition to the Citizens wheat information committees, the meeting is being sponsored by all the major farm organizations in the state except one.

May 13 Deadline for Small Wheat Growers to Sign

ASC Office Reminds Growers Wishing to Share in Wheat Vote May 21

Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office, stated today that all wheat producers with allotments of less than 15 acres who wish to vote in the wheat referendum on May 21, must sign the copy of their allotment notice and return it to the county ASCS office not later than May 13.

He said that this is the first year since wheat allotments have been in effect that growers with allotments of not more than 15 acres have the right to express their opinion on the acreage allotment program for 1964.

Culkins pointed out that even though the producer returns the copy of the allotment notice to the county office, he is under no obligation to vote, but by returning the notice by May 13 he will have the same privileges of securing price support and certificates as other growers, providing he seeds within the allotment established for the farm.

He stated further that the operator is the person who must sign and send the notice back to the county office, instead of the owner, because if the operator decides to vote in the referendum, all persons who have an interest in the wheat crop are entitled to vote, and are eligible for certificates and price support on their share of the crop.

Detailed information relative to eligibility to vote is available at the county ASCS office.

Bemidji, RLF Bow to Prowler Nine

Getting route-going performances from pitchers Tony Poole and Rick Jensen, coach Ralph Skay's baseball Prowlers scored a pair of wins during the weekend. Righthander Poole, surviving a shaky first inning, when Bemidji bunched three hits to score a pair of runs, pitched the Prowlers to a 10 to 3 win over the Lumberjacks in a game played here Friday night. And on Saturday afternoon, Jensen, a righthander, held coach Mike Hajostek's Red Lake Falls Eagles to but two hits to register a 3 to 0 win on the Fair Grounds diamond.

In Friday night's game here, which was played in 38-degree weather, the defending regional champion Bemidji Lumberjacks took an early lead as coach Horace May's squad scored a pair of runs in the first inning. Steve Dale opened with a single, and, after Bob Shadlow and Marv Hanson had been retired, John Dow lined a wrong-field double into left field to score Dale. Jerry Fossand walked, and then Tom Matthews, a right-handed batter, looped a double into right field, scoring Dow.

The Prowlers, in the second, took advantage of five bases on balls to score two runs and knot the game. And in the fourth inning the locals tallied seven runs as the Bemidji club experienced pitching troubles, with coach May sending three hurlers to the mound in an effort to get dependable pitching, but to no avail. Poole's double off Bob Saeger, scoring a pair of runs, was the "Power" blow of the uprising.

On Saturday afternoon the Prowlers played errorless ball behind the shutout pitching of Jensen to rack up a 3 to 0 win over Red Lake Falls in a conference tilt.

Tony Roy hurled creditable ball for the Eagles, giving up but three hits, all in the third inning, and whiffed six batsmen. In the run-producing inning, Dave Ellingson opened with a single to right field, Jensen, attempting to sacrifice, beat out the bunt for a hit. John Hellquist singled to right field, scoring Ellingson. Bob Olson struck out; Mark Anderson drew a walk; and Jerry Erickson bounced to shortstop, with Jensen scoring on the play and Erickson reaching first on the fielder's choice. Don Mathieu skied to right field, scoring Hellquist after the catch for the Prowlers' third run of the inning.

N.W. Conference Sets Meet in TRF Tuesday

Coach Rod Max' Prowler track squad will attempt to win its third successive Northwest conference track and field title on Tuesday, May 7, as the five-member group competes in its sixth annual tournament on the Lincoln athletic field here. The preliminary heats in the running events, and several of the field events, will begin at 10:00 a. m.

Team title-winning squads since 1957, when the Northwest conference inaugurated its track and field tournament, have been Crookston, 1957; Bemidji, 1958; Roseau, 1959; East Grand Forks, 1960; and Thief River Falls in 1961 and '62.

The Prowlers, with two conference record-holders on the squad in Paul Klungness and Brian Lofberg, have been installed as the tournament favorites. But the Bemidji Lumberjacks, led by their 880-yard record-holding Gary Lockner, and the Roseau Rams, with strength in the weight events in Jerry Swenson, are expected to press the local squad.

Coach Max's Prowlers participated in the Dragon Relays at Moorhead on Saturday, and earned third place in the team standings with 31 points. The Moorhead high school Spuds, showing fine all-round strength, piled up 60 points to win the team title. Breckenridge, with 32 points, edged out the Prowlers to gain second place. Brian Lofberg won the Prowlers' lone first place, winning the discus throw. And Jim Ranum picked up a third place in the event. The Prowlers' sprint medley team of Orrin Joppru, Ron Olson, Paul Klungness and Rolf Wangberg set a school mark of 3:48, but were edged out of first place by Montevideo's record-setting 3:47.7.

Eli Lee, with a leap of 10' 8", had a third place in the pole vault; Steve Mittelstadt gained a fourth in the high jump; Klungness had seconds in the 100-yard dash and broad jump; and the Prowler 440-yard, 880-yard, and mile relay squads picked up points.

Northwest Conference Track and Field records:

100-yard dash — Paul Klungness (TRF), 10.2.
220-yard dash — Paul Klungness (TRF), 22.2.
440-yard dash — Ray Cronk (Bem) 51.0.
880-yard run — Gary Lockner (Bem), 2:07.6.
Mile run — Vic Lundemo (Ros), 4:45.1.
120-yard high hurdles — Norm Bolstad (EGF) and Larry Ryback (Bem), 16.6.
180-yard low, hurdles — Paul Klungness (TRF), 20' 8".
880-yard relay — Thief River Falls (Don Nicholson, Arvid Lee, Orrin Joppru, Gary Klungness), 1:37.1.
Mile relay — Bemidji (Warner, Stevens, Pool, Cronk), 3:43.7.
Shot put — Jerry Swenson (Ros), 47' 11".
Discus throw — Brian Lofberg (TRF), 135' 11".
Pole vault — Carter Batchelder (Bem) 11' ½"
Broad jump — Paul Klungness (TRF), 21' 1½".
High jump — Jim Patten (Bem), 5' 9".

Making Progress

That group of former Ninth District American Legion baseball players — Arlo Brunsberg of Fertile, Roger Sinner of Fergus Falls, Ken Weber of Ada, and Corky Johnson of Bemidji — continue to make progress in professional baseball.

Brunsberg, who was a famed athlete at Concordia college, is a member of the Detroit Tigers' farm team in the Sally league, being one of three catchers on the Knoxville Smokies roster. Arlo was given the honor of catching the Smokies' season-opening game.

Sinner, a right-handed pitcher, is with the Tacoma Giants of the triple A Pacific Coast league. He is just one step away from the majors, and in his first appearance on the mound, in relief of bonus pitcher Bob Garibaldi, Roger pitched eight innings of fine ball, getting credit for the win, and whiffing nine batsmen. The San Francisco Giants are handling the Fergus Falls youth very carefully, and it's my guess that he will be given a chance with the big club in a year or two.

Bemidji's Johnson is, for the third year, with the El Paso Sun Kings of the Double A Texas league. Corky, a righthanded pitcher who was signed by the San Francisco Giants while pitching for the Erskine Merchants of Northern Minny league, had a splendid training season and has hurled well for the Texas club. Corky explained that he would rather be taking his regular turn with El Paso than sitting on the bench or doing relief duty for the Tacoma club.

And Neil Junker, who caught for the Thieves one year, and who is a younger brother of the Prowlers' basketball coach Jack Junker, is with the Kansas City A's Eastern league farm club, the Binghamton Triplets. Neil is one of two catchers on the Binghamton roster, and he has been rated as the club's number one receiver.

Well, That's Settled

Paul Klungness, the Prowlers' well-publicized four-sport athlete who has been the object of the "recruiters" of a number of "big name" colleges, has decided to cast his lot with Dartmouth University.

Paul has informed Dartmouth's football coach, Bob Blackman, that he will be a candidate for the 1963 Dartmouth freshman football team. Paul was one of the 800 students in the Class of 1967 that was selected by the Dartmouth authorities from among 3700 candidates.

One of the reasons, perhaps, why Paul chose the Big Green of Dartmouth, is that the school has only 3200 students, and is located in the small community of Hanover, New Hampshire. There is an advantage in attending a school where your student-faculty relationship is on a more intimate basis than at the 15,000 and 25,000 student schools. The fact that Peter Prichard is attending Dartmouth perhaps had some influence on Paul's decision, too.

Commented coach Blackman: "I know that Paul Klungness will be a big asset to our Dartmouth squads for the next four years, and I'm very pleased that he hurdled our strict academic requirements."

Miscellany

Jackie Poole, a star performer with the Prowler hockey and baseball squads in 1954, '55, and '56, and this season a member of the Green Bay Bob Cats hockey team and a member of the United States team in the world's hockey tournament, was a visitor in town this past week. Jack, visiting his parents here, was a spectator at Friday night's Bemidji vs. Prowlers baseball game, and enjoyed brother Tony's pitching win over the Lumberjacks. Jack will be returning to Green Bay this week and he will be accompanied on his return trip by younger brother Larry, who will seek employment in Green Bay. Jackie, and perhaps Larry, too, expects to attend the Olympic hockey squad tryouts next season. . .And there is a possibility that another Poole, Joey, will also become an Olympic squad prospect. It is rumored that Joey is considering entering the teaching profession. Joey carried a degree from the University of North Dakota, where he was stellar player on an NCAA hockey championship squad, and if he can gain acceptance by a school in the vicinity of the Twin Cities, he will join the teaching ranks. . .The "Camp Friendly" fishing group (members of the Prowler coaching staff and secretary-treasurer Maynard Troland) held an organizational meeting at Bob Gannler's one night last week. Various fines and assessments were levied in preparation for the opening-day fishing trip on May 18. The party will fish the Lake of the Woods area, but there is a report that other anglers intending to fish the Wheeler's Point waters will be putting up quarantine signs to restrict the "Camp Friendly" group to the bulrush area in Four Mile Bay.

Baudette Bridge Tolls Are Raised

Span Was Operated with $19,000 Deficit in 1962

The coupon rate for a car and driver to cross the international traffic bridge between Baudette and Rainy River went to a dollar May 1, and the non-coupon rate went back to that set by home and housing finance agency when the bridge opened—$1.25.

The council reluctantly upped the ante after nearly two years experience showed that the lower rate did not produce enought money, the Baudette Region reports.

When the rates were lowered, it was done in the hope traffic increase would more than offset the lower revenue. The reverse proved true, however, and in 1962 the difference between rvenue and obligation was $7,000 more than in 1961.

When operating expense and interest on indebtedness were combined the bridge lost $12,000 in 1961 and $19,000 in 1962.

Law Revised as to Accident Reports

Restrictions Eased on Traffic Mishap Reports

Motor vehicle operators in Minnesota will not have to report traffic accidents in which they are involved unless the accident resulted in injury to or death of a person or a total property damage to an apparent extent of $100 or more, according to an amendment passed by the legislature last week.

In the past, all traffic accidents resulting in a total property damage of an apparent extent of $50, or the injury or death to a person, had to be reported to the highway department.

Effective April 18, 1963, the law, Section 1, Minnesota Statute 169.09 now reads:

"The driver of a vehicle involved in an accident resulting in injury to or death of a person or total property damage to an apparent extent of $100 or more, shall promtly forward a written report of the accident to the commissioner (of Highways). If, in the opinion of the commissioner, the original report of any driver of a vehicle involved in an accident of which report must be made as provided in this section is insufficient he may require the driver to file supplementary reports."

During 1962, reports of more than 80,000 accidents were received in the accident records section of the Dept. of Highways, and in the first three months of this year reports of 24,190 accidents were received.

Fertile Defeats Prowler Nine 5-2

The Prowlers' Dick Johnson and Fertile's Rod Olson hooked up in a righthanded pitching duel at Fertile on Wednesday night, and the stocky Fertile fast-balling pitcher gained the decision as the Fertile Falcons defeated the Prowlers, 5 to 2, in a well-played game.

Coach Ralph Skay's club will travel to Crookston on Monday afternoon for a district conference game against the Central Pirates, with game time slated for 4:30 p. m. On Wednesday night, May 8, the Roseau Rams will play the Prowlers in a night game on the Fair Grounds diamond here.

Wednesday night's game at Fertile, which was a wind-blown affair, was scoreless until the last half of the third inning when, with two men out, the Falcons tallied a pair of runs. Johnson struck out Don Erickson and Greg Gullickson, but then experienced a spell of control trouble and issued walks to Bob Gullickson, Harold Gast, and Rod Olson. With the bases loaded, Paul Sannes looped a handle-hit over second base, scoring Gullickson and Gast.

The Falcons added three runs to their total in the fifth inning on walks to Gullickson and Sannes and doubles by Olson and Don Mosher.

The Prowlers notched their two runs in the sixth inning. Dave Erickson gained a "life" when the Falcons' shortstop booted a ground ball. A passed ball moved Nobby to second base. John Aune lofted a pop fly to second; but Tony Poole's line single to left scored Erickson. Poole, after stealing second base, came around to score on Bob Gullickson's high throw to first base after fielding Jack Leedahl's ground ball.

During the game, Olson whiffed 18 Prowler batsmen, and gave up but one walk. Olson struck out every batter in the Prowler lineup except Aune. Johnson hurled a strong game for the locals, getting ten strikeouts, giving up but four hits, and issued seven walks.

Life in Yugoslavia . . .

Former TRF Girl Is Married to Diplomat

By Flora Allison
Times Society Reporter

"Iossi, American Embassy, Beograde, Jugoslavia," reads the return address on many letters delivered to the Curtiss V. Nelson home in this city. The post-mark, the brightly-colored stamps bring awareness of the fact that the Issis live in a Communist land, Tito's stronghold. The letters tell of their mission there, and a way of life quite different from our own.

Janet Iossi, daughter of the Nelsons, is a Lincoln high school graduate, later graduating cum laude from the University of Minnesota where her husband graduated magna cum laude. Mr. Iossi's two field trips for the government during his four years of civil service helped provide the incentive for a career in the diplomatic service. One such trip was to Europe, the other to Latin America.

Since his wife was eager for the experience of living in Europe and the children, Paul 4, and Peter 2, were too young to have roots anywhere, their father signed up for three years in Yugoslavia. Although life is strange there, they know the importance of their mission, which is to acquaint those who ask with the truth of life in America. Mr. Iossi, formerly with the Budget Bureau, now is Executive Officer Attache with the US Information Agency (USIA).

Leaving Washington, D. C., in September by plane, they were four days enroute, spending two days in Madrid, Spain, which they recall as being "horribly crowded, reminiscent of shopping at sales back home." They also stopped in Zurich, Switzerland.

A Different World

Preparation for a three-year stint in Yugoslavia called for extensive planning. They shopped for bed linens, cards, thread, zippers, but found that some of these items could be bought in Italy or Austria, a day-and-a-half drive from Belgrade. Part of their possessions, although sent by insured air freight, still took a month to reach them. Their car and surface shipment required three months in transit!

Once, in a letter, Mrs. Iossi stated that the lights had gone out. This she later discovered to be by no means an infrequent occurrence. Outside her window, she stated, "You could expect most anything to go by — from a push-cart to a trailer-truck." They found Belgrade to be "more modern than expected, although the modernity is only a facade. . .in many high-rise apartment buildings the heat in winter extends only to the first few floors. The buildings are, moreover, made of poor materials.

"There is an acute housing shortage; families have to wait for years for an apartment and even then it will only be one room and small kitchen. Many families are thus split up for years, the wife and children waiting in the village, while the husband works and waits for an apartment."

The food is very 'hot", liberally seasoned with peppers and onions. "Meat looked strange at first, coming in unusual cuts. Bread is unwrapped and unsliced and is carried home in baskets. Import of American wheat has changed bread from black to grayish-white. Shopping is done in open markets primarily, but they have a few comparatively primitive self-service stores. Eggs, salad greens, ment other than beef are extremely scarce in winter. During December, diplomats' families from Bulgaria come there to buy potatoes and other supplies for winter."

Official Duties

Clothing, Mrs. Iossi found, was of poor quality and very dull and shapeless, while being very expensive. Furniture is reminiscent of U. S. furniture of the '40's. Since her position as a diplomat's wife calls for a varied and extensive wardrobe, she finds this most inconvenient. . .

Of the social whirl, she commented: "It keeps us mighty active, and is sometimes interesting and sometimes exhausting. In one week, for example, we were invited to three dinner parties, a reception, a luncheon, and had to make three formal calls. It's the custom " she added, "to accept all invitations and stay late."

Also included on their calendar were various large receptions for visiting U. S. cultural groups performing there. Since USIS sponsors such groups, all officers and wives are expected to officiate as co-hosts. The language problem makes this disconcerting at times. French and German are useful as second languages, and the couple is studying Serbian every day at the Embassy. "There is little social intermingling with the Yugoslavs except on official occasions, hence there is much entertaining within the diplomatic colony."

Domestic help is essential, but the language barrier creates many problems in that area also. Now she has learned the rudiments of communication with the "help". The maid works from 8 to 8—or longer, when they have evening engagements, and a cook prepares two meals a day. Salaries range from $20 to $28 a month.

A visit to Zagreb, Yugoslavia, in October, on roads considered good for those parts — stretches of bad pavement alternating with cobblestones — led past farm lands beautiful with fall color, pumpkins in abundance, horses at the plow, now and then a waterwheel; peasants everywhere, in various types of peasant clothes, living in rudimentary dwellings. Driving was hazardous: cyclists, motor scooters, tractors and cars all vieing for part of the road. (Horses were only recently banned from city streets and the autoput only a year ago). Mrs. Iossi found Zagreb far more western in appearance than Belgrade.

Adequate attention to the older boys' tooth necessitated a trip to Munich, Germany. While there they shopped, truly enjoying the abundance of a capitalist country! Before crossing into Germany they had "gassed up" at the border, where hand pumps were still in vogue. . .There was a harrowing moment when, in a blizzard encountered in a mountain pass near the border, they had to drive down a steep grade on a narrow, winding dirt road covered with a foot of fresh snow.

It is indeed a strange life, but a useful one. For they are dedicated to the dissemination of truth, recognizing it as a powerful weapon, and perhaps, (who can say?) . . .the ultimate one!

ANSWERING questions concerning the American way of life is one function of the United States Information Agency. One of its staff members, now in Communist Yugoslavia, is Milton Iossi, whose wife, Janet, is a former Thief River Falls girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss V. Nelson of this city. They fnd life in an Iron Curtain country quite in contrast to our own.

Heart Fund Grants Now Being Made

Prospective Researchers Are Invited to Apply

Jesse E. Edwards, M. D., President of the Minnesota Heart Association announced today that applications for grants and fellowships for the fiscal year starting September 1, 1963, are currently being invited. Requests to investigate any area of cardiovascular-disease will receive the research allocations committee's attention.

In 1962-63, 50 researchers in seven Minnesota institutions received assistance totaling $179,655. Over the past decade the Minnesota Heart Association has been one of the leading associations in the country to support research into the causes and cures of heart disease.

"Because of continued citizen interest," declared Dr. Edwards, "this high level of heart research has been maintained. Few other states can match the superlative research facilities found in Minnesota, and the life-saving findings of heart research are already being utilized throughout the world."

Requests for grants and fellowships should be submitted to the Minnesota Heart Association, 1821 University Avenue, St. Paul 4, Minnesota. Application forms may be and must be submitted prior to May 20, 1963. Recipients will be expected to compile periodic progress reports.

Funds supporting the research programs of the Minnesota Heart association come from public contributions to the annual independent Heart Fund drive held in February. In addition, memorial gifts received throughout the year are used exclusively for this purpose.

History of Snorre Lodge

Originally organized on Dec. 8, 1907, the lodge held its charter open to April 10, 1908. Speculation is that the charter was held open to permit more prospective members a chance to be listed on the charter or because weather and road conditions prevented local activity.

Listed as charter members are Lars Backe, E. B. Backe, Dr. O. F. Melby, Henry Eide, B. Docken, H. H. Skogen, A. O. Buringrud, Dr. P. L. Vistaunet, J. Svare, Halvor Rhodegaard, Ben Erickson, J. Bjornson, A. Stenseth, E. P. Burstad, G. Dokke, J. C. Bert, J. Sorenson, Eph. Thompson, C. C. Gulerud, J. Bjorkholt, Guy Halvorsen, B. Bergesen, Chr. H. Viste, Ole O.

Testing Required

Bike Safety Check To Be Held On Saturday

Once postponed due to a conflict of dates, the annual bicycle safety check will be conducted this Saturday at two locations in Thief River Falls. This year the event will be conducted by the Jaycees and the Veterans of Foreign Wars in cooperation with the state highway partol, Thief River Falls police department, Pennington county sheriff's office and state driver's license examiners.

Two locations will be utilized this year since the police department has stated a bicycle and riders must pass the test before licenses will be issued this year. City ordinance gives the department the option of making the test mandatory on years when it sees fit to do so.

Jaycees will man the testing area on the Washington elementary school playground and the VFW volunteers will conduct testing at the east side playground between Tindolph and Crocker avenues on First street. Testing will begin at 9 a. m. and continue until 1 p. m. or until children waiting have been accommodated.

Bicycles will be inspected for defects which could be safety hazards, riders will be questioned on traffic laws and will ride their bicycles on three tests of basic skills and traffic knowledge. Ralph Jorstad heads the Jaycee committee with Lester DeBriyn in charge of the VFW committee.

Origin of the testing program in Thief River Falls took place two years ago when the Jaycees urged adoption of the ordinance by the city council and embarked on the testing program. Parents of children with bicycles are urged to have their youngsters take the test on Saturday at the location most convenient for them. Licenses at 35 cents each will be available for the bicycles of those successful in completing the test.

Pennington Board Rehires Seidel for Another 4 Years

Appearing in behalf of the new Pennington county fair board, Ray Oen and Mrs. Adam Lendobeja asked the board to increase from one-half mill to a full mill the levy for the support of the fair. They stated that the money would be used to retire the debt of the organization taken over from the old agricultural society. The county board took the matter under advisement for a later decision.

Sheriff Charles Richards announced that Pennington county will receive awards for traffic safety and agricultural safety based on its showing in 1962. Richards was authorized to attend a dinner in Minneapolis at which the awards will be conferred.

City Clarifies Garbage Service

City Clerk Explains Wording of Ordinance

Misunderstanding of the garbage collection service in the city has been cleared up in a statement from the city clerk published in today's Times. The statement notes that patrons are entitled to the same service that has been offered in years past.

City ordinance defines garbage which may be picked up as including ". . .all accumulations of household waste matter including dry kitchen refuse matter, vegetable and fruit refuse, tin cans and glass bottles". These materials may be put in the garbage can to be removed as garbage and should be wrapped or bagged.

Residents desiring additional service including pickup of such things as hedge trimmings, grass clippings, leaves waste paper, paper cartons and similar refuse can make arrangements with Max Jensen, to whom the city has leased the garbage pickup contract.

Fire Destroys Basil Stavenes Barn on Tuesday

Fire about 1:30 a. m. Tuesday destroyed a 28x38 barn and contents on the Basil Stavenes farm nine miles east and one-fourth mile north of Grygla. The Grygla fire department was called to the scene but the fire had made too much headway by the time it arrived and the barn burned to the ground.

Lost in addition to the barn were 600 to 700 bales of hay, a farm pickup loaded with seed wheat, new milk cooler, seven calves and a purebred German Shepherd dog tied in the barn. The milk cows had been left out for the evening the night before for the first time this spring.

It was reported that Stavenes received burns on his hands and leg when attempting to remove items from the barn. The fire was believed caused by lightning and only the barn itself was covered by insurance.

CLEAN UP... PAINT UP... FIX UP

Selected by the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce retail trade committee to serve as MISS C. P. F. (Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up) during the city-wide face-lifting campaign is Miss Vivian Spray, shown above demonstrating her impressions of the program. The Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up campaign began May 1 and will continue through Saturday, May 18.

Organized by the Chamber of Commerce, the drive to help beautify the city and eliminate safety hazards requires the full support of all citizens, according to Harold Storhaug, general chairman of the campaign. A number of organizations have undertaken various portions of the campaign and individuals are encouraged to key their plans to the concentrated effort.

Elementary students in all Thief River Falls schools will receive check lists and idea sheets to bring home with them from school. The lists show possibilities of what can be done to help improve home property by painting, cleaning or repairing. Lists may be filled in and returned to school. Use of the lists is designed to instill in youngsters a sense of personal and community pride and accomplishment.

Included on the list is a student pledge which states, "This certifies that I have helped my parents do an extra good job of CLEAN-UP, PAINT-UP, FIX-UP at our home and that my room is neat and clean."

Residents are also reminded of the trash pick-up which will be provided by the Jaycees on Thursday, May 16, from 6 to 9 p. m. All trash in the residential area which is placed on the front curb will be picked up and hauled away by Jaycee volunteers.

The retail trade committee is planning a 9:30 a. m. parade for Thursday, May 16, as a kick-off to the "Clean Sweep" retail promotion on May 16, 17 and 18. The parade will feature local bands and will culminate in mass window washing and sidewalk sweeping in the downtown business section.

National Safety Council Cites Silverton Club

County 4-H Club Is One of Six In Minnesota to Receive National Award

National Safety Council has cited the Silverton 4-H club of Pennington County to receive the Certificate of Commendation on the Club's outstanding achievements in the 4-H safety program. The award was given by the National Safety Council's National Conference for Farm Safety to only six clubs in Minnesota.

The National Safety Council citation to the Silverton 4-H club stated it was for "exceptional service to farm safety through an active, enthusiastic safety program of substantial value to the 4-H members, their families and their community. This requires leadership, spirit and a willingness to work diligently for safety in all quarters of community life. Their achievement reflects the quality of their effort."

Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agent, presented the special plaque to the Silverton club at the Leaders Council meeting held Monday. Among achievements of the club were: painting garbage cans for each family to be used to collect nails, bottles and other objects; clearing vision on a road corner; conducting fire and safety surveys of farmsteads; window displays; county fair booth; county fair exhibits; safety demonstrations and general safety promotion work.

The Safety Council also said that success in a farm safety program "depends on getting safety home to every farm family. This is necessary to reduce needless accidents that bring sorrow, hardship and financial loss to many Minnesota rural families. Accidents can be prevented and will be if individuals and groups, as 4-H has demonstrated, in rural communities, join together in a real effort to remove the cancer of accidents from their midst."

Yard 'n' Garden

Perennial Vegetables

Two of the common perennial vegetables are asparagus and rhubarb. Both are cool-season crops that can be planted early in the spring as soon as the soil can be worked. Because of their perennial growth habit, it's a good idea to place them on one side of the garden where they will not interfere with future preparation of the garden soil.

Asparagus crowns are usually planted in trenches which have been prepared with well rotted manure on the bottom and covered with an inch of garden soil. The trench should be about 6 to 8 inches deep for setting the crowns. Cover with 2 inches of soil and fill in the rest of the trench gradually as the plants develop. Space the crowns 18 to 24 inches apart in rows 3 to 4 feet apart. Don't harvest asparagus until the spring of the third year after planting. And avoid cutting it after July 1 each year thereafter.

Instead of using an unknown variety from an old planting, select the new hybrid asparagus of Waltham Wahington.

Plant rhubarb roots so the strong buds on the fleshy roots are about 2 inches below the surface. Space the plants 3 to 4 feet apart in the row. Plant MacDonald Crimson, Valentine or Chipman's Canada Red for rich red internal stem color.

Don't harvest until the spring of the third year. Avoid pulling rhubarb after July 15 each year. Remove flower stalks as they develop.

These vegetables have to be fertilized each spring with a good complete fertilizer at the rate of 3 pounds per 100 square feet of area. Control weeds for good production.

CHAMBER L.I.F.E.

Living-Industry-Farming-Education

By Rolly Larson
Manager Chamber of Commerce

Just last week the privilege was mine to attend the 51st annual convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington, D. C. It is impossible to return from such an event without some strong impressions.

One reassuring thought that comes to mind is that the National Chamber is truly working and literally fighting in favor of American private enterprise and against over-federalization of our American way of life. There is no question but what this thought typified the theme of the national gathering.

Secondly, one received the impression while in Washington that what we do here at home in N.W. Minnesota and Thief River Falls is pretty important; much more important, perhaps, than what happens in Washington. What goes on there only represents what the American public allows to go on.

The Governor of Michigan, George Romney, pretty well summed it up for us when he referred to America as "a byproduct." It is only a byproduct of the greatest set of religious, moral and economic principles the world has ever known. He said that when we digress from those great principals we no longer have America and he illustrated that that is precisely what is happening to the United States today. Governor Romney called for the public to forget special interests, erase political party lines and to return to a trend of outright Americanism.

Another feeling that one obtained in Washington was that of a strong need for standing firm against the Russians, not to negotiate with them on anything, even to the point of war if necessary to preserve free nations.

The upshot of all the reactions one had to Washington, D. C., is that it is a great privilege to be a true American but that it is also dangerous and a tremendous responsibility. We fail to think of our role that way often enough but maybe we should now more than ever.

In any event, let's keep our corner in this great economic stronghold as we Shop and Trade Where Bargains are Made Here in the Heart of Northwest Minnesota, Thief River Falls.

Lincoln Track Men Win N.W. Conference Meet

Near - ideal weather conditions prevailed on Tuesday as the seventh annual Northwest Conference track and field tournament was held on the Lincoln high school athletic field here. And the meet developed into a two-team duel between coach Rod Max's defending conference champion Prowlers and the Bemidji Lumberjacks. The Prowlers, by a margin of 12½ points, 78 to 65½, won the team title. It marked the third successive triumph for the Prowlers in Northwest conference tournament competition.

Of the fourteen events on the program, the Bemidji and Thief River Falls squads monopolized the first place honors, with Bemidji winning eight firsts and the Prowlers racking up six firsts.

Five new conference records were set during the meet, and the Bemidji athletes accounted for all of the new marks. Gary Lockner, in defeating the Prowlers' Rolf Wangberg, ran the mile in 4:40.7, to better Vic Lundeme's old mark of 4:45.1. John Warford, in preliminary heat in the 120-yard high hurdles, skimmed over the timbers in 15.2 to better the old record of 16.6 shared by Norm Bolstad of East Grand Forks and Larry Ryback of Bemidji. Dennis Aguiar of Bemidji ran the 880-yard run in 2:05.3 to better the old record of 2:07.6 set by Bemidji's Gary Lockner in 1962.

The Bemidji mile relay team of Bill Bohn, John DeWald, Dennis Aguiar, and Gary Lockner shattered the old mark of 3:43.7 by several seconds, posting a new record of 3:39. And the Lumberjacks' 880-yard relay team of Roger Johnson, Dennis Aguiar, Jerry Phillips, and John Warford sliced one-tenth of a second of the old mark of 1:37.1 set by Prowler quartet of Don Nicholson, Arvid Lee, Orrin Joppru, and Gary Klungness in 1962.

Paul Klungness of the Prowlers was the meet's high-point performer, making a successful defense of the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, the 180-yard low hurdles, and the broad jump events.

Other Prowler first place winners were Brian Lofberg in the discus throw, and Steve Mittelstadt in the high jump.

The team totals: Thief River Falls, 78; Bemidji, 65½; Roseau, 51; East Grand Forks, 8½; and Crookston, 7.

Prowlers Blank Crookston 3 to 0

John Aune turned in a three-hit no-run performance on Monday afternoon as coach Ralph Skay's baseball Prowlers defeated the Crookston Pirates, 3 to 0, in a district conference game played at Crookston. The win, which was the third in a row for the locals, boosted the Prowlers' season record to four wins and three losses.

On Friday, May 10, with the game site still undetermined, the Prowlers will play the Bemidji Lumberjacks. If the Bemidji diamond, which is being re-conditioned, is playable, the game will be played there, with game time at 4:15 p. m. If the Bemidji diamond is unavailable, the game will probably be played at Bagley, with game time at 4:15 p. m. On Saturday night, on the Fair Grounds diamond, the Climax Vikings will meet the locals in a district conference game. And on Monday night, under the lights here, the Fertile Falcons will meet the Prowlers on the Fair Grounds diamond.

The Prowlers bunched three of the four hits they obtained off Crookston's Pete Mickelson in Monday's tilt at Crookston in the third inning to tally all of the game's runs, and, with Aune limiting the Pirates to three hits, two of which were of the scratch variety, won a deserved 3 to 0 victory.

After Rick Jensen had whiffed to lead off the third, Dick Johnson looped a single over second base; Wayne Smith golfed a low pitch for a solid single into right-center, and when the ball was handled slowly, Johnson skipped around to third base. Smith, on the next pitch, moved to second base. Jerry Erickson singled to left field, scoring Johnson, and on the left fielder's bobble of the ball, Smith came in to score, with Erickson moving around to second, and then on to third on throw to the plate. Paul Klungness bounced to short, and Erickson scored on the putout at first.

Aune handled the Pirates batsmen quite handily, and except for a threat in the fourth inning, coach Linton Lehrer's club could not mount an attack. In the fourth, after Chuck Mickelson had flied out to center field, Pete Mickelson reached first on Johnson's wide throw. Myles Mueller sent a ground ball between first and second, and the Pirates had runners on first and second with one out. Jim Craft grounded to Tony Poole, who made the unassisted out at first base, with the Pirate runners advancing. Walt Erickson grounded out, third to first, to end the inning and the scoring threat. During the fifth, sixth, and seventh innings, Aune retired the Pirates in order, notching his first win of the season.

THE SAD TALE OF A TAIL-LESS ROOSTER
CHARLIE ROOSTER'S SHEIKDOM
HEY BALDY, WHAT YOU NEED IS A TAIL TOUPEE!

SPRINGTIME is harem-gathering time for the rooster pheasant who stakes out his kingdom and then bids welcome to all females with raucous, sunrise crowing. The rooster's brilliant plumage is used to good advantage in his strutting, swaggering courtship. When a rooster has lost its fine, long tail feathers, he stands little chance of leading a successful love life for the females seem to prefer males with long tails. Replacement for pulled-out tail featehr begins at once but the males whose tail feathers have been broken off must wait until the summer moult for a feather replacement.

Some Anxious Moments

Coach Rod Max of the Prowler track squad had some anxious moments on Tuesday afternoon (moments that extended from about one o'clock until four o'clock) before he could relax knowing that the Prowler track squad had successfully defended its Northwest track and field title in the annual conference tournament, which was held here this season.

The Prowlers rolled up a total of 78 points (and that's the highest point total scored by a team in the seven years of the Northwest conference competition) to defeat the surprisingly strong Bemidji Lumberjacks, who tallied 65½ points.

The Lumberjacks showed exceptional strength in the middle-distance events and the relay events, while the Prowlers, with three runners in the 100-yard and 220-yard dash finals, were heavy scorers in the dashes.

Five records were broken during the meet, and the Bemidji Lumberjacks accounted for all of the new marks. As the personable Bemidji coach said, "Well, we won most of the battles, but we're losing the war." There were fourteen events on the program, and Bemidji won eight of these events, and the Prowlers won the other six.

Mile Run Exciting

Most of the drama of the tournament was centered on the mile run and the one-mile relay, and in both of the races the fans were treated to some splendid running. Bemidji provided somewhat of a surprise when they entered lanky Gary Lockner (the Region Eight and conference record holder in the half-mile run) in the mile run against the Prowlers' Rolf Wangberg. And it was Lockner, who stuck with Wangberg during the first three laps, and pulled away in the final lap to win the event in the record-making time of 4:40.7. Lockner was a well-spent runner when he crossed the finish line, while Wangberg appeared to have quite a bit of running left. But all credit must be given Lockner for moving up into the mile, and then scoring a win over such a runner as Wangberg. Let's hope the two meet in the Region Eight tournament.

Relay Event Feature

And the mile relay event, well, that was the tournament's feature. The Prowlers' Ronnie Olson and Rolf Wangberg, running against Bill Bohn and John DeWald, built up quite a cushion. Dennis Aguiar (perhaps the finest competitor on the Bemidji squad) pared several yards off the Prowler lead, and then Gary Lockner, with a final kick in the last hundred yards of his quarter-mile lap, barely edged the Prowlers' Joel Headley at the tape. This event was run in the record-breaking time of 3:39.

Klungness Wins 4 Firsts

While the Prowlers' Paul Klungness won four firsts, accounting for twenty points, it was apparent that the blond speedster was somewhat below par. Paul, for the past couple of weeks, has been troubled by an ailing ankle, which the doctors have diagnosed as a sprain, and he aggravates the injury whenever he competes in events that require a jump-off, such as the broad jump and the low hurdles. But he'll be okay. And those twenty points look plenty good on the scoreboard.

And congratulations to Steve Mittelstadt for winning the high jump event. That means that his girl will be able to wear a gold medal, that is if the conference presents the medals.

Attention: Softball Managers

Gene Sack announced that an important meeting of the city softball organization will be held in the American Legion club rooms on May 15, at 8:00 p. m.

It is imperative that all the team managers, and team captains, be in attendance. And, oh yes, Gene requests that the team entry fee of $20.00 per team, be paid at this meeting. Don't forget, team managers, bring money.

For the Bowlers

The city's men's bowling association members should note that the annual banquet and meeting will be held tonight, Wednesday, at the V. F. W. club. Get there early, and stay late.

And it is perhaps fitting to mention that a special award should be made to the junior league All-Stars who, in a special match last Thursday, defeated the Klewel Products team.

The Junior All-Stars, Murry Down, Mark Anderson, Evan Anderson, Dennis Anderson, and Rick Thompson, rolled games of 814, 859, and 878, for an aggregate of 2551, to record a 47-pin win over the Klewel's.

The Klewel's, with Chuck Wilcox, DelRay Olferdahl, Duane Vatsaas, Dave Praska, and Larry Gilbertson, on the roster, rolled games of 829, 835 and 840 for a 2504 total.

For the winners, Dow had games of 159-155-166; Mark Anderson scored games of 183-210-202; Evan Anderson had a 165-187-140; Dennis Anderson marked up a 144-148-158; and Thompson had games of 163-159-192.

Farmers with Land in Soil Bank May Share in Wheat Vote May 21

A wheat-allotment farmer who has his whole farm in the Soil Bank's conservation reserve program will still be eligible to vote in the May 21 referendum on 1964-crop wheat marketing quotas, Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has announced.

The determining factor in such a case, the chairman explained, is not whether the farm will be producing wheat in 1964. Rather, it is whether (1) the farm has a wheat acreage allotment (preserved under conservation reserve program provisions) and (2) the producer on that farm would have had an interest in the wheat that would have been produced except for the farm's participation in the conservation reserve or other similar program (such as the Great Plains program).

"In other words," Knutson said, "the law authorizing the conservation reserve program in effect guaranteed that the farm would not lose any crop-allotment history because of participation in the reserve program. So the farm with acreage still covered by the conservation reserve contract which had a wheat allotment before it was covered by the contract still has a wheat allotment. And the current wheat legislation says that any producer who has a wheat allotment shall be eligible to vote, except that a producer with an allotment of less than 15 acres will not be eligible to vote unless the farm operator indicates his intention to participate in the wheat program as an allotment grower.

"The operator of a farm which has an allotment of less than 15 acres therefore, will have to indicate his intention to participate in the 1964 wheat program as an allotment grower if he wants to vote in the May 21 referendum. This may be done by notifying the ASCS county office by May 13. The allotment notice sent to each farm operator contains a place for indicating such a choice.

Pres. Kennedy Asks Citizen Support of Spring Bond Drive

Asks American People to Buy at Least One Bond in Freedom Campaign

President John F. Kennedy late last week issued the following appeal to the American people to support the Freedom Savings Bond campaign, which opened May 1 and will continue through July 4:

"Beginning on May 1 and continuing through the Fourth of July, the Treasury Department is conducting a Freedom Savings Bond Drive — urging every American family to buy at least one Bond during this period. Because each one of us has a personal responsibility to help preserve freedom and to build a just and enduring peace, I heartily endorse this Drive and ask all Americans to enlist in the cause of freedom by buying Savings Bonds.

"More than $46 billion worth of Series E and H Bonds are now owned by millions of American families, many of whom are adding to their holdings each month. The success of this uniquely American program rests largely on the efforts of volunteers who bring the advantages of Savings Bonds to the attention of their fellow citizens and who recognize the importance of widespread ownership of Savings Bonds to a sound and growing economy.

"Although volunteers will spearhead the Freedom Bond Drive, I hope all will follow their leadership. And I urge every American family to buy United States Savings Bonds to the limit of its ability—particularly between now and the Fourth of July. This Independence Day will therefore have greater meaning to all who through their purchase of Savings Bonds will also have a greater, more tangible share in America."

Warns Holders of GI Life Insurance

Fargo VA Asks Correct Names of Beneficiaries

Despite frequent reminders by by the Veterans Administration urging veterans to keep up-to-date their listings of a beneficiary for their GI insurance policy proceeds, thousands of veterans are still neglecting to do so.

John R. Parrish, Fargo, VA Center director, said because of this failure to keep VA informed of changes necessary to reflect the births, marriages, deaths or divorces that occur over the years, their insurance proceeds may not be paid to the individual nor in the manner the veteran would wish.

Changes in family status cause beneficiary designations made years ago to be contrary to the veteran's present wishes but, Mr. Parrish emphasized the VA has no alternative but to pay the insurance proceeds to the beneficiary on record in the VA files.

Change of beneficiary forms may be obtained from any VA office, Mr. Parrish said.

St. Cloud Hospital to Have Visitors

Everyone is invited to visit the hospital between the hours of 1 and 3:30 p. m. and between 6 and 9 p. m. The hospital will be open to visitors in the evening so that everyone will have an opportunity to see how the Veterans Administration cares for disabled veterans.

A special invitation is being given to high school and college students to visit the hospital and become acquainted with the many careers that are required to make up the hospital treatment team.

There will be tours of the hospital wards and different clinics. A psychiatric treatment team will give a demonstration on planning patient care.

Outer space is being explored to see how high taxes can be raised.

Horticultural Field Offers Jobs

Is One of Most Rapidly Developing Industries

As one of the most rapidly developing industries in the world, horticulture is offering increasing career opportunities to young people that are professionally trained, according to C. J. Weiser, assistant professor of horticulture at the University of Minnesota.

In fact, there are not enough well trained people to fill positions available in the various fields of horticulture, he sayst.

Horticulture has become a $13 to $14 billion annual business, rivaling the value of the automotive industry in the United States. In Minnesota horticulture contributes about $300 million to the economy. Horticultural food crops alone comprise 38 - 40 percent of the diet.

Information on career opportunities in horticulture is given in a new publication, Exploring Horticultural Science as Your Career. Copies are available from the Department of Horticulture, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 1.

Teaching, research in fruit, vegetables, ornamentals and turf, plant breeding, food technology, landscape designing, park supervision, garden store operation, florist retailing, greenhouse management and turf management are among the career possibilities listed in the brochure.

Kindergarten was so named by its founder, Friedrich Froebel, to express his idea of the school as a garden in which children are comparable to unfolding plants. Froebel began the first kindergarten in 1837.

Some people are too busy to grow old.

"Humor is the only test of gravity, and gravity of humor, for a subject which will not bear raillery is suspicious, and a jest which will not bear serious examination is false wit."
—Georgias Leontinus

Simple Solution

It is encouraging to know that the fellows who represent us in Congress do worry a little about the national debt limit that they nudge upward regularly. Under a new proposal they would be able to get around the present debt limit simply by writing a new definition for the word debt. Under this new definition the total debt would be the total debt, minus all cash on hand.

According to the Treasury's latest calculation the debt total was $303.5 billion, and cash on hand was $5.4 billion. Under the new definition the debt would therefore have been computed at $298.1 billion. The Treasury estimates that with this change the government can operate until September under the present limit.

Isn't that just wonderful. We are not as poor as we thought we were. And maybe by September some of the brilliant fellows who are managing our affairs in Washington may come up with a new definition.

Kerr-Mills Approved

The State Senate voted unanimously Friday to give approval to the Federal medical-care-for-the-aged program as provided under the Kerr-Mills act, and Governor Rolvaag stated that he would sign the measure, already approved by the House. Two years ago the Legislature rejected the plan.

The Kerr-Mills program makes federal aid for medical expenses available for needy persons over 65. State and county money will pay a part of the costs, the state's share being estimated at $750,000. An estimated 5,700 Minnesotans will participate in the program which will be administered by county welfare departments.

As we understand it the Kerr-Mills program does not satisfy the demands of those who favor socialized medicine in its more radical forms. It does provide medical care for the aged who need assistance, without giving them a relief status. Most of our people now provide reasonable protection for themselves through insurance programs of various kinds, and, for the unfortunate few who do not have adequate coverage, special assistance is available. It may be truthfully said that medical care and hospitalization now are available to all.

From the Top Down

The Chicago Tribune objects to the growing practice of local wage scales being established by state legislatures. Citing as an example a recent act by the Illinois legislature increasing the minimum salaries paid to policemen and firemen by $150 a month, the Tribune states:

> "When one set of city employes gets a raise, it becomes necessary to do the same for all others. The legislature has no plans to give the cities new sources of revenue to meet the higher costs of the benefits to employes. If no additional revenue is made available, the money will have to come out of the hides of property taxpayers.
> "In most Illinois communities property taxes already are too high. The legislature has no business making them higher for a purpose which ought to be decided by the people of each community."

The Tribune remarked that Governor Kerner had "wisely" vetoed a similar bill and thought it likely that he would veto this one. A round of cheers for Governor Kerner.

We are gradually losing our powers of government at the local level and, more and more, the questions that individuals and communities should decide for themselves are being decided for them by the bureaucracies that headquarter in Washington and at the state capitols. That is moving in the wrong direction.

Cuban Confusion

The situation in Cuba since the bewhiskered Castro took over, has never been clear. Our people didn't like Castro but at that time we cheered for him nevertheless.

As he became arrogant with success, his popularity among us diminished, and when he confiscated our property we of course immediately recognized him as an evil person with whom we should have no truck.

Since then, in dealing with this young whippersnapper, we have come out second best in too many of the skirmishes, all of which has provided interesting entertainment for our friends and neighbors, as well as great satisfaction for those who do not wish us well. And so the grim comedy moves on from act to act and from scene to scene.

Which brings us up to the present episode about which the National Observer, admittedly confused, expresses concern. It observes:

> "Washington's crackdown on Cuban raiders has succeeded in making assaults on Castroland much more difficult, if not impossible. For this, Mr. Castro is properly grateful but the action also has bothered and bewildered Cuban exiles in this country.
> "The United States Coast Guard is now Castro's first line of defense, one disillusioned Cuban told a National Observer staff reporter in Miami last week. Forced to scramble and lacking any concerted leadership, exiles fitfully ask, what now? The Administration has provided no answer. It seems, instead, to be content with things as they now are, a co-existence with Communism in Cuba. It's a contentment that Cuban exiles obviously cannot share.

Soviet Worries

Little progress has been noted in the settling of differences between the Chinese and the Russian Communists. On the contrary, new issues seem to be adding to the strain of old tensions, and the relationships worsens rather than improves—we hope.

The Chinese are now bringing up old grievences and the wrongs that were imposed upon them by the Russia of the Czars. Peking has been reminding Moscow of some of the "unfair" treaties that were forced on China, including some that involved vast areas of Siberia. Also listed as territory taken from China by Czarist Russia is the area extending northward a thousand miles from Vladivostok and extending inland from the Pacific Ocean to the Amur River. In this vast area are several large Soviet Far East industrial centers.

The fact that such matters are referred to regularly by the Peking People's Daily indicates that the Chinese leaders have ideas of recovering and uniting all of what once was China, and the concern of the Russian Communists about this possibility is understandable.

Our guess is that, under the circumstances, the Soviet leaders would lose interest fast in any notions they have about establishing colonies in the Western Hemisphere if our government would start showing a little interest in establishing trade relations with the Chinese.

Arabs Unite

Increasing Arab unity in the Near East adds to the dangers that threaten the continued existance of Israel. One of the objectives of the United Arab Republic is the extermination of Jews in Israel and the return of the area to its former owners and occupants.

Commenting on the renewed congressional concern about the increasing tension in the Near East, and the arms race that is leading to an explosion, the St. Paul Dispatch observes:

> "Both Senators Javits and Humphrey spoke out on the subject this week. Senator Javits proposed the United States, Britain, France and other western nations join in a collective defense agreement with Israel to head off a possible Arab attack.
> "He pointed out the Soviet Union, which has supplied Arab states with arms, will seek to use every opportunity to stir up trouble between the Arabs and Israel.
> "Senator Humphrey, in taking note of the Middle East's problems, suggested an embargo on all arms shipments to the area and urged creation of a stronger United Nations peace-keeping operation in the Near East.
> "The suggestions of both senators deserve the most serious consideration. But neither will solve the arms race problem entirely or eliminate the threat of an Israeli-Arab war completely.
> "The final solution to the problem seems to lie in somehow convincing the Arab peoples that they should concentrate all their energies and resources on improving their own social and economic lot and not undermine their own potential development with a "holy war" designed to drive Israelis into the sea."

We agree that the Arab peoples should be encouraged to concentrate on their own improvement and development, but in this situation the people of Israel should also be encouraged to contribute to the cause of peace by making a little effort to get along peacefully with their neighbors. Their record of peaceful coexistence has some notable shortcomings, and they should not be encouraged to believe that they would receive help from us until it were clear that they had made a sincere effort to fulfill their obligations to the people they dispossessed.

As the chief sponsor of the idea of a Jewish nation we do have a responsibility to the people of Israel. Our sponsorship was based on political considerations here in our own country, but that fact is not now an important consideration. The important thing is that we now should start looking at this problem realistically and deal with the obvious facts realistically.

From the time of its establishment as an independent nation Israel has been at war, and no progress has been made in reaching satisfactory solutions for the problems that have merely been held in suspense by an armistice. Israel must now be looked upon as one of the most serious of a number of serious threats to world peace. Unless some progress is made soon in relieving the tension then perhaps arrangements should be made to liquidate the noble experiment and write it off as another costly error.

Certainly the problem deserves immediate attention by an impartial international study group.

How should I know the rear window was open?
He'd better get used to it! Monterey with its Breezeway rear window is really catching on! No wonder! It gives you draft-free ventilation...the next best thing to air conditioning. The power-operated Breezeway window is standard equipment . . . and only Monterey for '63 has it!
MERCURY MONTEREY

Marauder 390 V-8...standard! Really goes . . . on regular gas!
Cushion-Link Ride...standard! Unmistakable "big-car comfort!"
But don't let this big beauty fool you! It's priced down with the so-called "low-priced" cars . . . and our Price-Leveling trade-in allowance brings it lower yet! You can own a Monterey today...come on in and let us show you!

Notice Garbage Patrons

There seems to be some confusion about the garbage collection service. You pay for and are entitled to the same service that has been offered for many years past.

The Ordinance that defines this service states: "Garbage . . . shall include all of the accumulations of household waste matter including dry kitchen refuse matter, vegetable and fruit refuse, tin cans, and glass bottles. The garbage should be wrapped or bagged.

This states what you can put in your garbage can to be picked up. If you want additional service including pick up of refuse such as hedge trimmings, grass clippings, leaves, waste paper, paper cartons, and similar refuse that accumulates on your premises, arrangements for such service can be made with Max Jensen.

Feed Grain Bill Called a Political Football by Cong. Odin Langen

"The American farmer continues to be the football in the game of politics," declared Congressman Odin Langen today in Washington. "The latest example is the underhanded way in which two most significant aspects of the feed grains problem were completely ignored in order to prematurely push a bill through the House of Representatives in a politically-motivated move to influence the vote in the upcoming wheat referendum."

"One problem that was sidestepped was the effects of recent dealings with the Common Market," explained Langen. "The department of Agriculture tells us that we exported a million tons less of feed grains between January first and mid-March of this year compared with the same period a year ago. This means that American farmers would have to raise a million tons less to even be where they started, or we would have a million tons of additional surplus, which proponents of the feed grains bill say it's supposed to reduce."

"Feed grains are an important item in the production of dairy products," said Langen, "and the new legislation fails to consider the problem of cream imports that are now coming into this country for the first time in history. For instance, 3.7 million pounds of frozen cream has come into this county since such shipments began last November. This means there will be less of a demand for domestic cream, hence a decrease in the market potential for feed grains."

"I am firly in favor of feed grains legislation that calls for voluntary participation," stated the Minnesota farmer-Congressman. "I have warned in the past that intelligent feed grains programs are necessary to avert such possibilities as 80-cent corn and demoralized livestock markets. We certainly should try to raise farm income by assuring fairer prices for feed grain producers and by providing a basis of stability for livestock prices. But the bill that was pushed through the House this past week was premature, and it failed to take into consideration many new problems that have entered this field."

Congressman Langen explained that the new bill applies to the 1964 and 1965 crops, which aren't even in the planning stage at this date. "There was no urgency for this bill, because the 1963 crop is covered by the feed grains bill we passed last year. It should have been considered, instead, next month or later. The only reason for the rash action taken now was to influence the outcome of the May 21st wheat referendum.

"I consider this latest action as the third in a series of direct threats to our wheat farmers in an effort to get them to vote as directed and to expect no sympathy from the Government if they vote wrong. The leadership of the House issued dire warnings to our farmers. Then the Secretary of Agriculture mobilized his forces. Now we find legislation designed to accomplish the same purpose. It's not the role of Congress, or any other division of our government, to influence a free choice by enacting premature legislation as a political club."

"It was unfortunate that a feed grains program had to be rammed through the halls of Congress at this time. We need a sound feed grains program. We would have had plenty of time to consider one before this sesion ended, but instead we passed a measure that helps a few of the many problems facing the feed grains industry today and adversely affects other problems. The farmer once again was kicked for a field goal of extra political points. Some day he's going to get mad and tear the goal posts down."

AAA Urges Hikers to Avoid Highways

Fad Can Be Risky, Says State Automobile Group

The current hiking rage may be good exercise and ideal for the figure, but it can also be risky, according to the Minnesota State Automobile Assn. (AAA), especially if you do your walking on streets and highways.

Warning that nearly 8,000 pedestrians are killed each year in the U. S., the motoring organization urged hikers to always obey the cardinal pedestrian rule of walking on the side FACING traffic.

"Walking with your back to traffic can be suicidal," said Hugh M. Craig, executive secretary of the Minnesota AAA. "By facing traffic, you can keep your eyes peeled for approaching cars."

Night hikers, he added, should wear or carry something white so that motorists can see them.

While endorsing the health-giving qualities of foot travel, the AAA recommends that, wherever possible, hikers stick to forest trails, meadows and other routes not traveled by motor vehicles.

Ask Designation Leif Erikson Day

Why Applicants Fail to Pass Driver's Test

"A development of a more serious attitude toward preparing for driver licensing examinations would probably result in a much higher percentage of passing grades on the first attempt of applicants."

So said Mark Markson, chief of the safety promotion section, Minnesota highway department, today, as he commented on the failure of many applicants to successfully pass driver licensing tests on the first visit to examination stations.

"Many do not grasp the importance of reading carefully the Minnesota Drivers Manual," Markson said. "If all applicants studied the manual, we believe that there would be at least a 30 per cent higher percentage of passing grades."

"Often an applicant will fail on his first attempt to pass the written test and immediately will admit to regret of having not even turned a page in the Drivers Manual. A great many others confess to having only glanced through the 64-page manual in the belief that they knew all there was to be known about traffic laws and safe driving rules.

"On the second time around, and after they have realized the importance of seriously studying for a career in driving, they pass the examination with flying colors," he explained. "This review and repeat may impress on the mind of the applicant that it isn't wise to take a casual attitude toward the serious responsibility of operating a motor vehicle in today's traffic, but it also causes added expense and unnecessary inconvenience to everyone concerned."

The Minnesota Drivers Manual is available free at all highway department agencies and county clerks' offices. Examinations are based on the manual which includes instruction on how to develop safe driving skills and also explains state traffic laws and nationally accepted safe driving rules.

Federal Reserve Bank Reports Good Outlook

Current prospects for continued growth in Ninth district personal incomes appear good, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis in the current issue of its Monthly Review.

Even though growth in district personal incomes slowed during January and February — due perhaps to the severe winter weather —the over-all level of personal incomes continues to exceed year earlier figures by about 5 per cent. During the winter, nonfarm employment held up a little better than normal, with manufacturing employment in durables particularly high. Retail sales have expanded, with automobile sales especially strong. March department store sales hit a new high and continued a strong showing in April; bank debits during the first quarter averaged 6 per cent above year earlier figures, the bank said.

The current farm situation is influenced by high levels of livestock and grain inventories and by substantially lower prices for hogs and cattle. Cash farm incomes since the first of the year appear to be following a normal seasonal pattern, but incomes are running much above year ago levels because of increased marketings from the larger inventories. Current crop prospects are reported good. Retail sales of farm machinery and equipment are reported relatively high in most of the district, particularly in the west, where crops were especially good last year. The large volume of credit extended in county banks during March reflects confidence in future rural economic conditions.

Total district bank credit has continued to expand on a seasonally adjusted basis, and deposits have risen with time deposits at all member banks about 17 per cent above levels a year ago. Although only a few banks have been borrowing at the Federal Reserve, the number has increased in recent weeks. Federal funds purchases have also exceeded sales by a large margin, the bank concluded.

Norse Language Camp Is Planned

Concordia College and Sons of Norway Sponsors

Plans for a Norwegian language camp to be held during the month of August have been announced by Sons of Norway which is sponsoring the camp jointly with Concordia College of Moorhead, Minnesota. Gerhard H. Hauke, 2975 East Highway 26, St. Paul, Minn., a member of the education department staff at Concordia, has directed preliminary plans.

The camp, which will continue for two weeks, will be held either at Detroit Lakes or Bemidji and will be open to children from 9 to 12 years of age. Total cost of the camp will be $80 per child, with the parents providing transportation to and from the camp. The fee includes board, room, tuition, insurance and incidental expenses. There will be accomodations for from 40 to 75 children.

While Concordia College has held several language camps for children, this is the first using the Norwegian language. The camp will be in charge of a dean, with a counselor for each group of 10 to 12 children. Activities would include three half-hour periods of formal instruction by the dean each day, followed by sessions with the counselors, who will be college students of Norwegian or teachers.

Parents desiring to enroll children in the camp may contact Sons of Norway, 1455 West Lake Street, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Memories in the Making

A picture . . . a frame . . . to treasure always. So she believes!

The fleeting baby smile, the outgrown pair of baby shoes—these she'll always treasure.

But in later years not every mother can point with pride to her son's baby picture. Memories sometimes become tarnished with remorse.

So much depends on us.

If we hope always to treasure our glimpse of yesterday . . . we must carve with spiritual tools our vision of tomorrow.

Clean-Up Campaign In TRF Hits Final Week

This week marks the final effort in the Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up campaign in Thief River Falls. On the basis of past activity and plans for the remainder of the week, the Chamber of Commerce-sponsored promotion appears to be successful. Considerable activity is expected this week.

Retailers in the city will get into the mood of spring cleaning with a "Clean Sweep Sale" to be held Thursday through Saturday. Events will get underway with a parade on Thursday morning at 9:30 a. m., followed by merchants conducting a mass sidewalk-sweeping and window-washing session. Following these events, business will go on as usual except that bargains will be better than ever during the three-day promotion.

Thursday evening the Jaycees will conduct a trash collection campaign throughout the city's residential district. Thirty Jaycees will operate ten trucks to collect accumulated trash which has been left on the front curb for pickup. Trash will be hauled from 6 to 9 p. m. Thursday and residents are urged to clean up their basements, attics, garages and yards to take advantage of the pick-up service.

Mayor Orin Green has proclaimed the Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up campaign in Thief River Falls, stating that "all agencies and citizens can help to improve and maintain the health, safety and appearance of the city". He echoed the words of the Minnesota Department of Health in encouraging "all of our residents to make a concerted effort to aid in reducing, if not eliminating, the accident hazards inherent in an unsafe environment."

Hitting a somber note for the campaign, the Department of Health noted that a total of 378 persons died in Minnesota during 1962 as a result of home accidents. During this organized clean-up and fix-up effort is a good time to clean out the medicine cabinet, check electrical appliances, cords and wiring, check to be sure ladders are safe, check garden tools and insecticides and remove piles of refuse or magazines.

School children in the community are doing their part by assisting at home in relation to check lists which they received in school. Boy Scouts will conduct a clean-up campaign on highway approaches to the city.

"Everyone can do at least a little to help make our city more safe and more beautiful," stated Harold Storhaug, general chairman of the Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up campaign. "I can't resist the temptation to remind people that every little bit helps—and every litter bit hurts."

Boy Scouts in Thief River Falls had planned to clean up approaches to the city this evening but have postponed the effort due to the cold and wet weather, according to Richard Bjorkman, chairman of civic activities for the campaign. Attempts will be made to have the scouts out in force on Thursday evening to complete the project.

Jaycee Cleanup Campaign Needs Use of Trucks

Richard Bjorkman, chiarman of the trash collection campaign organized by the Jaycees as part of the city's Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up campaign, is in need of trucks for the operation. With a full crew of Jaycees expected to take part in the collection, at least 10 trucks will be needed Thursday, May 16, from 6 to 9 p. m.

"Any business place or any farmer who has a truck which we could use for that one evening will do the city a big favor by contacting me immediately," Bjorkman said. "We believe that the removal of trash which has accumulated in homes and yards will add to the safety and appearance of our community.

"The Jaycees urge all community residents to place accumulated trash on their front curbs Thursday, May 16, for collection on the drive. The collection will be successful only with full-scale participation from both the Jaycee members and the community."

Persons who have trucks which could be used for that evening are asked to contact Bjorkman at MU 1-3315.

Near Drowning Is Among Incidents Checked by Police

2½-Year-Old Girl Is Pulled from River Near Third Street Bridge Friday

Investigation of a near drowning, larceny of two tires and wheels and two traffic accidents was included in the activities of the Thief River Falls police department during the past several days. Addicent damage totaled an estimated $1,500 to four cars involved.

The near drowning occurred about noon Friday by the boat dock near the Third street bridge. Mrs. Robert Gaarder, city, noticed two young children playing near the water on her way downtown. In returning home she tought it best to check on the youngsters and arrived in time to see one of them roll into the river.

Jathawnya McHam, 2½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Holland McHam of 201 Merriam av. S., was clinging to the dock when Mrs. Gaarder ran to the spot and pulled the little girl back on the dock. At that time Dennis Chappuis 310 Markley av. N., arrived on the scene and carried Jathawnya up the bank, apparently none the worse for her narrow escape.

Traffic accidents included a crash at 1:50 p. m. Thursday when a car driven south on Knight avenue by William Roy Laidley of Newfolden was hit on the right front fender and wheel by a cab owned by Fred's Cab Service and driven by Delmer Rux. The cab was traveling east on Fourth street. Damage was estimated at $350 to the Laidley car and $450 to the cab and Mrs. Stanley Lemky, city, passenger in the cab, was treated at a local clinic for cuts and abrasions. The case is under investigation.

At about 11:30 a. m. Sunday, a car driven west on First street by Dwight Anton, rt. 5, TRF, was

IN LINE for registration and testing of traffic law knowledge and riding skills are part of the more than 450 youngsters who were on hand for the bicycle safety program Saturday. This photo was taken at Washington elementary school where the Junior Chamber of Commerce, state driver's license examiners and city police issued 224 licenses during the four-hour program. Volunteers from the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2793 and other law enforcement officers conducted a second testing station at the east side playground on First street for $243 youngsters. City Police Chief Elton Cummings had stated that all youngsters having bicycles must take the test this year to receive licenses. Ralph Jorstad headed the Jaycee bicycle safety committee with Lester DeBriyn handling arrangements for the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Another look at this picture by motorists, and the note that this was only a part of the total bikes licensed, should indicate that caution must be exercised while drivng during the cycling season.

Donald Joppru Takes Miss Kyle Johnson As Bride

First Lutheran Church of Gary was the scene of the exchange of vows between Miss Kyle Dianne Johnson of that city and Donald Duane Joppru of Thief River Falls, on April 28 at an evening wedding. The double-ring service was performed by the Rev. Thompson before an altar decorated with roses and tapers.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Emery Johnson of Gary and of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Joppru of rural Thief River Falls.

The wedding march, from Handel was played by Richard Tammerick of Gary, organist, and Harvey Degerness sang, "The Wedding Prayer," and "Oh, Perfect Love."

Escorting the bride to the altar was her father, by whom she was given in marriage. She was gowned in Chantilly lace over nylon, the gown fashioned in floor length and featuring a scalloped neckline and long sleeves. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Her maid of honor was her sister, Gayle Johnson of Gary. Bridesmaids were a sister, Miss Carolyn Johnson, and Miss Barbara Joppru, the former of Gary, and the latter of Thief River Falls. Miss Joppru is the groom's sister. They wore full-skirted dresses of lilac chiffon over taffeta, designed in sleeveless style, with high front necklines and low-cut backs. Their bouquets were of pink roses.

Best man was Dean Joppru of Thief River Falls, brother of the groom, and Ronald Olson and Dale Glass, all of this city. Like the groom, they wore tuxedos, and boutonnieres of white carnations.

The bride's mother wore a sheath dress of navy blue, accessorized with white, while the mother of the groom wore a beige dress, sheath style, with brown and beige accessories. Their corsages were fashioned of pink roses.

Flower girl was the bride's small sister, Nancy Jo Johnson of Gary. She wore a floor-length gown of white satin. Carrying the rings was Rocky Delray Joppru, brother of the groom. He wore a tuxedo.

The wedding cake which graced the serving table at the reception was of five tiers, and pillared.

For their wedding trip to Greeley, Colorado, the bride chose a navy blue broadcled suit with a green blouse and matching jacket.

Mrs. Joppru is a 1962 graduate of the Gary high school, while her husband graduated from Ohio meat-cutting school in 1957.

They are at home in Thief River Falls, where the bridegroom is associated with his father in the Joppru Meat Service.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

MRS. HILDUR LIAN

Wearying just a bit of meal-planning and food preparation? Who isn't, with spring bustin' out all over the place, and the robin just daring you to forsake the kitchen for awhile and join him out on the lawn? But, unfortunately, the family still has to eat. So you're probably looking for something in the dessert line that is light and in keeping with the season, and moreover, simple to fix. This sounds like the answer, and Mrs. Lian, who is sharing the idea with you, says she liks it for just those reasons. It's basic enought, too, to suggest a wealth of variations. How about you?

FRUIT SALAD

1 pkg. lemon pie filling, cooked and cooled. Add 1 cup cream, whipped. Fold in 1 can drained fruit cocktail and 1 cup white miniature marshmallows. Mix gently. Chill in the refrigerator for 3 or 4 hours.

This can be cut into squares and served without a garnish, or it can be placed on a bed of lettuce and-or dressed up with a maraschino cherry.

Mrs. Lian was a farm wife, the mother of two sons. They lived on a farm in Smiley township until 9 years ago when they moved into town. Mr. Lian has since passed away, and she now keeps house for one of her sons, Omer, and his five children. Her other son Armond, lives on a farm near the airport road.

Caring for five grandchildren is a full-time pursuit, but Mrs. Lian says she finds time occasionally to work on her favorite hobby, crocheting. She also enjoys raising flowers, both indoors and out. And to further fill her schedule, she is an active member of the Zion Lutheran parish, a member of the ladies aid and of a church circle.

Urge Understanding One's Limits of Work

Don't blame yourself if you can't get as much work done as your neighbor.

Since people vary greatly in the amount of physical, mental and nervous-energy they have, it is important to understand your own work capacity, points out Mary Frances Lamison, state home economics agent at the University of Minnesota. Plan to take advantage of the time of high energy to get the bulk of your houswork done, she suggests to homemakers. For example, whether you work best in the early morning or in the evening, make the best possible use of that time without feeling guilty because you don't conform to the work pattern of your neighbors.

Once you recognize your energy capacity, accept the challenge of finding more efficient ways of working and of making every piece of work a satisfying experience. Here are some suggestions from Miss Lamison for more efficient use of energy:

Have a common understanding of what the family wants out of life; then eliminate whatever does not lead to those goals.

Organize work to be done in daily, weekly, monthly and occasional schedules, and integrate some jobs from each schedule into each day's tasks so that no one day is heavily loaded with housekeeping.

When you buy furnishings and equipment for the home, choose only those things you will really want to keep clean and care for as the manufacturer has recommended. This rule will save time, money and energy.

Work at a speed best suited to your individual capacity and let other family members do the same.

Do disliked jobs early in the work period, leaving the more enjoyable ones for times when you have less energy.

Develop skill in tasks to be done. Learn how others proceed with their housework; they may have some good management techniques.

Use thigh and leg muscles rather than back muscles when lifting.

Learn to dovetail as many jobs as possible. For example, cook breakfast cereal in top of the double boiler and hard-cook eggs in the bottom for lunches.

Take frequent rest periods—preferably 10 minutes out of each hour to relax.

Braille Provides Workbook for Visually Handicapped

Supplementary Book Provided by Banks Is Furnished Blind Girl

"Mrs. Nubson brailled me a bank book so that I could work with one, too." This was the statement made in a letter from Chris Ann Cuppett, third grade pupil in Mrs. Laura Sylvester's class at Washington elementary school, and participant in the local school's program for the visually handicapped. Mrs. Nubson directs the handicapped program.

The book to which she referred was a workbood entitled "My Bank Book of Values" which is provided for third grade students by Union and Northern State banks in Thief River Falls. This is the fifth year that local banks have participated in the program to teach principles of sound money management to students in grades 1 through 12 in the local school system.

Booklets are distributed each year to pupils in third, fifth, ninth and 12th grades at local public schools and St. Bernard's elementary school. "In Account with Youth" is the title of the educational program which provides for distribution of workbooks and charts which are used at the discretion of the teacher in the regular curriculum.

Pupil Writes Letter

"We liked 'My Bank Book of Values'. Thank you for giving them to us." Chris Ann's brailled letter continued. "We used them for language and social studies lessons. We learned that good habits are more important than money. We learned that good habits will help us to earn and save money when we are older."

Since students in the visually handicapped program tak part in the regular classroom routine, Chris Ann would have missed out on the "Bank Book" if it had not been brailled for her. With Mrs. Nubson's assistance, she was able to use the same material with which her classmates were provided.

Other books in succeeding years include "Money and Banks Help Make History" for the fifth grade; "Mind Your Business" for the ninth grade; and "Count Your Assets", 12th grade.

Administering the program were Sister M. Hyacinthe, St. Bernard's school; George Stockman, director of elementary education; Francis Hamerlinck, junior high school principal; and Richard Edlund, senior high school principal.

Carole Wald and Myrna Weckwerth.

Debate pins were presented to Mary Dryden, Rosemary Votava, Kathy Mousley, Arlene Ekdahl, Gail Stromsmoe, Kathy Wold and Rolf Wangberg. First year pins for speech participation were given to seniors Trudy Waale, Nancy Newton, Mary Bennes, Gretchen Larson, Robert Benson, Kathy Mousley, and Fred Evenson.

Orchestra participation awards went to Mary Bennes, Gretchen Larson, Nona Pukari, Gail Stromsmoe, Kathy Hruby, Larry Larson, Trudy Waale, Kathy Hartje, Ron Kvikstad, Margaret Lynskey, Laureen Benke and Roger Wilson.

Senior cheerleaders receiving awards were Gretchen Larson, Leona and Linda Dahl and Kathy Hruby. Future Nurses awards went to Sandra Halvorson, Gloria Philipp, Myrna Weckwerth, Marilyn Mandt and Linda Noel.

A list of candidates for graduation will be published with information on baccalaureate and commencement exercises in a later edition of the Times.

DEMONSTRATING on her braille writer for interested visitors is Chris Ann Cuppett, third grade student at Washington elementary school, under the direction of Mrs. Martha Nubson, director of the visually handicapped program at the school. Others left to right are George Stockman, director of elementary education; Gene Belto, vice president of Northern State Bank; J. J. Womack, president of Union State Bank; and Mrs. Laura Sylvester, Chris Ann's classroom teacher. Local banks provide educational material on money management which is used in the regular school curriculum. Mrs. Nubson transcribed one of the workbooks into braille so that Chris Ann could follow the program with the rest of her class.

Orville Peters, supervisor of the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement association, lists the following herds as the top ten in the association for the month of April:

The herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month.

If too many dry cows are included in the herd then the average for that month may be low even though the cows which are milking produce a lot of milk.

There were 26 herds on test with a total of 738 cows and an average of 28.4 cows per herd during April with the Pennington Association; eighty-eight per cent of which were milking. The average amount of milk produced per cow was 992 pounds which tested 3.64 per cent fat. This amounted to 36.1 pounds of B. F. per cow.

Three cows finished with over 500 lbs. B. F. during the testing year, in a 365-day or less lactation. They were:

CHAMBER L.I.F.E.

Living-Industry-Farming-Education

By Rolly Larson
Manager Chamber of Commerce

One of the most famous laws known to man is the "Law of Averages." It has been arrived at by calculating mathematicians who have tested it thousands of times. I toperates like clockwork and that law cannot be broken, even by the highest authority in the land. It cannot even be bent.

Well known to poker players who study and make use of the "Law of Averages," it can also be applied to many other things. It is interesting to apply this law to a look at our local economy.

If we were to average out the annual results of the agricultural, business, and other aspects of our economy over a period of years, chart them, and plot them on a graph we would be quite impressed and would definitely notice an upward curve. Once realizing the significance of this "proof," understanding nature's effect on this area and holding basic knowledge of man's actions in his struggle for survival and success, one cannot help but become an incurable optimist. One would immediately predict a continuance of the upward trend and would be absolutely correct. Who can argue with the "Law of Averages?"

To properly discuss this subject one should write a book but each of us might think about this until somebody writes one. We must admit that this year farmers are able to seed their crop, new construction is taking place, business is good, the outlook is bright and nearly everyone is optimistic—even without seeing the graph we mentioned.

In any event, when American people are coupled with the possibilities a given area holds for them, they automatically "play the percentages" and when honest, clear thought is applied to that "Law of Averages", the outcome is favorable on the overall.

Therefore, with this law in mind and with lots and lots of patience we should all feel good as we Shop and Trade Where Bargains Are Made—Here in the Heart of Northwest Minnesota, Thief River Falls.

Pembina Firm to Erect 2,064-foot Television Tower

Federal Communications Commission approval for construction of a 2,064-foot television tower near Mayville, N. D., was announced Wednesday.

The tower will enable Pembina Broadcasting Co. to serve both the Fargo and Grand Forks areas on channel 11 through KXGO-TV, Fargo. The call letter of the Fargo station will be changed effective May 15 to KEND-TV, Robert Lukkason of Grand Forks, general manager of Pembina Broadcasting, said.

The tower 10 miles south of Mayville was described by the FCC as the tallest man-made structure in the world. It said that record now is held by a 1,749-foot antenna near Columbus, Ga.

The FCC also authorized transfer of KNOX-TV, channel 10, from Grand Forks to Thief River Falls, where it will operate as a slave satellite of KEND-TV. Pembina Broadcasting also owns KCND-TV at Pembina.

Lukkason said contracts for construction of the giant tower will be let at Chicago over the weekend and that it is hoped construction can be completed by next November.

Don't Aid Illegal Practice

If You Didn't Order It — You Shouldn't Pay for It

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce office said today the irksome practice of sending unordered merchandise through the mails continues to flourish and advised the public that it is generally under no obligation to pay for or return unsolicited goods.

The Chamber office stated that housewives and business and professional people report the receipt of a wide variety of goods they didn't order and don't want, including books, aprons, ties, handkerchiefs, fountain pens, wallets, stationery and other items.

Many of them, according to the Chamber, are uncertain whether they are obliged to comply with the shipper's request to pay for the merchandise or return it. "They are not aware of their rights and liabilities and are confused as to what their attitude should be toward the unheralded package delivered to them."

Suggesting that the best way to end this merchandising evil is to make it unprofitable for the senders, the Chamber office set forth these guidelines on the care and treatment of unsolicited goods:

Recipients of unordered merchandise generally are not obliged:

1. To acknowledge its receipt.
2. To return it.
3. To pay for it, unless used.
4. To give it particular care.
5. To keep it beyond a reasonable length of time.

They are obliged:

1. To surrender it to the shipper or his agent, if called for in person, within a reasonable period of time. In this event, the recipient may demand the payment of storage charges before relinquishing the merchandise.

"As a practical matter," said the Chamber of Commerce, "senders of unordered merchandise are rarely in a position to institute suit for the petty amounts involved and they know it. Nevertheless, some shippers make nasty threats designed to frighten the timid into remitting or returning the goods."

According to the National Better Business Bureau, with which the local Chamber is affiliated, the use of dunning letters which make threats to compel the payment of money may be a violation of the so-called extortion law. The National Bureau also reported that:

The shipment of unordered goods through the mails on a C. O. D. basis is specifically barred by postal regulations.

Those who ship unordered merchandise through the mails do so at their own risk. They cannot collect from the Post Office if the goods are allegedly lost or damaged because goods sent through the mails without an order are not insurable.

The Chamber also said unordered goods are sometimes sent through the mails in connection with a charity appeal but noted that the merchandise is often of a shoddy character and that the percentage of the dollar remitted which serves a genuine philanthropic purpose is likely to be very minor.

The local Chamber advised donors to charity to contribute through organized channels which make public accounting of the funds they receive and how they spend them.

BE VERY CAREFUL MAY AND JUNE AFTERNOONS

"Minnesota Tornado Fact Sheet" is the ominous title of a recent communication from the "Weather Bureau Climatologist" of the United States Department of Commerce Minneapolis office. Our state lies, it is disclosed, "along the northern edge of the region of maximum tornado frequency, Texas - Oklahoma - Kansas - Iowa." With an annual frequency of 5.3 tornadoes per year, Minnesota is close to the average for the ten mid-western states, though well below the Kansas average of 28 and Iowa 14. June is the "danger month" of the year with 83 tornadoes during the 47 years '16-'62. July days brought 57 tornadoes, May 31-48, August 22-36, September 9-10. Only months entirely free from tornadic activity during the entire period were the so-called winter months of December, January, and February. Most dangerous time of day is from 3 to 7 in the afternoon, 4 to 8 daylight saving. The southern half of the state has entertained approximately 80 per cent of these unwelcome visitors, which have brought death to 183 persons and injury to another 548 throughout the state, besides property losses soaring to $25,000,000 or more. Our Climatologist warns that "there is no universal protection against tornadoes except underground excavations; next best is southwest basement corner of home, or along inside walls — staying away from windows; if caught outdoors, lie flat, in a depression if available; and keep calm."

Six large Colorado Blue Spruce have been planted near the front of the Winter Shows Arena as part of the landscaping planned for this spring.

The trees were donated by T. M. McCall, past president of the Winter Shows board of managers and former superintendent of the Northwest School and Experiment Station.

HOSPITAL Week is being observed across the nation this week and Northwestern Hospital in Thief River Falls is participating in the observance. Each year the hospital employees contribute to a scholarship fund on the basis of a penny per employee per baby born at the hospital. Last year there were a total of 334 births at Northwestern and this year the nursing scholarship loan totals $300. Recipient of the loan is Miss Bernis Elverum, a nurse's aid at the local hospital for 4 years, who wishes to take formal training to become a registered nurse. The scholarship this year is named after Greg Habedank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Habedank, who was born at the hospital on April 16, 1962. He is shown with his parents at right making the scholarship presentation to Miss Elverum after being selected in a drawing to have the scholarship named after himself.

Advises Students on How to Spend Summer

By Dr. Irvamae Applegate, President, Minnesota Education Assn.

Students are talking happily about the coming three-months vacation from school with "nothing to do". Parents are anticipating the first "I want something to do".

Historically, the pattern of summer vacation was established to free youngsters to help on the farm. Now, when most youth are not needed to help their parents, what-to-do-in-the-summer becomes a problem.

Young people can benefit from the change of pace that summer vacation affords, but childhood and youth are precious and the time should not be squandered on aimlessness or inactivity. Most will have only 10 or 11 summers during their elementary and secondary school years before they take jobs, marry, go on to school or assume other responsibilities. These summers should be used to do the kinds of things a youngster won't have the time or opportunity to do again until he retires. These summers should be used to develop interests and skills for use throughout life and to make retirment a rich experience.

Increasing numbers of communities are providing summer programs so that young people can acquire new skills or improve others they don't have time for during the school year. Some parents are reluctant to let their children participate in such summer "school" because of the mistaken notion that it is make-up work for children who fall behind during the school year. While classes for making up work are included in summer programs, they are neither the bulk of the program nor its purpose.

Learning to type, improving reading skills, exploring electronics, or experimenting with art materials are examples of satisfying experiences young people of all ages are having in forward-looking communities.

And, whether or not young people wish to participate in available planned programs, there are innumerable "do-it-yourself" possibilities, ranging from those that parents sponsor to those that get their motive power from the ingenuity of the individual, depending upon his age. Of course, parents should provide encouragement and guidance regardless of the ages of their children.

Books are available everywhere—story books, how-to-do-it books and guidebooks for identifying everything from rocks to flowers. (One of this writer's most used books was a 50-cent guide of identifying trees. The collection of leaf specimens resulting from the possession of this book was used in high school and college biology classes.)

Collecting is appealing and worthwhile for the knowlege gained, for the development of skill in organizing the items collected, and for contacts made in collecting and sharing.

A recent issue of a national magazine (Life, May 3, 1963) lists 10 areas of self-employment for young people. The cash realized from all of them put together would not be as valuable as the experience and knowledge gained.

Minnesotans particularly have the opportunity to really learn about the out-of-doors, from camping out to simple outdoor cookery.

The list of possibilities for worthwhile summer activities is inexhaustible. For young children it requires guidance from parents. For older youth it requires parental direction and encouragement.

Summer vacation should be invested in activities that help the young person to gain knowledge or skill he didn't have before. It is a time for exploration and experimentation. For all, it should be a profitable investment.

No Restrictons on Beet Acreage for the 1965 Crop

Agriculture Department Makes Announcement Monday in Washington

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced last Monday that acreage restrictions (proportionate shares) would not be established for the 1965 crop of sugarbeets.

This announcement was made concurrently with action taken by the Department which increased 1963 domestic sugar requirements (total quotas) from 9,800,000 tons to 10,400,000 tons. At the same time the 91,537 tons of 1963 quota increase accruing to the beet area was reallocated to the foreign countries because the anticipated supplies of beet sugar available this year make it unlikely that the area would market the additional sugar.

On March 14, the department announced that 1964 crop sugarbeet plantings would not be restricted. At that time, it was observed that beet sugar production would have to exceed marketings sufficiently to create safe and resonable stock levels before acreage restrictions could be reimposed.

Monday's action establishing the 1963 requirements at 10,400,000 tons with accompanying quotas for the beet area of 2,990,127 short tons, re-emphasizes the need for additional beet stocks to permit the area to meet future marketing opportunities.

FACE-LIFTING was taking place last week at Carnegie Public Library grounds with city crews engaged in an improvement project. For years the library has been bothered by seepage into the basement, caused by the lawn sloping toward the building rather than away from it. In order to shape the lot in the proper fashion, a large tree was removed. This camera angle photo of the project was made possible by the city's new boom truck which will be pictured in a later edition of the Times.

Medical Advances Aid Child Health

State Association Tells of Services Available

Parents of today have the right to expect the highest quality of medical care for their children, notes the Minnesota State Medical Association.

The assurance of top medical care for the younger generation has been made possible through the combined efforts of the family doctor, the child specialist (pediatrician), medical research teams, as well as school health nurses.

Here are some of the things which parents have the right to expect in the interest of better health for their children: Immunization. As the result of medical research children have the right to be protected against at least six diseases during the first year of their life. These are diptheria, smallpox, whooping cough, poliomyelitis, lockjaw and now measles. While children have the right to receive this protection the Minnesota physicians' group reminds parents that it is their responsibility to see that the children receive the benefits of these protective measures.

In addition parents have the assurance that their children can receive protection against rabies, typhoid fever, mumps and other diseases should the disease reach epidemic proportions in the child's community.

The rapid development of drugs further assures the parents greater protection against many other diseases not known ten years ago have hastened the recovery of a sick child. In some cases lengthened the life span of a chronically ill child. It is the right of the child to receive regular physical examinations to detect handicapping or dangerous conditions.

Don Murray and Christine Kaufmann are co-starred in "Escape from East Berlin," drama depicting the escape of a group of East Germans via a tunnel under the Berlin Wall. The film starts Tuesday at the Falls Theatre.

Load Limits On Roads Will Be Removed in May

Continued favorable weather and road conditions will permit the removing of seasonal load restrictions on Zones 1 through 4 effective Wednesday and in zones 5 and 6 on May 20, according to the Minnesota Highway Department. Several exceptions were listed, however, and include the following:

Seven tons per axle on highway 220 from 10 miles north of East Grand Forks to the junction with highway 1 at Alvarado and from junction with highway 1 at Oslo to six miles north; four tons per axle on highway 1 from highway 6 to Northome and highway 72 from Waskish to Baudett; and five tons per axle on highway 1 from the north junction of highway 89 to the west Beltrami county line.

Posted road restrictions govern the legal loads on each section of highway.

GRYGLA NAVY MAN NOW IS SERVING ON GUAM

Darrel D. Anderson, construction electrician's mate third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilmer Anderson of Route 3, Grygla, a member of Naval Mobile Construction Battalion Eleven, is presently assigned duty on Guam, Marianas Islands, since Typhoon "Karen" struck the island in November.

Troops were airlifted to Guam within 48 hours after the storm hit, to assist in disaster recovery operations. By January, the restoration phase of recovery was well under control.

Construction Battalion Eleven's Guam deployment ends in June, when the unit returns to its home base at Port Hueneme, Calif.

LHS Ball Club Swamps Cilmax by 14-0 Tally

Dick Johnson pitched a five-inning no-hit and no-run game here Saturday night as coach Ralph Skny's Prowlers defeated the Climax Vikings, 14 to 0, in a district conference game played on the Fair Grounds diamond. The game was called at the end of the fifth inning in compliance with the high school league's ten-run provision.

The win boosted the Prowlers' season's mark of six wins and four losses, and in district competition the locals have a record of four wins and one loss.

The Prowlers' stocky righthander, in spinning his no-hitter, gave up five walks, and collected seven strikeouts. Only three balls were hit to the outfield, with Pat Peterson sending a fly ball to center field in the second inning, and Mike Nesvig, in the third, and Bill Keller, in the fourth, lofting fly balls to right fielder Mark Anderson.

The Prowlers took advantage of fifteen bases on balls issued by three Climax hurlers, with starter Dale Walker being especially liberal as he gave up ten walks. Tony Poole rapped out a double in the second inning with the bases loaded to score three Prowler runners, and in the fifth, Jerry Erickson drove out a two-run double. Rick Jenen had a "three for three" day, beating out a drag bunt in the third, getting a "leg hit" to shortstop in the fourth, and a double to left field in the fifth.

The box score.

Hurricane "Carol" is believed to have caused more property damage than any other single U.S. storm on record, according to Collier's Encyclopedia. The 1954 hurricane killed 68 persons, injured 1,000 and caused $500,000,000 in property damage along the eastern seaboard from North Carolina to Maine.

Beef and Pork Are Current Good Buys

Other Bargains Cited by 'U' Marketing Specialist

Food shoppers will find good buys in beef and pork this week—and probably throughout the whole month of May.

For other reasonably priced foods this week, look for specials on ice cream in half gallons, two-pound cans of coffee and three-pound cans of shortening.

Produce sections will be featuring potatoes from the Red River Valley, Florida cucumbers and radishes, Texas onions and carrots, corn on the cob and California strawberries. California is shipping much of its strawberry crop by air this year so that fresh California strawberries may now be purchased on the East coast and even in Europe.

Mary Ryan, extension consumer marketing specialist at the University of Minnesota, says wise shoppers can stretch their food dollars by watching for specials on beef and pork and buying the less popular cuts, which usually have lower price tags. But to be sure of saving money, check the number of servings per pound and compare cost per serving, she suggests.

Beef and pork are priced well below seasonal averages because of large supplies. The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that as much as 10 to 15 per cent more beef is likely to be marketed between April and June this year than during this time last year. Slaughter rates for pork during these months are also expected to be up from last year.

Besides beef and pork, plentiful foods during May will include broiler-fryer chicken, carrots, canned freestone peaches, milk and other dairy products.

THOUSANDS TRAVEL FAR FOR SEVEN OPERAS AT U

Fourteen states and four Canadian provinces are very likely again represented in Minneapolis this week by thousands of "opera buffs" drawn by the longest yet of the 19 annual Metropolitan Opera Company stands at Northrop Auditorium on the University campus. Starting in the early '40's with four productions, the Met will this year stage seven complete operas Tuesday through Saturday evenings with Saturday and Sunday matinees. Otello and Boris Godunov thrilled capacity houses the first two evenings. Thursday evening brings Die Mistersinger, followed by the popular "twins" Cavalleria Rusticana and Pagliacci, Barber of Saville, LaTravinta, and Fledermaus. Hundreds of performers — vocal, ballet, and orchestra, plus lighting, scenery, and costume experts and several top Metropolitan administrators — swarm the Twin Cities along with 10,000 enthusiastic visitors and 20,000 local supporters. It's truly a gala week to which all of Minnesota, and every other music lover, are cordially welcome. There are still both time and tickets for late comers to join the happy throngs.

Prowlers Tip Roseau, Lose to Bemidji 5-2

The baseball Prowlers' winning streak, which had reached four games by their 7 to 3 win over the Roseau Rams on Wednesday night, was halted by the Bemidji Lumberjacks who scored a 5 to 2 win over the locals in a game played on the Cass Lake diamond on Friday afternoon.

This week's schedule will find the Prowlers meeting the Warren Ponies, in a district conference game, here on Wednesday night, May 13, at 8 p. m. On Friday, May 17, the Prowlers will travel to Roseau for a return game against coach Ray Kavanagh's Rams.

coach Ray Kavanaugh's Rams. The game scheduled with Fertile for 8 p.m. tonight has been postponed to Monday, May 27, due to rain and wet grounds.

The Prowlers were held to but two base hits by Roseau's right-handed Dennis Nelson on Wednesday night, but these two hits, by Jerry Erickson in the third and John Aune in the fourth, were factors in providing the locals with a pair of three-run innings. Aune's three-base hit scored a pair of runs in the fourth.

Jack Leedahl, Prowler right-hander, gave up but three hits, issued seven walks, and struck out eleven batsmen.

On Friday afternoon, in a game that was transferred to the Cass Lake diamond because of the unplayable condition of the new Bemidji field, the Bemidji Lumberjacks, scoring five unearned runs in the second inning, defeated coach Ralph Skay's club, 5 to 2.

In the Bemidji second inning, after Jerry Fossand and Tom Mathews had been retired, Dick Bowman singled to left field. Ralph Levering gained a "life" on a wide throw to first base, Rod Leyendecker drew a walk, loading the bases. Leadoff batter Steve Dale sent a ground single past third base, scoring a pair of tallies. Rick Jensen walked a pair of batters, forcing in a run, and when John Dow singled, the Jacks had a couple more runs on the scoreboard.

The Prowlers picked up a run in the third when Jensen walked, stole second, and, after Jerry Erickson had popped out to first, scored on Paul Klungness' single to center field.

The locals added another run on Erickson's tally in the seventh. With one out, on Dave Ellingson's line drive to pitcher Jerry Fossand, Jensen drew a walk. Jerry Erickson hit into a force play, third to second, for the second out. Klungness was safe when shortstop Dale bobbled a ground ball. Aune, who had two hits in three trips, sent a ground single into center field, scoring Erickson. Dave Erickson ended the threat by being Fossand's seventh strikeout victim.

The Season's First Stag

The local golf club will hold its first stag night of the 1963 season on Wednesday evening, and with the course in excellent condition, and a moderation in the cold weather, a large crowd is expected.

Roger Tunberg is authority for the statement that the greens are in best condition in a number of years, and that they "wintered" very well. Accordingly, if any golfer requires more than two putts on a green, he should file his complaint with Rog!

And speaking of golf, and bowling, he's perhaps not aware of the fact, but there is a possibility that Shorty O'Hara of O'Hara's Transfer will be tapped by the Sunday morning golfing foursome of Nicky Carlson, Art Langseth, Lloyd Brunsberg, and Bob Craik, to sponsor a bowling team next season. The reason for this talk is that Art Langseth intends to "come out of retirement" next bowling season. He's got a long way to come!

Highway Warning

Erv Pearson, project engineer for the state highway department, forwards the information, and warning, that fishermen intending to fish the Waskish area on Upper Red Lake on Saturday and Sunday, should not attempt to drive state highway number 1 through the Red Lake Reservation.

The highway is being rebuilt, and Erv says that the road is impassable. Anglers driving to the Red Lake area should turn north on the black-topped highway at the Goodridge corner, and then pick up highway 89 at the "six-mile" corner. Or, of course, the anglers can take the "southern" route, along highway 59 and 2 to Bemidji and thence on to Kelliher and Waskish. But number 1 is to be avoided in its reservation mileage.

Pertinent Comment

In a recent issue of "Sports Illustrated" magazine some valid objections were voiced on the over-organization of kid sports. And that the adults were becoming too seriously involved with these kid sports, to the detriment of the benefit that the boys derive from participation in these sports.

The comments were germinated by a statement from Reno, Nev. to the effect that the number of boys participating in Little League play there had been reduced by 120 from the number who played last season, and because of lack of playing facilities. At the same time the recreation department of Reno has hired three additional men to help run the league.

Says "Sports Illustrated": "We have a suggestion for the boys who didn't make the cut. Go find an empty lot someplace, choose up sides (even if you end up six on one team and seven on the other) and play ball. You don't need an umpire, you don't even need a catcher. You can stop in the middle of the game to look at a snake that somebody found in the outfield. You can play two innings, or 14, or all day. You really ought to try it. It's lots of fun."

And it's a fact that boys can gain much by organizing and playing their own games. In my younger days I was a member of the Mill Yards baseball group, and we considered ourselves a cut or two above the boys who played on the Fairfax Addition lots, but the results of the games between the two teams didn't always support our belief. As the late poet Robert Frost was fond of saying, "You have to have a chance to lose", and there is merit in being able to take the lumps and the losses.

Per Cent of Farms Run by Owners Declines

While farm numbers have been going down in Minnesota, farm ownership has followed a variable pattern over the years.

Proportion of Minnesota farms operated by full owners was nearly two-thirds in 1920, about half in 1935 and since then has climbed to nearly 60 per cent. Meanwhile, proportion of tenants reached a peak in 1935 and has since declined.

Farms where part of the land is operator-owned have increased almost steadily from 11 per cent of all farms in 1920 to 21 per cent in 1959.

An analysis of these changes is offered by agricultural economists A. R. Wells and S. A. Engene, in the current issue of Farm Business Notes, a University of Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service publication.

Looking back to the early years, they list three main reasons for the drop in ownership between 1920 and 1935. First, with low agricultural prices and incomes in those depression years, many farmers simply couldn't accumulate enough capital to buy a farm. Second, some farmers couldn't meet debt payments and were foreclosed, or turned their farms back before foreclosure proceedings started. And third, with limited nonfarm job opportunities in the '30's, off-farm migration slowed and more people stayed in rural areas as potential tenants.

After the mid-thirties, the per cent of tenants operating farms was nearly cut in half. And the per cent of part owners increased by one-half. So along with the increase in full owners, four out of five Minnesota farmers owned at least part of their land by 1959.

Why was there such a marked shift back to ownership? The first factor, say Wells and Engene, was the steady increase in agricultural prices during the 'forties. Farm incomes went up faster than expenses. Many farmers accumulated money enough to buy outright or make a downpayment on a farm. And in spite of a steady downward pressure on agricultural prices since 1950, the per cent of full owners has stayed fairly constant.

A second factor is mechanization, which has made it wise for farmers to spread fixed machine costs over more acres. With high land values and with capital tied up in machinery, many owners have rented additional land. On the other hand, some tenants had to buy to secure additional land, thereby adding to the large percentage increase in part owners.

Wells and Engene believe that farm tenancy in Minnesota may have reached its lower limit. They reason this way: Assume that the average farm owner operates his farm for 40 years before retiring. If the farm is a good investment, he will want to rent it and live off the income. So if he lives another 10 years, one farm in every five will be tenant-operated.

Top Conservation Area to Be Named

Judges Are Appointed for Minnesota Contest

Arnold Onstad, president of the Minnesota Association of Soil Conservation Districts, has announced a three-man committee to select the state's outstanding conservation district.

The judging committee will review score sheets of soil conservation districts entered in an annual recognition awards program sponsored by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company. The top farmer-conservationist chosen and a member of the district's governing board will be guests of Goodyear for a study-research trip to Arizona in December.

Judges in Minnesota are Roger S. Harris, extension soil conservationist, Agricultural Extension Service, St. Paul Campus, University of Minnesota, chairman; Thomas A. Doughty, associate editor, "The Farmer," St. Paul; and Roger Preuss, wildlife artist and naturalist, Minneapolis.

Winning districts and individuals will be announced in August.

66 Home Agents Go to Conference at U' May 14-17

Sixty-six home agents throughout Minnesota will attend their annual spring conference on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul Campus May 14-17.

A major portion of the conference will be devoted to discussions of working with an expanding clientele. Workshop groups will consider ways of adapting methods to specific clientele.

Speakers from out of state who will address the conference include Gertrude Dieken, home editor, Farm Journal, Philadelphia; Mrs. Katharyn Zimmerman, assistant director, Missouri Agricultural Extension service, Columbia; Candace Hurley, home economics editor, Iowa State University, Ames.

Urge Care in Use of Power Mowers

Many Persons Injured as Result of Careless Use

It's hard to find a messier or more plainful way to lose fingers and toes than to get them under a power rotary lawn mower.

Yet in a recent year in the United States, power mowers clipped 50,000 toes and 18,000 fingers and threw rocks and otherwise caused injuries in a total of 70,000 accidents, according to Glenn Prickett, extension safety specialist at the University of Minnesota.

You don't have to be operating a lawn mower to be injured, either. Prickett says more than a third of the mower-caused injuries were to innocent bystanders.

"The blade on a rotary mower travels at 2,000 to 4,000 revolutions per minute," Prickett says. "Rocks and other objects thrown by the blades injured 20,000 children, killing some."

Prickett says that you can help to keep the accident toll down if you follow these rules when mowing:

Study your operator's manual so that you know how to safely start and stop the machine.

Clean your lawn of all debris before starting to mow. Stones, nails and wire can easily be picked up and thrown.

Keep children, guests and pets away from the area you are mowing.

Maintain the mower properly. Keep it clean and the blade sharp and tight.

Always shut off the mower when you must leave it for a few moments.

Minnesota 4-H Clubs to Observe Rural Life Sunday

Minnesota 4-H'ers will observe Rural Life Sunday on May 19. On this day the spiritual emphasis in 4-H is brought to focus as members attend church together and assist in special ways with services. Rural Life, or 4-H Sunday is observed the fifth Sunday after Easter. It is closely linked with Rogation Days that emphasize praying for God's blessing upon the fruit of the earth. 4-H'ers join in seeking the blessing of God upon the land, the seed, the cultivation of the earth and the enrichment of home and community life, explains Marshall county club agent Harlem Sandberg.

Aquatennial to Open July 19 in Minneapolis

Aquatennial, the Minneapolis water festival highlighting the vacation pleasures of Minnesota's land of 10,000 Lakes, will be held July 19 through the 28.

The twenty-four-year old City of Lakes' festival including over 200 events will have as its special theme this summer, "Neighbors to the North," a salute to Canada.

Spotlighting with an aquatic flourish both Minnesota and its largest city, Aquatennial blends beauty, pageantry, colorful parades, sports events, and top-name entertainment into America's largest summertime festival.

Founded in 1939, Aquatennial has grown rapidly to become the "Mardi Gras" of the North. Disturbed by unfavorable publicity which Minneapolis received during the 1930's, the Aquatennial initiators hoped to establish a festival which would not only provide community fun, but would promote the unique beauty and recreation potential of Minneapolis and the state of Minnesota.

Minneapolis, a city of 22 lakes and 147 parks, is a natural setting for the staging of the nationally famous festival.

The Canadian theme for 1963 will be highlighted in the two gigantic Aquatennial parades, now recognized as being among the top ten festival parades in America. Colorful Canadian bagpipe bands, Royal Canadian Mounted Police units, and other Canadian representatives will join with the quality bands, precision marching units, more than seventy beautiful floats, pretty girls, and laugh-provoking clowns in making up the 1963 parades. The Grande Day Parade, Saturday, July 20, will feature all this dazzling color under sunlight. The Torchlight Parade, scheduled for Wednesday evening, July 24, will recast with a myriad of lights the daytime extravaganza.

Before each parade is a celebrity-studded pre-parade show at Parade Stadium, the starting point for the two-hour processions, which follows a two-and-a-hlaf mile route down Nicollet Avenue, Minneapolis' fashion boulevard.

Starting with the world's largest canoe derby, a 450-mile marathon down the Mississippi from Lake Bemidji to Minneapolis, the Aquatennial features many sports and lakes activities for the avid sport fan. Sailing regattas, a water ski tournament, hydroplane and outboard motor races, Air-O-Rama air show, and many other events are designed for outdoor enjoyment.

In the evening Al Sheehan's Aqua Follies, ranked as one of the country's most imaginative show producions, is another wholesome family-type Aquatennial attraction.

Yvonne Foster Is Graduate of Bible Institute May 17

Mrs. Yvonne Foster of Minneapolis is one of 52 students who will graduate from the Lutheran Bible Institute in Minneapolis, Friday, May 17, at 7:45 p. m. She is also a registered nurse, having completed her training at the Lutheran Deaconess Hospital, Minneapolis, in 1962.

Commencement exercises will be on the LBI campus, 6125 Olson Highway, Golden Valley, a suburb of Minneapolis. Dr. C. M. Granskou, president of St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., will be the commencement speaker.

Yellowstone National Park was the first area in the world designated a national park to protect and preserve the natural landscape for human enjoyment. It was established in 1872 by an Act of Congress.

Soo Line Reports on Crops Status in Area

The following report on crop conditions in the large area served by the Soo Line railroad was released last Monday, May 6, by C. O. Ebling, general agricultural agent:

Moisture: The grain-growing part of Soo Land is coming into the 1963 crop year with the best subsoil moisture conditions in the past twelve years. Soil borings taken in mid-April, from Dooley, Montana to Minneapolis; from Flaxton to Fordville; from Drake to Bismarck to Hankinson show moisture down two feet or more. The penetration is solid, with no dry layers. In Northeastern Eddy County, North Dakota, some spots showed moisture down fourteen inches. The top soil moisture has varied from week to week and has been from adequate to overabundant.

Spring work has been from six to eight days ahead of an average year. Some soil blowing occurred in both March and April but with less than average lasting damage. The weather overall has been cooler than average. Local showers and snows pretty well covered the territory at intervals and early May started a warming trend. Frosts and temperatures down to twenty degrees were reported up to May 1st. No crop damage resulted.

Crop Acreages: Total land in crops should be two to three per cent over last year. A reduction of nearly 15 per cent in durum wheat seems probable, while a 16 per cent increase in hard spring wheat seems to be in the making. Barley acreage will be the same as last year. Flax acreage will depend on weather, but our talks with farmers indicated increased plantings that should be about 6 per cent. Soybeans will increase about 5 per cent; oats about the same. There will be increased acreages of sunflowers and millet. Winter rye and winter wheat came through the winter in very good shape. Eighty per cent of the wheat is in and some has emerged in the Southern two-thirds of Soo Land. The northern tier of Counties are planting fast. Some flax has been planted. Potato and sugar beet plantings will be heavy by next week. Some early fields are going in this week. Never before in Northwestern crop history has there been such a big percentage of rust-resistant grain varieties planted. The chance of rust damage on spring wheat this year is greatly reduced. By states, North Dakota farmers are reducing durum 17 per cent and increasing spring wheat 8 per cent, while Minnesota farmers are increasing durum 26 per cent and increasing spring wheat 17 per cent.

To Conserve

If we were asked to express an opinion as to what the Republican party should do to reestablish itself as the leading party in the state and in the nation, we would suggest first that it change its name. Republican no longer means anything in the North as the party of Abraham Lincoln, and, unfortunately, in the South it still is the party of Carpetbaggers.

If we were asked to express an opinion as to what the name of the party should be if a change were thought desirable, we would suggest "Conservative."

Conservative is a good word in the South as it is a good word in the North, as it is a good word wherever reasonable people assemble. To conserve, according to Webster, means to keep in a safe or sound state, to preserve what we have. All but the extremists are in favor of that, and the majority of Americans are not extremists.

As a second step in the process of rebuilding the party we would suggest that an effort be made to eliminate the personally ambitious young do-gooders and the old and embittered reactionaries. Our guess is that what the country needs, and that what the majority would support, is a forward-looking, conservative leadership.

This rambling contribution to the cause of good government was prompted by the following recommendations made by the Tulsa, Oklahoma, Tribune:

"If the Republican party hopes to preserve the nation from being trussed in a strait-jacket by power-hungry rulers it had better quit trying to outpromise the promisers. You can't lick at give-aways the boys who seem to think that most of the national wealth should be funneled into Washington to be redistributed at their pleasure.

"The Republican party can only stand on broad principles. But these principles, properly stated, can make sense to a lot of Americans who are now hopelessly confused.

"We don't know whether a party standing on those principles can win in '64. But we're pretty darned sure that if the Republican party doesn't stand boldly against the bureaucratic bear hugs which are crushing us with love it won't win in '64, '68, or ever."

An Interesting Age

American visitors to "old world" countries are impressed by the beauty and magnificence of the many remaining monuments to an age of architectural grandeur. This interest is understandable. To new-world travellers, the old-world is a wonderland of strange contrasts—poverty in the shadow of great achievement.

Long centuries before the old-world bloomed there was an ancient civilization about which we know comparatively little. That ancient world was also a world of great achievement. There were the seven wonders of the ancient world that testify to the genius of the leaders of that era. Of the seven wonders, only one remains, the pyramids of Egypt, and anyone who has seen the greatest of the pyramids, which rises to an elevation of nearly 500 feet, must respect the civilization that made such an enduring monument possible.

Our modern civilization has not built a pyramid that will compare with the great pyramid of Cheops; nor have we erected a statue that will compare with the Colossus of Rhodes; nor a tomb that will compare with the Tomb of Mausolus. We have not built the palaces, nor the cathedrals, that visitors from the new world marvel at when they visit the old world. But we are not ashamed of these shortcomings.

It pleases us mightily to know that we have had the privilege of being a part of a civilization in which the emphasis has been on that which is useful rather than that which is grandiose.

The pyramids and the six other wonders of the ancient world were built by slaves, and the sole purpose of these great achievements was to glorify and perpetuate the memory of a pharaoh or some other big wheel.

The many wonders of our modern civilization have enriched in many ways the masses of the people. Unfortunately, many of us who have been thus enriched, do not appreciate our good fortune.

Most of the world's population is almost as retarded as were the masses who enjoyed no benefits from the seven wonders of the ancient world. And, alas, we who have enjoyed the privilege of being spectators in this world of marvels that have enriched us, have no assurance that we will not be destroyed by the marvels our marvelous men of science have produced.

But we must all agree that our's has been an interesting age.

Our concern now is about the utility of some of the marvelous things our great men are planning. The seven wonders of the ancient world were made possible by the labor of many slaves. Could it be possible that we might be enslaved through the efforts, successful or unsuccessful, of those who seek to erect for themselves a monument on the moon?

All in a Day's Work

It is interesting to know that the White House has routinely directed that all government employees who are Spanish-American War veterans could be given either annual leave or leave without pay to attend the 64th national encampment of their organization to be held September 9-18 at Peoria, Illinois. The directive stated that the leave was to be "without prejudice to the employee's record."

Jerry Kluttz, writing in the Washington Post, reminds us that 60 years have passed since that war ended and that there are fewer than 29,000 Spanish-American War veterans living. Their average age is 85. The government has a compulsory retirement age of 70.

Well, that's that. The White House directive went to all government agencies, which in turn copied and relayed it to all their offices. That gave the clerks something to do.

What Kind of a 'Nut' Is He?

Watermelons Safe

(San Mateo, Calif. Times)

The most recent discovery in the frightening world of automation is an electronic cherry sorter, capable of handling 3,500 cherries per minute or almost a ton an hour.

It has an electric eye that scans each cherry, held in a suction cup, against a special background. If a cherry has a bruise or other mark, a jet of air kicks it out of the cup into the discard.

This will not particularly interest those, if any, who do not like cherries. But take watermelons. That will be the day when a suction cup can hold one and when a jet of air can kick it out of the cup into the discard.

Yes, watermelons are still safe, even though cherries have been taking a beating ever since George Washington destroyed one of their residences.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

What a rewarding sight for a librarian's eyes. . .the year-old structure housing the book population for the good citizens of Moorhead! The public library, a masterpiece of design, an edifice of quality, stands as mute testimony to the fact that nothing is too good for the people of Moorhead and the literature with which they feed and nourish their hungry minds.

The District Library Meeting, held May 7th, in the building described, attended by your local librarians and several members of the Library board of trustees, was both informative and entertaining. The itinerary for the day included everything from state planning to State Legislative developments, library-wise.

Presiding officers Raymond E. Williams, vice president, Minnesota Library Association, speaking at the morning session, and Hannis S. Smith, Director of Libraries, State Board of Education, were aided and abetted by Warren Dodds (he's the proud father of the Drug Store Dodds of Red Lake Falls,) President of the Moorhead Public Library Board; and Emily Mayne, Supervisor, Extension Library Division, State Department of Education. Several other individuals from various schools and libraries participated in the program. Your local delegates were inactive but most interested participants.

We learned much of interest to librarians, such as the progress now being made in the multi-county or regional library development throughout the state. All of you will be hearing more and more about this subject as time goes on, you may be sure.

Wednesday the Friends of the Library met and discussed plans for the future. The annual flower show will be held in June, probably but the date will be announced later (Nature plays more than a little part in the setting of this date, you know!) The Friends did decide however, that no arrangements using artificial blossoms will be permitted. Of course, anyone is welcome to enter an arrangement in the show and if there are any questions concerning this event, please call the library or a member of the Friends.

The organization is planning several cultural events for the fall, too. By the way, if you aren't a member of this most worthwhile organization, you should be, because the dues are nominal and the returns are manifold. Call or come in the Library or call upon a Friend, and become a Friend of the Library today!

Your library is your local school of higher learning, you know, but so few of us realize it or utilize it! The world is so full of subject matter, seems a lot of us have difficulty just keeping track of the day-to-day happenings, without delving into the past, or exercising too many brain cells trying to think of what the tomorrows will bring. Four walls of a library hold the world's knowledge, just imagine that! Imagine, too, if you can, what the world would be like without books, without magazines, without the written form of the word. Imagine! That's much too dark a thought to carry around for very long, isn't it?

Facts, figures, fantasy. . . are all housed together in your public library, for you to use, enjoy, learn by and talk about. The ideas and the ideals of the ages are at our fingertips and too many of us are afraid, or unwilling, or "too busy" to stretch out our arms and take hold of even a little shed of knowledge.

Your library is here, built for you, by you, maintained for you by you, extending service to you for your enjoyment, for your learning and for your future; Every day you stay away from the library you are cheating only yourself. . .you are depriving only yourself, for it is only you who is missing out on the fun of reading.

Books, periodicals and newspapers are arriving at your library every day of the week. They belong to you; they are yours to borrow. . .they are there for the asking. Come in today and see for yourself "what's new!" won't you? Browse a bit!

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

by Governor
KARL ROLVAAG

A free market economy depends, for the proper allocation of its resources, upon competition among producers and sellers for the business of an informed buying public. To the extent that consumers are prevented from making reasonable, informed choices by deception, concealment, fraud, or lack of education, the proper working of the market is impared. Money is diverted from the deserving into the hands of the unethical, the shabby, the inefficient, the incompetent. Millions upon millions of dollars are so diverted each year.

Consumers "Vote"

We are all members of the buying public. We are the "voters" in the economic election that is a free market. To the extent we vote intelligently, the workings of competition will insure that the producers of the best goods at the fairest prices. In other words, the fittest will survive. To the extent we are prevented from making educated choices, the bad may force out the good, to the detriment of all.

Consumers Have Rights

Consumers have certain inherent rights and it is the obligation of the state to protect those rights. These include the right to safety from physical and mental harm, and from impositions through fraud; the right to make rational choices based on knowledge; and the right to be heard. I have recommended a number of measures which I feel will in many ways help protect and preserve the rights of consumers. Many of these recommendations have been in concurrence with those proposed by the Consumer Protection Advisory Council, appointed by Attorney General Walter F. Mondale.

Right to Safety

In the "right to safety" category, I recommend legislation which will codify and strengthen laws regulating private, profit-making trade and correspondence schools. Another calls for expansion of the debt proration agency licensing law, in order to curb abuses which have arisen among certain loan agencies. I recommend more strict regulation and registration of persons selling subdivided real estate. This is aimed at a growing evil, arising in recent years, in which persons are tricked into buying pieces of desert, wampland and lake bottom in contemplation of retiring. I recommend that more strict regulation be placed on the operations of dance instruction studios who prey on the lonely, the widowed, and the friendless.

Among measures designed to advance the consumer's right to make rational choices, I include recommendations to curb so-called "referral selling," wherein consumers are lured into believing they will receive expensive pieces of merchandise for nothing, in exchange for submitting the names of their friends to the seller as possible customers. I have also endorsed consumer fraud legislation designed to deal with fraud, deception, and misrepresentation in the sale of merchandise, and legislation requiring that a statement of simple interest rate figures be a part of every credit transaction.

Right to be Heard

I support creation of an Office of Consumer Counsel, with the duty of advising the executive branch, the legislature, and the public of issues important to consumers. Quite often the only voices we hear are those of the lobbyists for interested private parties. It is time to give a full hearing to consumers in our state.

Business Will Gain

All too often businessmen feel apprehensive when consumer protection is proposed. But more often than not, the interests of consumers and businessmen are parallel. The implementation of these consumer protection proposals will not require significant increases in state expenditures. Many are self-enforcing, and each is of great benefit to the public and deserving of strong bipartisan support.

of Rhyme & Reason

BY MARY LINDOW

THERE IS AN OCCASIONAL ITEM in reading of newspapers and the like which indicates that someone has done some thinking about a topic of interest. Recently I read some interesting comment on Social Security and the question of medical care for the aged under the Social Security Program.

The writer noted that many people of all degrees of "economic status and sophistication" who had reached retirement believed that Social Security was something which has been "bought and paid for" like an annuity.

He quoted Robert J. Myers, chief actuary of the Social Security Administration, as follows: "In actuality, a person who has had the maximum covered earnings for the period 1937-1960 has contributed only $1,290 (and his employer a like amount). This represents, at most, only about one year's benefits payments for a retired worker without dependents, so it is quite obvious that no person has anywhere nearly 'bought and paid for' his benefits."

The fact does remain that today's working force is paying quite heavily into the public Social Security coffers—and increases in this payment are not uncommon. There are those (myself included) who have paid Social Security for at least several years and will be paying for another 40 years before benefits can be obtained. At the current rate of increases in the payment schedule, the future doesn't look too bright after another 40 years. Will there always be Social Security at age 65?

The story is told of a mouse recovered from the nose cone of a rocket after a trip into outer space and was returned to the laboratory in good condition. His neighbor in the next cage was curious. "How did you like the trip?" the neighbor asked. "Well," yawned the astromouse, "it was better than cancer."

An office colleague comments that a vacation "is what you take when you can't take what you're now taking". Which brings us to another timely hint: If you think you don't have any friends, just rent a cottage on the beach. Which brings us to one more: If you have trouble meeting new people, try picking up the wrong golf ball.

Just in case you may have forgotten, fishing season opens Saturday. With Mother's Day just past, it is almost certain that the coming weekend will be quite extensively devoted to father. And the safest prediction of the year can be made: Come rain or shine the Waskish area will be jammed with people again this year.

From time to time this column will include poetry selected from a booklet compiled from the works of students at Lincoln high school. Much of it is free verse, having no particular rhyme or meter, a type of writing which I class somewhere along the line of abstract art. The following was written by Rose Votava and is at least thought-provoking and clever.

When you were young,
and bad,
Where were you put?
Did you not have a burning fervor to own a cornerless house?

But as you grew old,
and built a house,
you also had corners.

If people only kept their childhood desires, think what the world would be. . .

Adultless.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Laura Duerst

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

I have received information about the Northwest School Women's Camp. This camp is June 11-14 in Crookston.

An interesting and varied program has been planned. Talks and demonstrations will be given by food and clothing specialists, travelers and many others. Any homemakers wishing more information may call the extension office for more details on this camp.

Freezing Asparagus

If you grow asparagus in your garden or if you're a city dweller with a freezer who wants to take advantage of the seasonally low price of asparagus, try freezing some.

Home frozen asparagus will keep as long as 12 months in a freezer held at 0 degrees F. or below. Just follow these directions from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service:

Select young, tender stalks with compact tips;

Wash asparagus thoroughly and cut or break off and discard the tough parts;

Leave spears in lengths to fit the package or cut them into 2-inch lengths;

Heat stalks in boiling water according to thickness of stalk—2 minutes for small stalks; 3 minutes for medium; 4 minutes, large;

Cool promptly in cold water and drain; pack in containers; seal and freeze.

Don't Wash Enriched Rice

To get all the nutrients from rice, don't wash it before or after cooking. If you do, you'll lose valuable vitamins and minerals.

Modern processing methods make rice clean and ready to cook. By using the correct amounts of water and rice in cooking, you don't have to drain it. The rice will absorb the water.

Also, much rice on the market today is enriched with thiamine, niacin and iron—the nutrients that are lost in the milling process. Vitamin D and calcium, too, are sometimes added. One way this may be done is by adding vitamins and minerals in a powdered form. So, if you wash or drain enriched rice, these added nutrients may go down the drain.

People eligible to receive foods donated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture now get enriched white rice or enriched parboiled rice. Since enriched rice is a new donated food — in the past they received milled white rice—it's important that these persons, in particular, understand how the rice is different and why it shouldn't be washed or drained.

In preparing enriched rice for family size servings, use 1 cup of enriched white rice and 2 cups of boiling salted water. Cover and cook slowly about 20 minutes. After removing from heat, let rice stand covered for 10 to 15 minutes.

Or—place the boiling salted wagter and rice in a baking pan, cover tightly and bake in a 350 degree F. oven for 30 to 35 minutes.

When cooking enriched parboiled rice, use ½ cup more water and cook 5 minutes longer than for enriched white rice.

Keep Your Garden Productive All Summer

The best way to get a long season of vegetable production is to plant some crops at various intervals rather than all at one time. Three or four small plantings at weekly or 10-day periods will assure a continuous harvest of good quality sweet corn, peas and beans. These crop may be planted up to July 1 in most parts of the state.

Carrots and beets planted early in the season will usually be over-mature when fall harvest comes. If seeded around the first of June they should be just right for storage in the fall.

Crops like lettuce, radish, spinach and turnips which were planted as early as the garden was prepared can be seeded again in late July or early August for a fall crop.

Many gardeners have more success with cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower if plants are set out in mid-June for a late fall crop when the weather is coolr.

If succession plantings are to follow an earlier harvested crop, it's desirable to apply a complete fertilizer at thie rate of 1 pound per 25 feet of row since the earlier crop will have taken nutrients out of the soil. Spread the fertilizer in a 2-inch furrow along each side of the row.

Mulches are especiall helpful in controlling weeds, conserving moisture and keeping the soil cool and productive. Grass clippings, clean straw, ground corn cobs or peat moss are examples of mulches that will help keep the garden producing all summer.

Don't forget the important job of pest control. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by visiting or writing the VA Contact Office at the Fargo VA Center, Fargo, North Dakota.

Q—A friend of mine — no relative —died without funds or family recently. Due to our long association, I arranged a funeral and picked up the tab. The deceased had served in the army from 1931 to 1935. Will the VA pay a burial allowance in this cae?

A—Not unless the deceased had been in receipt of service-connected compensation at the time of death or had been discharged or retired for disability incurred in the line of duty. Neither service-connected nor disability discharge would be necessary had the deceased been a wartime or Korean Conflict veteran.

Q—What is the procedure for getting a veteran into a VA hospital in a medical emergency?

A—Patients requiring emergency medical treatment may be taken directly to the nearest VA hospital, but if possible the veteran or someone acting for him should communicate with the VA by telephone or telegraph beforehand.

Q—Can a widow of a veteran live with another man as his wife but continue to draw a VA pension as long as she does not actually marry the man?

A—No. The law governing widow's pensions was amended in 1962 to declare such a person not eligible for pension.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

Steep, sandy hillside and wild June grass pasture converted to a "rotation-a-day" grazing program mean more milk production for Russell Miller of LeSueur County. Miller says he grazed his 30 milk cows all summer on 11 acres of alfalfa, brome and timothy pasture. He fed a little dry hay and grain at milking time in the yard. He did this by moving cattle to a fresh strip every day and fertilizing heavily to make the grasses more palatable. Lynn Skaife, SCS work unit conservationist at Le Center, helped Miller prepare a farm conservation plan in 1954. It included a rotation of row crop, row crop, grain and hay, on flat land; and row crop, grain and hay, hay rotation, on sloping land with contour strip cropping.

Surface water stood in the fields on the Orlo and Monard Peterson farm five miles northwest of Blue Earth for a couple days after every rain because the tile couldn't carry it away fast enough. With help from Harlan L. Johnsrud, Faribault County soil conservation agent, they laid out surface ditches. Surface water is no longer a problem. Orlo Peterson says that the ditches are worth their cost and a lot of farmers with level, poorly drained fields could use them to take part of the load of a tile system.

Last year had too much rain and too little sunshine for good crops, yet Lawrence Parson of Morris raised 100 bushels of corn to the acre in a county where the average is much lower. He had a soil conserving cropping system on his rolling field that produced this corn. The field was fertilized according to soil tests, manured and then terraced in 1958 and planted on the contour. Yields were much lower, Parsons found, on fields where he neglected any of these important soil management links. William Oemichen, SCS work unit conservationist at Morris, says Parson added another mile and one-half of terraces last year to his existing mile and one-half.

Soil test summaries show that more than half of Minnesota's fields need more plant food than they're getting. For example, 60 per cent of the samples from the Clarion - Nicollet - Webster soil area in southern counties show the need for more phosphorus. More than half of these fields could use more potassium and a third need more lime.

The Prinks of Cannon Falls, Marvin, Willard and Vernon, have bought a sandy 114-acre tract to put entirely to forestry use. Already they have planted 30,000 pine, but they expect no income from the land for 25 years. Their interest in wildlife, timber and soil conservation prompted the action. Marvin is Goodhue County's Farmer Sportsman of 1963 and active in local and community leadership.

Increased yields of grasses and legumes helped Henry Putzier increase his production of other crops by 25 to 75 percent. He is Meeker County SWCD cooperator and office manager for ASCS in Litchfield. The conservation survey map prepared for his farm by Soil Conservation Service showed the need for more grasses and legumes. "Increased use of grasses and legumes has enabled me to get maximum return for each dollar I spent on fertilizer," he said.

Twenty-one farmers in Mille Lacs County are cooperating in an alfalfa fertility project. Clayton Grabow, Mille Lacs County agricultura agent, says that ASC, SCS, FHA and Agricultural Extension Service worked with University of Minnesota soils specialists on the project, initiated in the fall of 1961. Carl Boquist, a cooperator in the Mille Lacs County soil district, cut his nurse crop of oats for hay. Bob Gardner of Milaca used his crop of oats for silage. Both had excellent stands of alfalfa coming when they were checked by extension agents last fall.

Conservation farming passes on from father to son in Norman County. Emil Lerud of Twin Valley became a district cooperator and developed one of the first conservation farm plans in the East Agassiz SWCD in 1944. His son, Roy, recently took over the farm. Roy was selected by the district board of supervisors as the outstanding conservation farmer of 1962.

Concert Choir at LHS On Exchange Tour to Duluth

Denfeld Chorus Will Return Concert Here At Lincoln on May 20

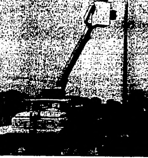
Lincoln high school concert choir, under the direction of Bryant Ulseth, left this morning (Thursday) for an exchange concert with the Duluth Denfeld high school choir. The concert choir of 64 voices will also sing concerts in Red Lake Falls at 8:30 a. m. today and in Fosston at 11:30 a. m.

Arrangements have been made for the Lincoln students to stay with the Duluth students in their homes on Thursday evening before presenting their concert at 9 a. m. on Friday at Denfeld. The Denfeld choir will return to Thief River Falls on Sunday evening to stay with the Lincoln choir members before their concert for the Lincoln high school student body on Monday, May 20.

The concert in Fosston will feature both the Lincoln concert choir and the Fosston chorus in the presentation of "Spring", a composition arranged by Paul Christiansen, which was sung by both choirs in the recent state area music festival.

Thief River Falls students in charge of arrangements for the return of the Duluth Denfeld choir include Sandra Halvorson, Myrna Weckwerth and Nancy Newton, housing; Nadine Craig, Brian Lofberg, Ronald Lindberg and Janet Thorstenson, recreation and entertainment.

The Duluth Denfeld chhoir consists of 73 voices and is under the direction of Edgar Felten. The chorus appeared here in 1958 in a similar exchange concert.



IN USE on one of its first jobs is the new boom truck recently purchased by the city of Thief River Falls. The new vehicle replaces another vehicle and will provide easier and more efficient operation. A self-leveling bucket rides on the extension arm which can be extended to nearly 40 feet from the ground. Since the extension of the arm, height of the boom and complete pivot of the boom are controlled from the bucket, the outfit will be efficient for use in pole painting, hanging banners and decorations and other similar work. Hospital Week Is Observed in City

Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls is observing National Hospital Week through several phases of public participation this week, according to Norman Peterson, administrator. Hospital Week each year is designed to stimulate interest in the duties and services of community hospitals across the nation.

Speaking to the Thief River Falls Rotary club Monday, Peterson reviewed the role of the hospital in the community and told of future plans at the local hospital. He stated that the hospital attempts to tell its story and conduct its public relations on the basis of 24 hours per day, 365 days per year. Every action done and every word spoken during the year is part of our creating a public image, Peterson said.

The administrator met Tuesday with Dr. David Brown and John P. Halvorson, superintendents at Goodridge and Newfolden high schools, and John O. Muldoon and Wayne Ulferts, respective school counselors. Discussed were careers in the medical and hospital field for students and plans for the local building and program. Manuals prepared by the American Hospital Association were also distributed to the counselors.

Three groups of students from Lincoln high school will visit various departments in the hospital this week. The first group toured the facilities on Wednesday, the second group will visit the X-ray department this afternoon (Thursday) and the final group will tour the hospital on Friday afternoon.

Beginning next year, the hospital and school will cooperate in a year-round program. When students in high school health classes study units on various phases of hospital operations, a staff member from the hospital will be available to discuss this part of operations with the students. Interested students will then be invited to visit the hospital on their own time to spend several hours observing procedure in the department.

In two other actions Tuesday, the hospital was the recipient of two television sets. Cooties Pup Tent 42 of the VFW in Thief River Falls presented a set to be used in the pediatrics ward and the Veterans of Foreign Wars presented a set to be used by general patients. The Cooties, VFW and Auxiliary in Thief River Falls had previously given two television sets each to the Veterans Administration hospital in Fargo.

Rural Life Sunday Will Be Observed In Church May 19

Pennington County 4-H Clubs Will Participate Through Special Events

Minnesota 4-H'ers will observe Rural Life Sunday on May 19 when the spiritual emphasis in 4-H is brought to focus as members attend church together and assist in special ways with services.

Rural Life Sunday emphasizes and recognizes the spiritual value and character-building qualities of 4-H work, according to Miss Laura Duerst, Pennington county home agent.

Several of the Pennington county 4-H clubs have planned to participate in this event in various ways. Steiner 4-H club has planned a program in the Steiner hall at 2 p. m. Jack River 4-H members will take part at the service in the Jack River church. They will usher, sing and light candles.

Rocksbury will be replanting trees at Valhall; Smiley 4-H members will observe 4-H Sunday in their own respective churches. City View will participate in both services at the Redeemer Lutheran church. Silverton has an afternoon program planned with a ball game and lunch to follow.

Rural Life or 4-H Sunday is observed the fifth Sunday after Easter. It is closely linked with Rogation Days that emphasize praying for God's blessing upon the fruit of the earth. 4-H'ers join in seeking the blessing of God upon the land, the seed, the cultivation of the earth and the enrichment of home and community life, Miss Duerst explained.

Discussion Held On Many Items of School Business

Preliminary plans for the new junior high school and elementary school were reviewed Monday evening when the Thief River Falls board of education met at Lincoln high school. Discussion of salaries for janitors and bus drivers also took place between the board and a representative of the Municipal Drivers, Helpers and Public Employees union.

Teacher resignations were accepted from Miss Mary Ann Czaplewski and James Wilhelm. Contracts were approved for Kay Sunderland, Milton, N. D., a graduate of UND with three years of teaching experience who will teach elementary music, and Darwin Golz, Ashley, N. D., graduate of Ellendale teacher's college, who will fill an elementary teaching position.

Discussion of the requests for increases and fringe benefits by the bus drivers and janitors will take place further at a meeting of the board tonight (Thursday.) No action was taken on the preliminary building plans, although they were briefly reviewed at the regular meeting. Board members expressed a desire to discuss several items of the proposal with the architect.

A letter from Robert Wurst, president of Jobs, Inc., was read to the board. The letter requests that the district try to set up work contracts for any new construction so that as much local labor as possible can be used. The board agreed that local labor should be used to as large an extent as possible and that contractors would be notified of this request.

Contracts were signed with the Minnesota High School League for an athletic accident benefit plan; with the government for the school lunch program and for National Defense Education Act materials and assistance.

Allen D. Hanson was granted a high school equivalence certificate on the basis of passing G.E.D. examinations given during military service. Permission was granted to the Gideon Society to distribute Testaments to fifth graders whose parents sign a slip authorizing the students to receive them.

Authorization was given for a three-phase summer reading program designed to aid elementary students on three levels—below average, average and above average in reading ability. George Stockman, director of elementary education, was directed to prepare details for offering the instruction.

Adoption of the coming year's school calendar took place with classes to begin in 1963 on August 28. Teachers will meet on August 26 and 27. Other dates mentioned

School Board Vote Scheduled Tuesday

Larson Resigns Local Chamber Executive Post

Roland K. Larson, executive secretary of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce for the past three years, has resigned his position with the local organization to accept a post as manager of the Bloomington Chamber of Commerce.

Six Candidates Have Filed for Three Positions

Balloting in the annual school board election for District 564 in Thief River Falls will take place on Tuesday, May 21, from 4 to 9 p. m. in the Lincoln high school cafeteria. Three members for three year terms will be elected this year.

Six candidates have filed for the election and the three receiving the greatest number of votes will be declared elected. Those filing are incumbents Lloyd Howick, John Burtness and Rufus Olson, who will be opposed by Dake Ayers, Bert Vigen and LaVerne Randorf.

Board members elected will take office at the first meeting of the board in July when officers of the board will be elected. Date for the meeting has not yet been set.

Issue in the election is quite clearly drawn. Incumbents were serving on the board when the bond issue for new school construction was proposed, twice defeated and then approved on March 5. The other three candidates presented open opposition to the bond issue and supported a recount petition when the issue was approved by the voters.

In last year's election, which saw a record 1,700 ballots cast, two bond issue opponents defeated incumbents by substantial margins. Howard Hoel and K. Russell Anderson received 990 and 892 votes, respectively while incumbents Dr. Ralph Helm and Dr. James Disse received 747 and 743 votes. The previous record vote in a school board election was 1,182 in 1959.

Bet a person could make quite a bit of money if he could collect a nickel from every one who says . . . "I'm going on a diet tomorrow." Maybe that chunk of dough could be listed on your tax return as long-term gain . . .

According to the trends and if you want to know . . . hair-do's will be varied, but the bee-hive, ruffed-up look is definitely being replaced by the casual, comb-able, do-you-or-don't you look. Nine to ten you will . . . color.

The unpleated sheath and tunic dress will be in for a look, hmmmm! Waistlines are where you choose to place them, or you needn't show them at all. The shirt dress is NOT going out, just being revised. Long dinner dresses are back, simply because they are so flattering. Slacks and all pants will have a little more leg room, the skin tight, can't sit look, is out for fall. There is even going to be a change in perfume; the heavy Oriental influence has given way to the fresh, femine, difficult to determine scent, which is sprayed on your clothes in the closet. These are just a few of the trends, who knows what will happen this fall.

Taconite Amendment Backed by State DFL at Humphrey Urging

Delegates to the state Democratic - Farmer - Labor convention in Minneapolis last weekend listened to an impassioned plea by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, then shouted approval of a resolution supporting the taconite amendment.

At the 1962 convention, the DFL went on record against the proposed constitutional amendment to guarantee tax equality to the taconite industry. Those opposing the resolution Sunday argued the party would be sacrificing its principle if it reversed its position.

"This is giving something to the state," pleaded Humphrey. "It is giving something to needy people. We're not giving anything away. What is your alternative?

"Are you going to have it on your conscience that Ford Motor Co. doesn't come into this state? I negotiated that contract."

Proponents argued the amendment to be voted on in 1964 is acceptable to the DFL now because it contains a 25-year limitation on tax guarantees and because steel companies have made firm commitments to build Minnesota taconite plants if the amendment gets voter approval.

Lonid Hurwicz, Minneapolis, said changing the party's position would be "morally wrong and politically unwise."

Despite Humphrey's urgings, many delegates shouted "no" on the voice vote approving the resolution.

William Kubicek, a longtime adviser to former Gov. Orville Freeman, defeated Conrad Hammar, St. James, 580-363 to remain secretary of the DFL state central committee.

Adventist Church Tells of Charities

Denomination Last Year Did Much Welfare Work

The local Seventh-day Adventist church contributed Saturday to the denomination's disaster and famine relief fund which last year made possible distribution of supplies totaling $2,298,745 in value.

A total of 29 counties benefited last year from the work done by Seventh-day Adventist welfare services, with which the local group cooperates. Nearly 30,000,000 pounds of surplus foods were shipped overseas and distributed, with Korea and Katanga province in the Congo receiving 11,822,439 and 10,356,009 respectively.

Clothing distributed by the local Seventh-day Adventist welfare center during the fiscal year ending March 31 was 1,260 pieces of clothing. A total of 334 persons were helped and the local women donated 308 hours to this work.

In addition $47.99 worth of new material such as sheets, pillows, and baby layettes were sent to the warehouse at Hutchinson where it is stockpiled to be used in case of a disaster. The ladies also mended many garments.

The center located at 109 South LaBree Ave. has been open twice each month except the summer months and December. Mrs. S. E. Pollman is the president of the local group.

Legis Lative Letter

from ANDREW SKAAR

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

During the closing days of the session, the House appropriations committee, of which I am a member, may have to meet several times every day in order to keep our schedule of business up to the minute and hasten the hour when we can adjourn sine die. This will make it necessary for members of the committee to miss roll calls occasionally but this has been a practice in past sessions.

One of the last bills to come before our committee is one to set up an interim study of a statewide building code and report back to the next legislative session.

Another is to authorize Minnesota to participate in the New York World's Fair in 1964-65 to effectively publicize the North Star State's products, culture and assets for the millions of people who will attend this exposition. Incidentally, there is considerable interest in some areas to promote a World's Fair in Minnesota sometime in the future, say, in 1970. Competition for the Fair is very keen and many states are making a bid for the attraction.

A major problem facing our appropriations committee is how to resolve the dilemma over expanding junior colleges in Minnesota. The Dunlap bill is designed to set up a system of 15 state-owned junior colleges and it makes no disposition of the present colleges operating in the state. The Searle bill will establish a committee to select the sites for the state-owned junior colleges and work out a plan for integrating the present colleges into the new system. I am a co-author on the latter measure and it seems to have a better chance of being adopted.

A number of controversial bills are still in conference committee where efforts are being made to resolve differences between House and Senate versions.

A House bill will extend for two years the traditional immunity of school districts from personal injury damage suits as result of negligence, whereas a Senate measure provides for this immunity for four years but places a $50,000 limit on such suits brought against other governmental units.

In passing a bill permitting sale of colored oleo in Minnesota, the Senate wants to dedicate receipts from the tax of 10 cents a pound to state-owned junior colleges while the House wants to set aside $250,000 annually for dairy products research.

A bill adopted by both houses to make permanent a system of daytime activity centers for the mentally retarded throughout Minnesota may end up in conference committee to decide the amount of state funds to be spent to help finance this program during the next two years.

It appears to me that the members of the minority group in the House and Senate are trying to prolong debate and do all in their power to extend the session. For those of us who would like to complete our work and go home, these tactics become a bit tiresome.

Panel Reports on Rail Firemen Issue

Recommends Gradually Eliminating Many Workers

A three-man presidential panel laid down broad guidelines Tuesday in Washington for gradual removal of most firemen from freight and yard trains, central issue in a work rules dispute that threatens a nationwide rail strike June 12.

The salient proposal was that safety be the determing factor in elimination of jobs and that the cuts be subject to negotiation, with provision for arbitration if that is required.

In a report to President Kennedy, the panel said the issues between the railroads and the five operating brotherhoods have been narrowed, and an agreement can be reached in the next 30 days if both sides will bargain realistically.

"The next 30 days will be important not only to the parties, but also to the nation, and to the future of collective bargaining as an effective method of disputes settlement. Although the general public is not a formal party to this disupute, each citizen in the United States has an acute interest in its resolution," the report said.

President Kennedy urged "serious consideration of the recommendations in this report."

Award $8 Million in Road Contracts

Bids on a section of Interstate Highway 35W in Ramsey county received May 3 on one of the largest single contracts ever offered by the Minnesota Highway Department went to the apparent low bidder, Johnson Bros. Highway and Heavy Construction, Inc., Minneapolis for $7,765,664, the department announces. The five bids received ranged from the Johnson Bros. low to the high of $9,765,949.

On a project on TH 63 in Wabasha county calling for grading, gravel base, plant-mixed bituminous surface on 6.2 miles and outfall sewer the apparent low bidder was Arcon Construction Co., Mora, $262,462, which brought the total bidding to more than $8 million.

The project in Ramsey county calls for grading, gravel base, concrete pavement, plant - mixed bituminous surface and 11 bridge structures.

Roadside Parking Areas Are Readied

Minnesota Now Boasts 329 Parks on Highways

Minnesota highway department maintenance crews are readying the state's roadside parking areas for the annual flood of motorists expected soon along the state's 11,800 miles of trunk highways.

Crews are cutting grass, cleaning up litter and setting out tables and benches that have been stored during the winter in preparation for motorists who will be looking for rest and picnic areas.

Minnesota has 329 roadside parks, all under the control of the state highway department. Most of them have picnic and sanitation facilities; 64 have scenic overlooks; 32 have boat launching sites; 49 have either well, spring or city water. Many have historical, geological and area-information markers. Some have fireplaces and a few have bath houses.

The highway department plans future developement of another 57 parking areas, according to highway officials. This will provide an average of one parking area every 50 miles along the trunk highway system, or within an hour's drive of each other.

Safety rest areas will also be constructed on Minnesota's Interstate highways, with one every 35 to 40 miles. The sites have already been selected and construction of the first one has started near Fergus Falls, overlooking Isaacson lake. These areas will have parking space, benches and tables, and a building housing toilet facilities and a telephone booth.

Newfolden School Hosts Boards of Holt and Viking

Newfolden school board entertained members of the Holt and Viking school boards in the home economics room of the Newfolden community school on Saturday evening.

After the film, a discussion of the high school program was held and a tour of the building was conducted by Supt. John P. Halvorson.

Following the tour, lunch was served to all those present. Attending in addition to the entire Newfolden School board were: Earl Carlson, Waldemar Wendt, Fredrick Voth, Orlin Ness and Ray Holmstrom of Holt; Percy Stokke, Lester Larson, Arne Samuelson and Percy Hagen of Viking.

FIRST BROOD of Canada geese at Agassiz refuge this Spring made their appearance on May 10. Since then, three additional broods have been observed. Although normal broods usually contain an average of five goslings, early nesting geese are sometimes troubled by cold weather destroying some of their eggs. Twenty additional goose nests have been found of an estimated 100 pairs of Canada geese nesting on the refuge. Persons driving throuh the refuge have been asked to use caution as some geese like to loaf on the highway. Weekly counts of pairs of ducks on the refuge indicated that 1963 may also be a bumper year for duck production.

Check The Stringers

From all reports that have been collected, and the fact that my arthritis has been less bothersome than usual, the pike fishing season, which opens on Saturday, should be a good one. And the first words of wisdom for the anglers is for the fishermen to check their stringers, particularly if they have cord stringers in the tackle box.

These stringers, after an over-the-winter recess in a moldy tackle box, become unreliable, as I once learned. I had a cord stringer, equipped with slide-on snap-swivels. I had caught a fair mess of walleyes, and as I was proudly pulling the string of fish into the boat, the anchor-ring of the stringer broke. Those six walleyes must have looked strange swimming around Lake of the Woods' Pine Island with snap-swivels through their under-jaws. Lesson number one.

Lesson number two is to catch the fish, and that's where such "professionals" as Orvis Olen, who even baits a jig fly lure with a minnow, and Stan Cockrell, wrist-action Stan as he is called at Wheelers' Point, have an advantage.

And then, of course, you have such commercial fishermen as Pete Klungness, who will be fishing the Tamarac river a minute or two after midnight on Friday. He promises to have walleyed pike on Saturday-morning-breakfast menu.

Waskish to Draw Many

It appears that Waskish, on Upper Red Lake, will follow the pattern of the past couple of years and attract the greatest number of walleyed pike fishermen. At least on a per-square-foot basis. It may be that the concentration of fishermen will be less dense than usual as it is reported that the walleyes have been moving out of the river and out into the lake. And of course to catch fish you have to be where the fish are.

And where the fish are, and where they are being caught, that's where the game wardens are, too. So read your license, and check your walleyed pike and saugers, there's a difference. This pertains to Lake of the Woods where an angler can have eight saugers in his possession in addition to a limit of six walleyes. But the saugers must not be filleted, otherwise the sauger will be considered, for game enforcement purposes, as a walleyed pike.

Quite a Duel

That was quite a duel that the Prowlers' Ron Kvikstad and Bemidji's Jim Carlson had on Tuesday as the two golfers battled for the medalist honors in the Northwest conference golf tournament played here. Ron edged out the steady-playing Lumberjack star by one stroke, 72 to 73.

During the morning round, Ron carded a two-under-par 34, while Jim came in with a 35, one over. And in the afternoon round, the two golfers were deadlocked as they came up the ninth fairway. Carlson, using a number eight iron, pulled his shot to the left and was over the green. Kvikstad hit the green, but was thirty feet short of the pin. Carlson made a strong recovery, caruming an iron shot off the embankment and then getting a roll on to the green and twenty feet past the pin. Ron was down in two putts for a par five, while Jim had to settle for a bogey six, and lose medalist honors by a stroke.

In The Fracas

Darryl Lund, a member of the Prowler hockey and football squads in the early 1050's, and later a member of the senior hockey Thieves, is in the midst of the racial fracas in Birmingham, Alabama. Darryl is, and has been for the past several years, a member of the Birmingham police force.

Following graduation from high school here, Darryl entered the service, and it was during this time that he met a girl that later became his wife. And Darryl's wife is a Birmingham lass, and this is one reason why he, a native of northern Minnesota, has established his residence in the "deep south".

According to the reports that are emanating from the Alabama capital, with near-riot conditions prevailing at times, I imagine that Darryl wishes that he was back in northern Minnesota playing senior hockey; even if this senior hockey meant getting a bone-crunching check from Grand Forks' Don Crough. I doubt if Darryl will ever forget the check he received from Crough during a Thieves vs. Amerks game played at Grand Forks.

Don Myers Fund Aids Youngsters

Money Available To Help Boys and Girls for Camp

Under the program adopted by the Thief River Falls Police association early this year, funds have been made available to assist worthy and needy youngsters to attend summer camp. Funds were made available from 50 per cent of the proceeds of the Policeman's Ball which were placed in the Sgt. Don Myers Memorial Fund for that purpose.

The association will make available funds up to $20 per youngster to attend the camp designated if he is selected to attend. Applications should be made through local churches, the association has requested, and are due at the police department prior to the dismissal of school for the summer.

Needy children of school age, recommended by churches, will be considered for the program. Both boys and girls are eligible and specific camps should be included in the requests. Only a limited number of campers can be assisted by the funds and final decision as to recipients will be made by the association.

L. Bronson State Park Opens May 18

State Park superintendent McKinley said this week that Lake Bronson state park would open officially for the summer season Saturday, May 18, which is also the first day of the Minnesota fishing season.

McKinley said the beaches would be open, boats available, all camping grounds open with hot and cold water system in operation but the concession stand at the beach would be closed and would not be open for some time. The state division of parks is adding an addition to the concession stand.

'63 Opening Dates for Hunting Seasons Set

As an aid to those planning their vacations to coincide with the fall hunting seasons, the Minnesota conservation department today announced the opening dates for 1963 small and big game hunting seasons.

In announcing the opening dates for this fall's hunting season, Gordon Wollan, acting game and fish director, explained, "By making this information available in the spring, hunters are able to arrange their vacations and schedule their trips to coincide with their favorite type of hunting".

He said the conservation department establishes the opening dates on game species at this time but postpones setting season length and bag limits until shortly before the seasons open.

"This arrangement allows our game managers, game wardens and wildlife researchers to collect data on the annual reproduction later in the season. This in turn allows us to establish bag limits and season lengths on the basis of the very latest information," said Wollan.

"Of course," he added, "the department reserves the right to close any season even though the opening date has been established if it is later learned that a closing is necessary for the welfare of a game bird or animal."

With this qualification, Wollan said the following were the opening season dates for 1963:

Ruffed grouse and sharptailed grouse, September 21; pheasant and Hungarian partridge, October 26; deer, firearms, November 9; deer, bow and arrow, September 28; squirrel, rabbit, hares and raccoon, September 28; waterfowl, established by federal regulations.

"It has been our aim over these past years to establish opening dates that are mutually satisfactory from the standpoint of management, law enforcement and sportsmen satisfaction," Wollan concluded.

Science Film To Be Shown at Ev. Free Church Tues.

"City of the Bees", a science film produced by Moody Institute of Science in Los Angeles, will be shown Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Evangelical Free church in Thief River Falls. Under the sponsorship of the FCYF, the showing is open to the public and a free will offering will be taken.

It has taken more than 10 years of work with special photographic equipment for the staff of the institute to obtain footage for the film. The mvie shows how bees tell time, measure distance, solve geometry problems, operate an air conditioning system and even have a highly developed language all their own.

Moody Institute of Science is a division of Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

THESE PRODUCTS ARE MANUFACTURED IN THE SEVENTH CONGRESSIONAL DIST. OF MINNESOTA

Manufactured products from Minnesota's 7th District were featured this week at the Congressional Wives Club's annual bazaar in Washington, D. C., where hundreds of potential buyers from all over the Nation gathered. Pictured is Mrs. Odin Langen, wife of the 7th District Congressman.

Mrs. Langen is holding one of the assortment of bird houses and bird feeders donated by Wild Song Products, Inc., of Cass Lake, a new business that was started in January of this year through local capital and initiative. Also on display is an interesting assortment of knife racks donated by Birch Wood Products, Inc., of Cass Lake, who make the "Lady of the Forest" wood products you've seen in your Sears catalogue.

The beach mattress, boat and car cushions, pillows and mats for cats and dogs were donated by the Ness Typha Company of Holt. Typha is the brand name for the new type of filling used in the cushions that is proving adaptable for a host of purposes. The wild rice came from the Chippewa Rice Company of Mahnomen and was donated by the Tupa Wholesale Company.

These are only a few of the many products now being manufactured in Minnesota's Seventh District, but gave Capital viewers a chance to learn of the advantages of buying Minnesota-made merchandise. Arrangements for the products sold in the Congressional Wives Bazaar were made through the courtesy of Rudy Gustafson and his associates in the area development and community relations department of the Otter Tail Power Company.

Superior Forest Tree Planting Set

3,500,000 Trees Will Be Planted on 7,000 Acres

The General Andrews state-owned tree nursery at Willow River, operated by the Minnesota Conservation Department's forestry division, will supply more than one million trees to the federal government for planting on the Superior National Forest this year.

Federal forest supervisor L. P. Neff said this week that planting has already begun in the Tofte and Two Harbors ranger districts.

Another million and a half trees will be planted this spring and summer from stock supplied by the federal forest nursery at Eveleth.

Funds for the planting program are made available under the Accelerated Public Works Program which is coordinated by the Area Development Administration of the Department of Commerce.

Total tree planting in the Superior National Forest for the fiscal year which began July 1, 1962 will be three and one half million trees. This will reforest about 7,000 acres of land.

More than 350 men will be engaged in the tree planting program this spring, the report stated.

Checkup of Motor Vehicles Is Urged

Defective Equipment Cause of 2,000 Mishaps in 1962

The Minnesota Department of Highways today urged motor vehicle operators to participate in voluntary vehicle safety check programs that will be held within many communities throughout the state during the next few months. The highway department pointed out that "even safe drivers can have an accident with an unsafe motor vehicle" and that in modern fast-moving traffic, a driver must be able to depend on his vehicle if he is to maneuver quickly and smoothly without endangering himself and others.

More than 2,000 accidents, including 22 that resulted in death, that occurred on Minnesota roadways last year were blamed on defective equipment, according to department reports. The department added the supposition that "many other collisions such as cars careening off curves and head ons on straight roadways" were caused by defective equipment.

In crashes where there is extreme damage to vehicles or where drivers are killed it is difficult for investigators to determine such an underlying factor as defective equipment, and the cause can easily be laid to a more obvious contributory factor such as driver error, the department reported.

Vehicles driven through safety check lanes will undergo a 10-point check. Included in the inspection will be tires, brakes, lighting systems, exhaust system, the horn, and condition of windshield and windows. Motorists interested in participating should check with local police departments for information on local participation.

A special shield made of a high-permeability nickel alloy is used to protect the magnetic tapes used in electronic computers. The shield protects the tapes from outside magnetic "noises" and thus prevents errors in data processing systems.

"Selfishness is not living as one wishes to live; it is asking others to live as one wishes to live. And unselfishness is letting other people's lives alone, not interfering with them. Selfishness always aims at creating around it an absolute uniformity of type. Unselfishness recognizes infinite variety of type as a delightful thing, accepts it, acquiesces in it, enjoys it."

An Important Election

Another school election is just around the corner and it may prove to be just as interesting as the four contests that have preceded it. All of the four had either a direct or an indirect bearing on the question of the school construction program. In three of the contests the voters rejected the proposals as they had been presented. In only one of the four, the last one, was there majority support for the program.

Next Tuesday's election calls for the election of three board members. The three incumbents who are seeking reelection favor the program as it has been presented. The three opposing candidates favor an expansion program but believe our actual needs for added facilities can be provided at less cost. If the election should result in the present minority of the board members becoming a majority then the program might be modified.

So Tuesday's election will be an important referendum that deserves the active interest of all voters.

Narcotics Policy

A Commission on Narcotics and Drug Abuses, appointed by President Kennedy last September, has reported with several recommendations. In his instructions to the Commission the President set up as objectives a program to attack drug addiction and organized crime. One objective, he said, should be the elimination of the illicit traffic in narcotics which supports the huge crime syndicate. The other objective should be "the rehabilitation and restoration to society" of the drug addict himself.

The Wall Street Journal was favorably impressed with the President's approach to the problems and his recommended objectives. It was not so favorably impressed with the Commission's report, which, it stated, "proposed nothing more than a few feeble changes in the narcotics policy the country has followed for fifty years and which, for fifty years, has been a dismal failure."

Following are a few of the Journal's own conclusions as to what needs to be done:

"What makes narcotic addiction such a huge breeder of crimes is the fact that under present law the addict must find an endless supply of dollars to purchase from gangsters, at exorbitant prices, what would otherwise be a penny's worth of drugs. The individual crimes spring from this need. From the huge profits extorted from helpless people comes the power of the nacotic syndicates.

"Nor is this the end of it. Because of the huge illicit profits, the making of new addicts has also become big business. If the spread of addiction is the greatest social evil, it spreads most rapidly from pushers pushing heroin tidbits on school children to make customers for the future.

"Thus it is that while we had a narcotics problem before the Harrison Act of 1914, now we have all these same problems compounded. And on top of those, wholly new problems which the laws themselves have created.

"Surely this is an overwhelming indictment of these laws. A half-century of experience ought to teach us that the "tougher" we make our laws on addicts the more we increase their desperation—and the more profitable we make it for organized crime.

"What we really need is a wholly different approach. Without in any way relaxing laws against the general sale of narcotics, we should stop branding every addict as a criminal regardless of the cause of his addiction and denying him any real recourse for treatment except institutions set up for criminals.

"This means we should begin considering how physicians, under careful rules, can be allowed to treat these sick people as they do others; and we can start searching for ways in which the tragic incurables can be put on sustaining doses that will keep them from desperate acts.

"Certainly a policy so conceived would lead better to our true objectives, the restoration of hope to present addicts, the diminishing of the menace of new addictions and the elimination of the illicit profits which feed organized crime. It would thus better serve both humanity and society.

"The laws for such a policy, as we say, may not be easy to make. But we do not think they are impossible once men are willing to begin at the beginning and recognize that the laws we now have are monstrous, futile and self-defeating."

Effective Watchdog

The General Accounting Office, an agency of the legislative branch of our government and which, therefore, has nothing to fear from the executive branch bureaucracy, continues to bring out interesting reports on administrative incompetence. It has now revealed that the military services, over a five-year period, had paid out more than $100 million in overpayments to servicemen. Most of the overpayments had been recovered but the GAO estimates the irrecoverable loss at $18 million. Commenting on these activities the Wall Street Journal states:

"In another report, the GAO concludes that the Government could save $148 million over five years by buying more and renting fewer electronic data machines, and that after five years there could be further savings at the rate of $100 million annually. In still another, it estimates the armed services could save $1 million yearly by making better use of existing military communications networks to send long-distance messages.

"So the GAO undoubtedly saves money and could save a lot more. It could, that is, if others in Government paid more attention to the watchdog's bark and less attention to new ways to bite the taxpayer."

Wouldn't it be wonderful if a GAO service could be made available at our state and local government levels?

Saving the UN

The United Nations organization is in debt to the tune of $200 million, and how to raise this sum to satify its creditors is bothering some of its officials. Most of the members apparently don't give a hoot and our country probably will pay most of it. Maybe in this instance it serves us right.

Most of this debt was contracted to pay for the Congo operations, forcing Katanga Province to remain a part of the new nation. This was largely our government's idea and was opposed by our European friends. So we won another doubtful victory, which certainly did not strengthen the United Nations organization.

And the United Nations organization will need a lot of strengthening if it is to survive. In an interview on this problem recently, Lord Home, the British Foreign Secretary, had this to say:

"—What I hold is simple enough: The UN is in existence to try to keep peace and make peace more enduring.

"It's not meant to keep things just as they are, and stand in the way of change; you couldn't keep the peace that way if you tried. But on the other hand if a nation or a group of nations try to use the UN first and foremost as an instrument for making other nations independent at such a pace as is bound to aggravate and exploit racialism and aggressive nationalism, they are going against the whole spirit of the Charter. And those who see what is happening must speak out—

"Unless the UN is identified with orderly change, peaceful change, refuses to adopt double standards, then in a few years we shan't have a UN."

Canadian Power

British Columbia's decision to build a dam on the Peace River is a first step in a complete reversal of Canada's power policy which, up to now, has restricted power development to Canadian needs. Writing on this development in the Christian Science Monitor, Bruce Hutchison reports:

"While the output of the Peace River scheme, reckoned at 2,300,000 kilowatts, is designed mainly for use within British Columbia, the provincial government intends, if possible, to export part of it to the United States. But this will be only the first installment of massive export.

"Plans for the exploitation of the Columbia River in British Columbia, the Nelson in Manitoba, and the Hamilton in Labrador all depend on huge sales of power to American consumers.

"Until recent months a Canadian policy, enforced since the 1920's, forbade such sales on the ground that power, once committed to the United States, could never be recaptured and might imperil Canada's future supply of electricity."

The new factor responsible for this change of national policy, according to Mr. Hutchinson, is the development of increasingly cheap nuclear power. It is feared that if Canadian rivers are not harnessed now, hydro power will not be able to compete in another decade with American nuclear plants.

The assured development of the enormous hydro potential in northern Manitoba is of special interest to our area. It is possible that northern Manitoba will be our main source of power in the foreseeable future, served through a power grid that would tie together a vast generating system.

This "togetherness" has me down!

We can understand exactly how you feel, young fellow! Togetherness is all very fine, but sometimes, when a family is on-the-grow (like yours) you can get too much of a good thing. Pretty soon now, you are going to want a room of your own . . . and maybe a place to play, as well. This may well pose a problem. But it's one that may be very happily solved. MAGNANIMOUS VICTOR in the traditional cow-milking contest between Princess Kay of the Milky Way and the Future Farmers of America State Star Dairy Farmer was Floyd Marti, 19, Sleepy Eye, Minn. Survey Shows Value of Using Seat Belts

Seat belts have their greatest value in city driving, according to a recent report by the University of Michigan, based on a year long study of fatal accidents.

Investigations were made of 47 accidents involving 70 deaths. Investigators were on 24-hour call and were able to make on-the-scene studies. Detailed examinations were made of structural damage to the vehicle in relation to injuries. Autopsies were also made.

Almost one-third, 29 percent, of the victims would have been saved with safety seat belts and another 21 percent might have been, according to the report.

In none of the investigated cases was the seat belt itself the cause of injury.

The report points out that more than half of all accidents that cause injury or death occur at speeds less than 40 miles per hour, and three out of four traffic deaths occur within 25 miles of the victims' homes.

Seat belts prove most valuable in accidents that do not involve great speed at time of impact. The report theorizes that there may exist a survival line of about 60 miles per hour impact speed.. above that speed, gravity forces on the person exceed human endurance. At 30 miles per hour an impact will create a force 30 times the strain of gravity.

Rear seat belts are also extremely important. In the 47 accidents investigated persons were ejected from rear seats with fatal results, and one child was killed instantly when thrown from the rear seat into the instrument panel.

This report agrees with the American Medical Association News that about 5,000 fatalities could have been prevented last year if the victims had been using safety seat belts.

S-S Recipients Asked to Report Address Changes

Persons receiving monthly social security checks were reminded today that a change of address should be reported promptly to both the Social Security Administration and to the postoffice.

Failure to do this, Walter D. Kistler, district manager, said, can result in a delay in receiving checks and the possibility that the check will be returned to the Treasury rather than be forwarded.

Forms for changing an address on social security's records are available at the Grand Forks, North Dakota, social security office, Mr. Kistler said. If a change is reported before the middle of the month, the next check can be sent to the new address.

The postoffice should be notified also of a forwarding address in case some social security checks are already in the mail, Kistler said.

the MOTHER who couldn't take it

Once there was a mother who had a normal, healthy boy. And he liked to do the things that normal, healthy boys like to do.

But, for a long while, Mother couldn't take it. She kept saying, "DON'T Bobby — you'll hurt yourself!"

Then one day, as she passed the playground, she marveled at a bold youngster's feats on the horizontal ladder. And, coming closer, she discovered it was Bobby!

Now she has more confidence in her son . . . and better understands his confidence in himself.

Sound religious training begins with confidence and understanding. In churches of our community youthful eagerness is directed toward right motives, high ideals, clean activities. Moral and spiritual conviction begin to supersede daring and pride as incentives for action.

Your child already has faith in himself. Through the Church's guidance and your example this rudimentary faith can be enriched and tempered by faith in God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL · ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Vote for Dake Ayers

for the School Board of District 564

Tuesday, May 21

at Lincoln High School

To The Voters of School District No. 564:

As a candidate for School Board member I wish to state that I was born and raised in Norden township and graduated from Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls. During the past 12 years I have served as assessor for Norden township and I am chairman for the A.S.C. committee for Norden and Numedal. I am married and have two children.

I am vitally interested in our school system and I am in favor of adequate facilities, but I feel that we should also bear in mind the ability of our taxpayers to pay the bills. In my opinion the building program initiated by the present board is too extensive and too costly for our present needs.

Your support in the election will be greatly appreciated.

These familiar wild oat seeds soon may be stealing your profits by cheating you out of 20% to 30% of the yields you should get. Read below how you can build better crop profits by stopping those yield-reducing weeds with a single spraying:

How many of these "profit robbers" are sprouting in your fields right now?

NO MATTER how much cultivation you have done ahead of planting, the wild oat seed in your fields still present a serious threat to your crop profits. Even if you delayed seeding to plow under the first stand of wild oats, chances are that a fresh growth of these yield-reducing weeds will spring up in at least part of your fields. Wherever these menacing weeds infest your crop land they cost you money—yields are usually reduced 20% to 30%. But now you can protect your yields by stopping wild oats with a single spraying of Carbyne.

Timing Is Important

One spraying of Carbyne at the right time will control wild oats all season. Because proper timing is important, it will pay you to get ready right now. Be sure you are ready to spray when a majority of the wild oats reach the 2-leaf stage (shown in this chart).

Spray with Carbyne when a majority of the wild oats look like this—from the time the second leaf first appears until the third leaf first appears. This period will last about six days under normal growing conditions.*

Carbyne treatment is a one-step spraying operation. For ground application, a good farm sprayer, equipped with the recommended nozzles, is ideal. Aerial application, using the services of a qualified Carbyne aerial applicator, is equally satisfactory.

Get Ready Now

Remember, that the proper application time for Carbyne is very near. So, now is the time to prepare for spraying. Detailed instructions for mixing and ground spraying are on the Carbyne can and also in the free Carbyne folder. No crop damage has ever been reported when Carbyne was applied according to directions.

Recommended Crops

Carbyne is recommended for use on: SPRING WHEAT, DURUM WHEAT, BARLEY, SUGAR BEETS, FLAX, PEAS and SAFFLOWER. These recommendations are based on four years of experiment station field testing, plus four years of Spencer Research field testing, and extensive farm use in 1961 and 1962.

Last year alone, farmers like you used Carbyne to control wild oats on 469,000 acres of crops. Recent surveys in the prime wild oat counties show that more than twice as many farmers plan to use Carbyne this spring than used it last year.

Builds Crop Profits

The cost of Carbyne for controlling wild oats in most close-seeded crops is as little as $3 per acre when growing conditions are good.

Applied at the proper time according to label instructions, Carbyne will provide you with the most efficient and profitable wild oat control method yet devised.

Dakota-Minnesota crop records show that on wheat, for example, Carbyne treatment will increase yields an average of 6 to 8 bushels per acre—compared to equally infested acreage not sprayed. For every wild oat infested acre of wheat you spray with Carbyne now, you expect enough extra yields to net about $10 bonus profit over and above the cost of Carbyne treatment. (If you replaced delayed seeding with Carbyne wild oat control, your profits will be considerably greater.)

Get Carbyne Now

Don't miss your chance to boost crop profits by stopping wild oats with farm-proven Carbyne. Check your fields today for wild oats, and pick up your Carbyne supply right away.

*In the interest of crop protection, it is also important to consider the age and growth stage of the crop as explained on the label. For example, wheat and barley must not be sprayed after the fourth leaf first appears.

WHAT USERS SAY ABOUT CARBYNE:

NORTH DAKOTA
BARLEY AND WHEAT

Clinton Rutherford, Grafton: "I had three 40-acre fields of barley sprayed with Carbyne — and 30 acres of wheat. My yields were 66 bushels per acre (net elevator weight) on two good fields of barley and the wheat averaged 39 bushels an acre."

MINNESOTA WHEAT

Robert Dvorak, Warren: "I had Carbyne applied by air on my wheat. In one 35-acre field, wild oats were so thick I would have had to plow it under if Carbyne hadn't stopped them. On another 26-acre field, Carbyne gave me excellent wild oat control."

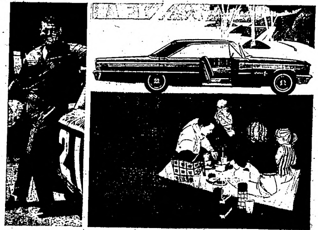
TOTAL PERFORMANCE:



FORD GALAXIE 500/XL SPORTS HARDTOP

IF YOU KNEW WHAT TINY LUND KNOWS ABOUT FORD DURABILITY...YOU'D BE OUT ENJOYING A '63 FORD

Ask Tiny Lund about Ford durability: He'll tell you how it helped him win America's toughest stock-car competition, the Daytona 500. Lund placed first in a Ford, with four other Fords right behind him for an unprecedented sweep of the first five places. Only the Fords were tough enough to stand the pace.

Greater durability is the reason Ford is able to offer a total-car warranty. Only a true total-performance car could offer as complete a warranty as this—with no strings attached:

"Ford Motor Company warrants to its dealers, and its dealers, in turn, warrant to owners as follows: That for 24 months or for 24,000 miles*, whichever comes first, free replacement, including related labor, will be made by dealers of any part with a defect in workmanship or materials. Tires are not covered by the warranty; appropriate adjustments will be made by the tire companies. Owners will remain responsible for normal maintenance services, routine replacement of parts, such as filters, spark plugs, ignition points, wiper blades, brake or clutch linings, and normal deterioration of soft trim and appearance items."

You can't put a long-term warranty like ours on a short-term car. The '63 Fords have a better warranty because they're built better than any Fords in history. You see evidence of this extra toughness in Ford's outstanding competitive wins this year. '63 Fords won the grueling Daytona, Riverside, and Atlanta 500's, and the demanding Pure Oil Performance Trials. Only cars with total performance could roll up so many big wins. Before you buy any new car, test-drive the solid, silent Super Torque Ford. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Remember: If it's built by Ford, it's built for performance . . . total performance.

*90 days or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first, for the 427 C.I.D. 4V or 8V and 289 C.I.D. 4V engines and related power train components

Legion Auxiliary Holds Poppy Sale

American Legion auxiliary and junior auxiliary in Thief River Falls will conduct the annual American Legion poppy sale Friday and Saturday in this city. Members of the 40 et 8 Volture will assist the program through installation of a poppy window at Northern State Bank.

Judging was recently completed in the poster contest which drew 172 entries in three division this year. First place winners in each division will have their posters entered in district compitition at the Ninth District convention to be held June 7 and 8 at Detroit Lakes.

"We distribute the poppies to promote and continue our program of aid, hope and remembrance," stated Mrs. Walter Halvorson, poppy chairman for the local auxiliary unit. "By this we mean aid to the veteran and his family that may be in need; hope to the veteran in the form of rehabilitation and scholarships to his children; and remembrance to the war dead of all wars."

"In Minnesota alone in 1962, a total of $79,346 was spent for rehabilitation and $418,376 for child welfare. Every cent of this money came from the coins collected on Poppy Days throughout the state by volunteer workers of the American Legion auxiliary."

Poppy Day is observed by the public through the purchase and wearing of veteran-made replicas of the Flanders Field poppy. These poppies are made by disabled veterans working in the Minnesota Poppy workroom as part of the occupational therapy program. The American Legion Auxiliary pays them for their work.

"Every coin exchanged for a poppy helps retrain the handicapped, provide emergency aid for the dependents of hospitalized veterans, scolarships for war orphans and other projects locally needed to assure a square deal for every child in the community," Mrs. Halvorson said.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Reed of Glenwood were visitors a week ago at the home of Mrs. Reed's sister, Mrs. Esther Plough. They all visited in Grand Forks, N. D. for a day, where they were guests of the ladies' aunt, Mrs. Emma Soarls.

Clean-Up Campaign Proves Success

OPENING DAY fishing enthusiasts found Minnesota weather a bit contrary this weekend. The above photo was taken in Thief River Falls early Sunday morning — about the time when the more hardy anglers were returning from jaunts to the lakes. Less hardy fishermen either gave up early in disgust or stayed home and watched bad weather reports on television. Snow began falling in the Lake of the Woods area in the early afternoon Saturday and the ground and trees were covered with white by nightfall. Thief River Falls was hit by snow later in the evening with the accumulation estimated at ½-inch. North Central Airlines personnel at the municipal airport measured .008 inch of precipitation Saturday and Sunday.

Thief River Falls' Clean-up, Paint-up and Fix-up campaign came to a close Saturday following three weeks of activity geared to beautify the community and make it a safer place to live. Retailers in the city wrapped up the observance with a "clean sweep" sale on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, an event which was opened with a parade at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday.

Aided by the donation of 10 trucks, the Thief River Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce conducted a trash pickup Thursday evening in which more than 20 loads of accumulated trash was removed from the city to the dump grounds. About 30 Jaycees turned out to assist in the effort under the direction of Richard Bjorkman, project chairman for the chapter and civic activities chairman for the clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaign.

Thursday evening was also the time when Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts joined forces in picking up paper, bottles and other debris along the highway right of way and approaches to the city. Four trucks with drivers were also provided for this effort which added materially to the appearance of the city, Bjorkman said.

In summarizing the campaign, Bjorkman issued thanks to Max Jenson, operator of the city garbage collection service and in charge of maintaining the dump grounds, for his cooperation; to firms and persons donating trucks; to Jaycees, Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts and their leaders for their volunteer efforts; to truck drivers aiding in the trash pickup; and to the general public for response to the clean-up plea.

Contributing trucks for use by the Boy Scouts were Coast-to-Coast, Gamble's, Bridgeman Creameries and Land O'Lakes Creameries. Drivers were Donald M. Olson, Ervin Ferber, Robert Protz and Evonne Olson. Trucks used by the Jaycees were contributed by Northwest Trailer Court, Popler's, Tunberg Motors, Hamm's Distributing company, Falls Supply, L. B. Hartz Wholesale, Elgit Loeffler and Solheim and Overum. Prichard Bros. also contributed the use of a truck and Jarvis Prichard served as driver.

"We believe that we can feel safe in saying the campaign was successful," stated Harold Storhaug, general chairman of the event for the Chamber of Commerce. "Many people in the community put forth considrable effort to make the campaign effective and I wish to thank them for their efforts. Much credit is due to the individuals who entered the spirit of the campaign and turned their efforts during the past several weeks to clean-up, paint-up and fix-up activities."

Big Event Set June 11

Officials Optimistic On 14th N W Dairy Day

Optimism is the key word for the 14th annual Northwest Dairy Day scheduled for Thief River Falls on Tuesday, June 11, according to Stuart McLeod, president of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsor of the event. Northwest Dairy Day is the original Dairy Day, the idea for which has spread throughout the United States as part of June Dairy Month promotion.

About 275 head of dairy cattle from an 11 county are are expected to be entered in competition this year and 33 girls will be entered in the Northwest Dairy Princess contest. Miss Kathleen Hjelle of Argyle, 1962 Northwest princess who went on to become Princess Kay of the Milky Way at the Minnesota state fair, will be a special guest this year. She will be on hand to crown her successor as Northwest Dairy Princess Tuesday afternoon.

Henry Bartel of Beau Vache farm at Hastings will be one of the judges for the event, returning at the popular request of the board of directors of the association. Olaf Kjomme was invited to judge again but was unable to do so due to a conflict of dates. The second judge is yet to be secured.

Livestock exhibitors were reminded by President McLeod that health certificates must be obtained to enter the show and that entry blanks are due at the county agent's office in the respective counties by May 27.

Committees have been named to handle award distribution, princess contest, show ring and cattle arrangement, parade, noon lunch and box lunches and other duties in connection with the 14th annual exposition, McLeod noted. "We are optimistic and everything is under control," he concluded, "but what we need most of all is another beautiful day, lots of boys and girls and lots of help from everyone."

Mrs. Mabel Sand and Mrs. Agnes Gustafson of St. Hilaire were Wednesday guests of Misses Hilda and Anna Ahlberg.

Legislature's End Expected Late Tuesday

Big Appropriation Bills Due for Action Before Session Ends

The Minnesota Legislature is about ready to call it quits for another two years.

Legislators Saturday said they hope to go home by Tuesday, the 115th day of the 1963 session. The 120-day limit will expire May 27.

Both houses met Saturday morning to pass a few bills and act on a few committee reports. But several of the major proposals still must be acted upon.

House - senate conference committees were working over the weekend toward compromises on education, highways and state departments appropriations bills and the water pollution control bill.

Those measures are expected to come before the legislature for a final vote today.

Some members expressed concern Saturday that, when all the spending bills have been passed, Minnesota will find itself short of revenues and the legislature will have to raise taxes at the last minute to make up the difference.

But leaders of the Conservative majority repeated their claim that the state will live within existing revenues for the 1963-65 biennium.

National Guard Open House At Armory Tonight

In observance of Armed Forces Day which is officially being noted Saturday, the Thief River Falls national guard will sponsor a public open house Monday evening (tonight) at the armory. Announcement of the open house was made by Capt. Richard Edlund, commander of the local unit.

The local unit is Company B, Second Battalion, 136th Infantry, Second Brigade, 47th Division. Area residents are encouraged to visit the armory, view the equipment and building facilities, ask questions about the national guard and equipment and partake of a cup of coffee with the guardsmen.

Fair Association To Hold Graveling Bee Here June 8

Seeks Volunteer Labor To Haul and Spread a Total of 4,800 Yards

In preparation for the Pennington county fair to be held July 8, 9, 10 and 11 in Thief River Falls, a graveling bee will be held on Saturday, June 8, by the Pennington County Fair association. It is hoped that 50 volunteers with trucks can be secured as well as tractors with loaders and other workers for the day. Activity will begin at 7:30 a.m.

Object of the optimistic attempt will be the spreading of 4,800 cubic yards of gravel on the midway section of the fairgrounds to provide an area which will be more suitable for the visiting public and carnival trucks and equipment.

Prior to the graveling bee, technical assistance will be provided for land leveling, ditching and the installation of a 30 foot culvert to provide proper drainage for the area. Volunteers may call any member of the fair board or leave their names with Jon Metusalem by stopping at Thief River Realty or calling MU 1-4740.

Workers unable to come to the fairgrounds at 7:30 a.m. will be welcome at any hour they find convenient.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Gulbranson attended the funeral of Mrs. Gulbranson's cousin, Arlie Borsen, at Mabel, Minnesota, on May 16. They also spent several days visiting relatives at Hasper, Iowa.

School Election Set Tuesday

Polls will be open from 4 to 9 p.m: Tuesday at the Lincoln high school cafeteria for the annual school board election of District 564 in Thief River Falls. Three members of the board will be elected for three-year terms and six candidates have filed for the three positions.

Filing for the posts on the board of educatoion are incumbents Rufus Olson, John Burtness and Lloyd Howick and hopefuls Bert Vigen, Dake Ayers and LaVerne Randorf. The three candidates receiving the largest number of votes will be declared elected.

Elected officers will take office at the annual meeting to be held early in July. Officers of the board will be elected at that time but no date has as yet been set for the annual meeting.

In last year's school election, a record number of 1,700 ballots were cast when interest was running high in a school bond issue proposal. The bond issue was passed on March 5 by a majority of more than 300 votes with more than 3,000 voters casting their ballots. Tuesday's election will give an indication as to the interest which the public holds now that the bond issue has been passed.

Arlene McCullough and Kenneth Johnson Are Wed

Evangelical Free Church of Thief River Falls was the setting for the double-ring candlelight service uniting in marriage Miss Arlene McCullough and Kenneth Raymond Johnson Jr. on Saturday night, April 20. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Clifford Anderson. Altar decorations were white gladioli and pink carnations and greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McCullough of Holt, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson Sr. of Badger.

Miss Diane Wold, Roseau, provided nuptial music at the organ and also accompanied Mrs. Roger Nygaard as she sang, "O, Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted by her father and given by him in marriage. Her gown was of white lace with fitted, sequin-trimmed bodice and square front neckline which dipped to a V in the back. The floor-length skirt was fashioned of tiers of lace and net over taffeta faille, and enhanced with sequins. The fingertip veil was caught to a pearl crown. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations with pink roses and centered with Amazon lilies.

Matron of honor, Mrs. James Thomas, Nashville, Tenn., a sister of the bride, was gowned in a sky-blue dress of chiffon and net over taffeta, accented by a satin cummerbund detailed with a large bustle bow in the back. She wore a tiara of rhinestones and of veiling to match her dress, and carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations with roses and an Amazon lily. Her white gloves were wrist-length.

Bridesmaids were Betty Johnson and Jean Johnson, sisters of the groom. Their attire matched that worn by the matron of honor.

Flower girl Charlene Ann Thomas, Nashville, the bride's niece, wore a sky-blue dress of nylon with a headdress matching that of the other attendants of the bride, and carried a basket of tiny feathered carnations and baby rosebuds.

Serving as best man was Russell McCullough, the bride's brother, and groomsmen were Gordon McCullough, another brother of the bride, and Gilmore Lee. David Lee, the groom's nephew, carried the rings on a satin and lace pillow. Ushers and candlelighters were Jim Jenson and Loren McCullough, brother of the bride. The men in the party wore tuxedos and white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McCullough chose a dress of sky blue and black eyelet. Mrs. Johnson wore a blue linen dress. Both had white accessories and identical corsages of white feathered carnations and deep pink roses. The grandmothers, Mrs. Ida Wagner and Mrs. Alma Stoe, were also presented with corsages.

A reception was held in the church parlors with approximately 250 guests in attendance, from Nashville, Tenn., Hoople, Fargo, and Grand Forks, N. D., and St. Paul, Minneapolis, Anoka, Roseau, Detroit Lakes, Warren, Badger, and Gatzke, Minn. Mrs. Art Dicken served as hostess.

The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Joe Jenson of Badger and cut and served by Mrs. Hazel Magnussen and Mrs. Emmet Wagner, aunts of the groom and bride, respectively.

Miss Alma Wagner and Mrs. Clarence Lee, respective aunts of the bride and groom, poured. Ladies aid of the Evangelical Free Church of Newfolden served, and waitresses were Misses Bonnie Dicken and Sue Busse, and another friend. At the guest book was Kathleen Smith of Detroit Lakes and Mrs. Russell McCullough and Mrs. Gordon McCullough displayed the gifts.

Following a wedding trip to Detroit Lakes and Wisconsin, the couple will be at home at 691 E. 3rd Street, St. Paul.

The bride graduated from Newfolden high school and the local area school of practical nursing and is employed at St. John's hospital in St. Paul. The groom is a graduate of Roseau high school and attended the University of Minnesota. He is employed by Ford Motor Co. in St. Paul. —Photo by Neal Fox Studio.

Swingin' Safari Dance Proves A Rare Treat

Enthusiastic square dancers turned out Thursday for a rare treat when Jack Livingston appeared in Thief River Falls to call a Swingin' Safari dance. Twenty squares found a challenge in new calls such as "Acey-deucy" and "Ends Turn In", also enjoying the singing calls, favorites with the group.

Mobiles hung overhead while on stage were life-size kangaroos, an inquisitive giraffe, and pert-looking monkeys behind an array of greenery. Livingston dominated the scene in his western-type costume, skillfully calling the sets.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jude arranged the decorations, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Owen handled registration, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Oen hosted the coffee hour.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of

MRS. JAMES R. OLSON

To the uninitiated, the name of these rolls may prompt a second glance, in fact, even a raised eyebrow. But we meant it; they really are called "clothespin" rolls. Mrs. Olson, a city resident who gave us this recipe, is a former cook at Oakland Park, retiring about three years ago after 5 years of cooking there.

CLOTHESPIN ROLLS

2 pkgs. dry yeast, dissolved in ¼ cup lukewarm water
2 eggs, beaten
2 cups milk, scalded
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
½ cup shortening
7 cups flour (more or less)

Scald milk; add shortening, sugar, and salt. Allow to cool to lukewarm. Add dissolved yeast mixture, part of the flour, and the beaten eggs, and beat until smooth. Add remaining flour, a little at a time, and work into a smooth, elastic dough. Form into a ball, grease well, cover, and set aside in a warm place until double in bulk. Knead down, and let rise again. Roll out to a ¼-inch thick rectangle about seven inches long, using a well-floured board. Cut dough into strips ½-inch wide and 7 inches long, and wind in a spiral around a well-greased, old-fashioned round wooden clothespin kept for this purpose. Do not cover the head of the pin. Allow rolls to rise until double in size and bake in an oven pre-heated to 375 degrees. They should be nicely browned when done. Let stand a few minutes, then remove the clothespin and cool the rolls. When ready to serve, fill the cavity with a filling made of Cheeze Whiz, softened with a little cream, and with minced onion added to suit the taste. Serve.

Jelly or fruit filling may be substituted for the cheese filling, if desired.

The Olsons have two children, both married. They are Marvin of this city, and Mrs. Gary Potucek of Warren. There are also a pair of grandchildren, Joanie Beth and Jerry. Mr. Olson is the greensman at the local golf course.

Mrs. Olson's hobbies include growing and arranging flowers, gardening, baking, and entertaining guests. She also bakes and decorates wedding cakes.

A purse of money was given to each of the honor guests, and some gifts were also received. There were birthday cakes for each, and these were features of the luncheon which capped the social afternoon.

Mrs. W. Lendobeja Is Garden Club Speaker

Members of the Ladyslipper garden club met at the Walter Lendobeja home on April 30 for their regular meeting. Answering roll call by naming the shrub they had pruned or expected to prune, they heard an illustrated talk on "The Art of Pruning," given by Mrs. Lendobeja. Slides were shown and commentary was given by Mr. and Mrs Herman Christopherson on their various garden club projects. Five club members who had attended the district meeting at Hallock gave interesting reports of their trip and of the meeting.

Following the serving of lunch by the hostess, the members had their annual spring exchange of flowers, plants, and shrubs.

The next meeting will be Monday, June 3 at 2 p.m. at the Henry Waale home.

Goodridge Sixth Graders Make Tour of Minnesota

Sixth grade students at Goodridge school were given first-hand impressions of Minnesota through a three-day tour of points of interest recently. The class was accompanied by Edna Omlid, teacher; Andy Wells, Roger Hoffman and Yvonne Wells, chaperones; and Justin Dahlen, bus driver.

Points of interest visited were Itasca state park, where all pupils walked across the source of the Mississippi river; Camp Ripley, where students were allowed an inside inspection of a tank; and Cuyuna Range, where pit mines were visited and pieces of ore were provided as souvenirs.

When the group arrived in Minneapolis, girls stayed at the Sheridan hotel and boys at the YMCA. The second day's tour included visits to the science museum, state historical society and the state capitol in St. Paul. A brief time was spent watching the state senate in session and Sen. Harveydale Maruska of this district greeted the class in the visitors' balcony. A group picture was also taken with Sen. Maruska and Rep. Andrew Skaar.

Following lunch in the capitol cafeteria, visits were made to the Ford plant, Fort Snelling, Como park, Foshay tower and some time was spent shopping. Class members worked during the year to accumulate money for the trip which cost about $13 per pupil. The trip climaxes a year of study on Minnesota in social studies class.

Some written comments on the trip by students include the following:

Mary Szymanski: "In my whole life I have been to the Cities one time and that was on our trip." Arlen Merrill: "I liked Como park because there were lots of animals like birds, buffaloes and ostriches." Arlen Good: "We stopped at Lake Itasca and two of us boys killed a sucker." Terry Anderson: "I liked to go to the capitol and I never though we had as great a capitol as we do."

Curtis Stuure: "I thought our trip was a good one." Darwin Eidelbes: "I liked the Capitol because I saw the big star on the first floor and because we studied on it." Karen Bendickson: (On Camp Ripley) "They have 35,000 men in the camp. Only 8,000 men were there at a time." Judy Iverson: "At Como park there were rides which I rode on that were fun."

Darlene Appleman: "One of the things I didn't like was the Capitol because you had to stand so long, and the Foshay Tower was boring too because when we got to the top it started to rain." Virgil Phelps: "I liked the Cinerama the most." Carol Elg: "Of all the places I went to, I couldn't say which one I liked the best, because they all were very interesting."

Gloria Skreland: "At Camp Ripley a lieutenant took us on a tour which included everything to do with the army." Karen Lease: "I like th animals, some were bison, lion and snake." Michael Needham: "I also like to go up and down in the elevator."

Rain, Snow, Greet Jr.-Sr. Prom-Goers Sat.

Saturday night was prom night in Thief River Falls and although the weatherman gave no cooperation whatever, the rain and snow which attended the occasion failed to dampen the spirits of the party-goers. Dressed in their finest for the occasion, they met in the Lincoln high school gym which was festive in blue and white decor, with the theme, "Evening In Paris", much in evidence. Music was furnished by "The Minutemen" of Moorhead.

Following the activities in the gym, the juniors and seniors who attended, about 150 in number, according to Richard Edlund, senior high school principal, were guests of the Elks club at a party at the Club rooms from 1 to 3 a. m.

In general charge of the event were Vicki Goulet and Mark Anderson. They were assisted by various committees from the student body. Advisor to the junior class is Ted Hellie.

WHY VOTE?

On March 5th the largest turnout of voters in the history of this school district decisively decided the question of issuing bonds for needed school expanion. This was a true majority opinion. If you wish to maintain the progress initiated by the board and approved by the March 5th vote, it is urgent that you support the incumbents — John Burtness, Lloyd Howick and Rufus Olson.

Let's make this another record turnout!

CHAMBER L.I.F.E.

Living-Industry-Farming-Education

By Rolly Larson
Manager Chamber of Commerce

What is a Chamber of Commerce? Is it that office down at the city auditorium? Is it a "few of those guys downtown"? Or just what is it?

Well, "the Chamber" is many things and it seems to be getting broader all the time. Basically, the Chamber is an organization, a vehicle through which community-minded business, professional and other individuals can pool and channel or direct their efforts. They can cause community progress by moving forward together in an organized and planned manner. The Chamber has a broad goal which is to promote the commercial, industrial, agricultural and civic welfare of the community through voluntary citizenship action. The Chamber, too, has become somewhat of a "conscience" for the community, seeking out its faults—and shortcomings, and the collective will of the local citizens to overcome them. In other words, the Chamber of Commerce is people, like you and your neighbor, just working together all of the time for the betterment of Thief River Falls.

We think that we've had a good example of Chamber effort since the first of May with the Cleanup-Paintup - Fixup, where literally thousands of people were actually involved in one phase or another of the campaign. This is what is necessary to maintain the proper attitude and progress in any community. The success of a Chamber of Commerce depends almost entirely on the efforts of the people as a whole who make up the community. When those individuals are enlisted into planned and organized action a Chamber gets results—and only then.

Thief River Falls shouldn't have to worry too much about the future of its Chamber of Commerce for the simple reason that it does have many loyal and active members and supporters who realize the importance of a sound Chamber program and know what is necessary to carry it through successfully. The individuals we refer to outnumber and overshadow through their efforts those who are not loyal and active supporters of progressive community development and so their desires will prevail.

The Chamber will not only survive but it will flourish just as it has for the past fifty years under progressive leadership. It is the one organization in Thief River Falls that will do more than any other, perhaps because it simply has more to do than any other organization or at least desires to do more.

In any event, the Chamber of Commerce is more than just you or me or a few "other guys". It can and should be everybody that is interested in seeing Thief River Fals move forward. It deserves your support all year every year. Any vehicle needs wheels and in the Chamber, the members are the "wheels". Why not roll along with the Chamber soon?

Let's help too by remembering to Shop and Trade Where Bargains Are Made—Here In the Heart of Northwest Minnesota, Thief River Falls.

Dr. Herber Is Head of Area Medical Group

Local Doctor Given Post Thursday When Chapter Was Formed

Approximately 30 medical doctors from northwestern Minnesota attended a seminar sponsored by the Minnesota Academy of General Practice Thursday afternoon at the Rex cafe basement in Thief River Falls. Plans were formulated for the organization of a local chapter of the state academy at the meeting.

Dr. Leo Herber of Thief River Falls was elected president of the chapter which has as its boundaries North Dakota on the west, highway 2 on the south, highway 89 and 72 on the east and the Canadian border on the north. Dr. H. Paul Wendt, also of Thief River Falls, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Other officers elected included Dr. Harold Thusell, Crookston, vice president; Dr. Arnold M. Berg, Roseau, director; and Dr. Rudolph Skogerboe, Karlstad, Dr. Lloyd Kiefstad, Greenbush, and Dr. Jack Delmore, Roseau, delegates.

"The American Academy of General Practice is an association of family physicians dedicated to the task of providing the best medical care possible in our scientific age," Dr. Herber said. "Requirements for membership make it mandatory that an aggressive program of post graduate medical study becomes a part of the individual doctor's program."

Speakers at the afternoon and evening session were Dr. Donald Smiley, St. Paul; Dr. Marcus Sholander, St. Paul; Dr. Stuart Lane Arey, Minneapolis; and Dr. Valentine O'Malley, St. Paul. Also attending the seminar were Dr. William H. A. Watson, president-elect of the Minnesota Academy of General Practice; Dr. James A Cosgriff Jr., Minneapolis, president of the academy; and Dr. John Holten, Moorhead, chairman of the chapter operations committee.

Dr. Leo Herber served as local arrangements chairman for the session.

Lincoln FHA Adopts Code of Safety Rules

Lincoln high school chapter of the Future Homemakers of America has adopted a code of safety prepared by the safety promotion section of the Minnesota highway department. The code lists rules for drivers, passengers, pedestrians and bicycle riders and includes the following items:

Drivers of Automobiles and other motor Vehicles:

1. Recognize the six basic shapes of traffic signs and obey their orders.
2. Yield right of way to pedestrians.
3. Watch speed limits and drive according to the existing road conditions; remember that speed is our greatest killer on the highways.
4. Don't drive when you feel sleepy or when you've taken any drugs, as they dull your senses. Most of all, don't drive under the influence of intoxicants. If you absolutely must make it "one for the road", try milk.
5. Be courteous to the other driver; give him his half of the road. Give a little even if you are in the right.

Passengers:

1. Don't distract the driver by pointing out all the little things along the road or by keeping a running line of chatter.
2. Behind the wheel drivers don't like back-seat drivers.
3. If you notice some oncoming danger the driver is not aware of, warn him of it.

Pedestrians:

1. Don't jay walk unless you are looking for a short cut to the hospital.
2. Obey traffic lights.
3. When walking along a roadside, face oncoming traffic. Walk well off the road.
4. If walking along the road at night, wear light colored clothing.
5. Don't hitchhike; it's illegal.

Bicycle Operators:

1. Obey the same rules of the road as those for automobiles, but don't get in the way of these faster moving vehicles.
2. If you must drive at night, wear light clothing and be sure your bicycle has a light and reflectors.
3. Signal when making a turn.
4. Don't try trick-riding on the roads.
5. Don't have riders on your bicycle.
6. When driving with a group, drive in single file.

by Virginia Gjernes

A book is a book is a book! But what a difference there is in the contents! Books, like people, run the gamut from thick to thin, from wide to narrow, from interesting to dull (according to your own personal taste in books and people), from humorous to humorless. . . and the comparisons could go on and on!

Some books hold a lot of words put together in such a way to form facts, others are put together to form fiction. Whether your literary taste runs to fact or to fiction is essentially immaterial, for you are deriving what YOU want from the words you choose to read.

It is actually tragic, is it not, that some peoople have never learned to read for the sheer joy of reading, because, if they only knew it, it is better to have read and forgot, than never to have read at all! It makes no difference why you read, nor what you read, the important thing is to read. Cultivate the habit of reading for then the seed of inquisitiveness will burst open and take root and as it is fed it will grow and grow and grow until it is almost impossible to keep it properly nourished, because knowledge, you know, is rather like those ol' crackerjacks . . the more you have the more you want! It is pretty well nigh inconceivable to think of ever knowing too much about anything, isn't it? But, if you ever feel you know enough about any one subject, you can read one more volume on it, rate yourself an authority. . .and write a book!

And, where do you find the books you want to read? Why at your Public Library. Where else?

For instance, if you are interested in dogs, especially hunting dogs, then here's one for you. It is called "Gun Dog" by Richard A. Wolters. The jacket printing states 'revolutionary rapid training method'. . .and described within the red covers are the ways and means for a man with limited time and facilities to train a gun dog, fast! Then too, the book contains scientific information on the mental development of a dog and it is because of this information that the author changed the procedures in gun dog training. The book is illustrated to show the complete training procedures step by step so you can actually see how to train your pet. One last point in the book is this. . .It shows you what your dog expects of you! (Bet this is the first time you dog-owners thought your dog expected anything more from you than a pan of water, a can of dog food and a bone, now and again!) So, see what you learn from books!

The newest "American Guide to Colleges" compiled by Gene R. Hawes is off the press on the shelf!

Oh, here's one of the best, if you are a Civil War history-addict, "John Ransom's Diary" with an introduction by Bruce Catton. Here is a true account with a bit of everything in it. . .adventure and suspense, as revealed by the brigade quartermaster, 9th Michigan Cavalry, after he was captured and confined in a Confederate prison. The writer turns up a side of the Civil War not generally revealed by others. Then, too, this is another to add to your "truth is stranger than fiction" list.

And for the truly unusual, take home "Song of Wild Laughter" for this is a volume excitingly different from any you've ever read. Written and illustrated with photographs, by Jack Couffer, who has the distinction of being both director and cameraman for Walt Disney Wildlife Productions, the book is about animals, true, but seldom is any human so full of love and admiration and dedication for his subject matter! Whether you have the reputation among your friends and neighbors of being an animal lover or not, you'll learn from and truly enjoy Mr. Couffer's efforts.

We're having a round-up at your library! We're in the process of lassoing books which are long overdue and we're in hopes that during our patrons' spring and summer cleaning chores around home, a volume or two will be uncovered, and, we trust, returned to Carnegie Public Library, regardless of the length of time it has been away from its stall on the shelf!

We are desperately in need of World Book, Volume "D", and some others which have been carelessly carried from the premises and not returned for one reason or another.

If you, or your children, or your children's children, have any books stamped with Carnegie Public Library, please just drop 'em in the south door slot, won't you? We need them, desperately!

LHS Orchestra Concert Slated Wednesday Night

Lincoln high school orchestra will be presented in concert under the direction of James Solsten on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Junior high orchestra and concert orchestra will be presented in separate portions of the program.

In addition to the group numbers a violin solo will be played by Gretchen Larson and Nona Pulari and David Swenson and Kathy Lafrenz. New uniforms purchased through a candy sale conducted by the orchestra will be used for the concert.

What Is Experience

1. John Burtness, Lloyd Howick and Rufus Olson, incumbents on the board of education, have a combined total of 19 years experience on the board of the Thief River Falls school district.

2. These men have unselfishly served the district well and their experience is badly needed at this crucial time.

3. Through thorough study and research for several years, these men are aware of school needs. It is this knowledge that makes their counsel invaluable. We invite you to ask yourself, "Are their opponents truly qualified to direct the education of your children?"

4. In past years the incumbents have proven their ability to think for themselves. Vote for the "Top Three" candidates in the district and on the ballot.

Extension Safety Specialist Gives Tips to Cyclists

Twelve bicyclists were killed in Minnesota traffic last year and approximately 541 were injured in 537 accidents.

Many of the accidents occured, according to Glenn Prickett, extension saftey specialist at the University of Minnesota, because cyclists did not obey regulations applying to vehicles on streets and highways. These regulations apply to bicyclists as well as to motorists.

A child is old enough to ride a bicycle on the street or highway Prickett says, when he has learned the rules of the road, how they apply to him as a cyclist, is ready to accept and obey them and is capable of handling his bicycle skillfully. The University safety specialist stressed the responsibility parents have in training the new cyclist before letting him risk his life in traffic.

President of Industry, Local Physician Gain Positions as Directors

Dr. George B. Martin of Falls-Starekow Clinic and Gordon M. Dow, president of Dow Key company, were elected to the board of directors of Union State Bank at a recent meeting of the stockholders, according to J. J. Womack, president.

Other board members include Harry Oen, a farmer; William LaFave, manager of Bridgeman Creameries; Lloyd Bennes, insurance agent; Justus Larson, music store owner; E. O. Peterson, chairman of the board; and Womack.

"Because of their backgrounds and associations, the directors will be of great benefit to the bank in its desire to better serve Thief River Falls and its trade area in all phases of banking and community area service," Womack said.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Laura Duerst

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

Common sense helps for using color in home furnishings. Here's a rule-of-thumb color for floors of all kinds - try to match the value of the soil outside the door. Your floors will show less soil. Dark soil shows on very light floors while light soil and dust show very soon on dark floors. Middle value is usually a more practical choice for floors.

White or off white is best for ceilings since it will reflect a maximum of light. Light reflected from the walls onto the ceiling will give it a tint of the wall color. A harmonizing off white ceiling can be made by adding a small amount of wall color to the ceiling color. Warm tones and darker values seems to bring high ceilings closer to the floor than do light, cool tones.

Warm and dark colors are used to make large rooms appear smaller.

To renew stiffness in veils, press with a warm iron and spray with spray net .. the kind you use on your hair .. and press again lightly if necessary.

Buttons are another danger point in the cleaning process. Plastic buttons may melt or discolor, and buttons with the fabric glued only to the button frames and not fastened by a strip of metal or teeth will not go through a cleaning process. If you are in doubt, remove buttons before washing or dry cleaning.

Area Students at Bemidji Chosen for Honor Group

Bemidji State College named a record 44 students to its extra curricular society for this college year according to Dr. Raymond Carlson, dean of students and chairman of the Student Activities Committee.

As an award for being named to this society the 44 students will go on an expense-paid fishing trip to Red Lake Tuesday. The trip is sponsored by SAC.

The members are selected by individual clubs, screened by a committee of students with the final selection being made by a secret faculty committee.

To be eligible a student must maintain a 2 point average and must have made a superior contribution to the extra curricular program of the college.

Among those named to the society are Larry Jorgenson of Thief River Falls, Kay Wik of St. Hilaire, and June Walter of Plummer.

Inventors to Show Products at Event in Redwood Falls

Sixth Annual Minnesota Inventors Congress to Be Staged June 7 to 9

The sixth annual Minnesota Inventors Congress — the state's original invention show — will be held at Redwood county fairgrounds, Redwood Falls, Minn., June 7-9.

Stars of the show will again be inventors from a half dozen states —and playing supporting roles will be officials from the worlds of government and business.

Inventors come from Wisconsin, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Montana, Minnesota and sometimes from other places to show with pride items that range in size from a clothing snap to a giant earth mover and in complexity from a wire milk carton handle to electronics equipment.

They come because they know that with their entry fees they get free advice from patent attorneys; a chance to show their wares to manufacturing and distributing representatives from as far away as California, and to area chamber of commerce officials looking for an item that might go well in their communities. And congress visitors take a look at these brand new products that they may soon be buying in their neighborhood stores.

Minnesota Inventors Congress is a non-profit organization. Its board, which serves without pay, is chosen from Redwood County Farm Bureau, Redwood County Junior Chamber of Commerce, Redwood Falls Chamber of Commerce and WCCO-Radio, Minneapolis and St. Paul. Key advisors are Joe S. Dugan of the Minneapolis office of the U. S. Department of Commerce and Melvin K. Pass, small business administration.

Inventors may enter as many items as they wish in each of the nine categories. Cash prizes and token awards are given in each division. Overall winner chosen by the judges also gets a cash prize, and a special award is given the inventor whose work is voted best by spectators.

Urges Effort to Pass Taconite Amendment

Wheelock Whitney, chairman of the Minnesota Taconite Action Corps (TAC) Monday praised the DFL convention for coming out in favor of the taconite amendment to the state constitution, but he warned that "a lot of hard work lies ahead if the amendment is to be really effective."

"Certain delegates to the DFL convention labored hard and long for this amendment during the year since a similar DFL convention condemned it," Whitney said, "and they are to be congratulated for bringing a majority of their group around."

Whitney, who was appointed TAC chairman by former Governor Elmer L. Anderson, said, "The taconite amendment is the one truly bipartisan, even non-partisan piece of legislation necessary to get the northern part of the state moving again."

"The amendment has the support of labor and business and the people," Whitney said, "but there is a lot of hard work to be done before the referendum if the state is to realize the maximum benefit."

"First of all," Whitney said, "Minnesotans outside the northern part of the state have to be told how necessary such a measure is to the economic recovery of the Iron Range."

"Secondly, they have to be told of the benefits which the state as a whole will reap, such as decreased unemployment, and increased revenues, availability of out-of-state capital and higher gross product. It must be explained that every dollar brought in from outside the state will be spent many times, not just once, and will pass through many hands."

"Third," Whitney said, "ambassadors from business and labor must go all over the nation, in person, in letters, in news releases and even with movies, telling mining companies and other businesses of the advantages of locating here."

"If these things are done and done often, and done right," Whitney said, "the taconite amendment will be a success—possibly a great success."

Elect Dake Ayers
for the School Board of District 564
at the election to be held
Tuesday, May 21

To The Voters of School District No. 564:

As a candidate for School Board member I wish to state that I was born and raised in Norden township and graduated from Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls. During the past 12 years I have served as assessor for Norden township and I am chairman for the A.S.C. committee for Norden and Numedal. I am married and have two children.

I am vitally interested in our school system and I am in favor of adequate facilities, but I feel that we should also bear in mind the ability of our taxpayers to pay the bills. In my opinion the building program initiated by the present board is too extensive and too costly for our present needs.

Your support in the election will be greatly appreciated.

MINNESOTA QUALITY WHEAT FARMERS
LOST 36%
of their harvested wheat acreage between 1952 and 1962

WHAT HAPPENED?

All wheat was cut the same, regardless of quality!

In 1952 Minnesota's total harvested wheat acres numbered 1,155,000 acres; by '62 the total was only 731,000 acres.

This was a loss of 424,000 acres, more than 36%

How many more acres will we lose? What about 1965 or 1966 or 1972? When will this acre-cutting end?

GOVERNMENT ACREAGE CUTTER
"A New Farm Implement"

YOUR CHOICE

Vote Yes . . .
- Accept complete government control of wheat, acres-bushels-Price.
- See further cuts in your allotment.
- Trade your right to decide — for a government directive.

Vote No . . .
- Run your own farm.
- Keep the door open to larger markets and increased income.
- Protect your neighbors and yourself from further government controls of other farm commodities.

YOUR VOTE IS IMPORTANT

On May 21, wheat farmers will have the opportunity to cast a "YES" or "NO" vote on a two-price, certificate plan to be imposed on the 1964 wheat crop. This program would control ALL WHEAT. It is the first serious attempt to completely regiment a major farm commodity.

Although only wheat growers will be allowed to vote — the vote they cast will indicate to Congress whether or not the management of American farms should be turned over to a single department of government under the absolute control of one man, or if farmers themselves wish to keep their right to manage their own farms.

If this proposed program is accepted, the Secretary of Agriculture would be given more authority than ever before entrusted to that office. He would have the authority to decide: The number of acres YOU can plant — the number of bushels YOU can sell — the price YOU will receive.

The bid offering the lowest net interest cost (total interest from date of issue to stated maturities, less any premium offered) will be deemed the most favorable. LOOKING much as though they had been victims of a bombing raid, the Montgomery Ward building and two adjacent buildings are merely steps to progress. Gaping holes in the brick walls have been gouged out by the dragline shown in the above photo. The building formerly housing a Montgomery Ward store has now been reduced to one story and will be finished as a one-story building housing the J. C. Penney company. The space left vacant by the removal of smaller buildings will also be filled by the store which will have 100 feet of frontage on Main avenue.

MARCHING in the Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up parade Thursday morning were these members of the Lincoln high school band under the direction of John Moum. The students carried signs proclaiming, "Peter Gunn and His Grime Fighters," "Clean up Your Alley—Cat!" and "Swingin' Sound of Cleanliness." The parade circled two city blocks in the downtown area as a kick-off to the retail trade promotion. Following the parade, merchants engaged in a mass project of window-washing and side-walk sweeping before the weekend "Clean Sweep" sale began.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS, BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINN.
May 7, 1963

Pursuant to adjournment the County Commissioners met in the Commissioners' Room in the Court House at 10:00 A. M., May 7, 1963.

Members present: Hanson, Olson, Almquist, Lindberg and Tasa. All present.

Ray Oen and Mrs. Adam Lendobeja appeared in behalf of the Pennington County Fair Association, Inc., to discuss problems confronting the Fair Association and with a request for an additional one half mill levy for Agricultural promotion. The intent of the Fair Board as stated, is to dedicate the mill levy to retirement of the indebtedness and to have the County Fair pay its own way otherwise. After discussion the matter was taken under advisement.

Sheriff Richards appeared with the information that Pennington County had been awarded an award for its Farm Safety program and in Traffic Safety Education, and requested permission to appear at the Governor's Award Presentation Dinner to receive the Awards. Mr. Richards has served as President of the Pennington County Safety Council for several years. Approved.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Carpenter and Clifford Olson appeared with a request that they be permitted the Sunday sale of 3.2 beer during the hours permitted by State Law. After discussion no change was authorized in the present Sunday County restriction of sales.

Moved by Tasa seconded by Hanson that the Road Committee and the Bridges and Culvert Committee inspect roads and bridges and culverts at 1:00 P. M., May 24, 1963. Carried.

Moved by Almquist seconded by Lindberg that Joseph Seidel be engaged as Pennington County Highway Engineer for a term of 4 years at an annual salary of $9,000.00, effective May 1, 1963 and that the County Highway Engineer be paid 7½ cents per mile for all miles necessarily traveled in conducting County business. Motion carried.

Application approved for abatement of a portion of the personal property tax of George Baker because of duplication of assessment of a Cat. and scraper.

Prowler Nine Defeats Warren, Roseau Teams

Coach Ralph Skay's baseball Prowlers added wins number seven and eight to their season's record this past week by defeating the Warren Ponies, 14 to 2, in a game played here on Wednesday night, and edging out the Roseau Rams, 3 to 2, in a game played at Roseau on Friday afternoon.

This week's schedule will find the locals meeting the highly-regarded Ada Vikings tonight, Monday, under the lights on the Fair Grounds diamond. On Tuesday night, May 21, at 8:00 p. m., the Prowlers will play a return game with the Warren club, meeting the Ponies at Warren in a district conference tilt. And on Friday nite May 24, coach Linton Lerher will bring his Crookston Central Pirates here for a district conference game against the Prowlers, with game time slated for 8:00 P. M. The Prowlers will conclude their pre-tournament schedule by meeting the Fertile Falcons here on Monday night, May 17.

Thirteen bases on balls, doled out by Warren pitchers Jerry Cook and Wayne Strickler, combined with six miscues by the Pony defense and seven base hits by the Prowlers, including a triple by Dave Ellingson and Don Mathieu, sparked the Prowlers to a 14 to 2 win over Warren in a district conference game played here Wednesday night.

Righthander Tony Poole limited the Ponies to but three hits, and had a shutout on the scoreboard until the third inning when, after giving up walks to Strickler and Cook, Mark Horgen boomed a high fly ball to left field that was misjudged for a double, scoring the two Pony runs. In the sixth, Strickler opened with a two-base hit; Cook filed out to Don Mathieu in right field; Shaeffer singled, with Strickler stopping at third. Poole then whiffed Horgen, and retired Olson on a fly ball to Mathieu.

Playing at Roseau on Friday afternoon, the Prowlers, training by a 2 to 1 score after three innings of play, scored their game-winning tallies in the top of the fourth when, with Dave Erickson on second and Don Mathieu on first and two out, Rick Jensen sliced a two-base hit down the left-field foul line. The two runs gave the Prowlers a 3 to 2 lead, which they held during the balance of the well-played game.

Roseau rapped righthander Jensen for four hits, scoring two runs, in the first inning. After that shaky opening frame, Jensen hurled a two-hit ball, giving up a single to Lynn Larson in the second, and a single to Bryan Grand in the seventh.

The Prowlers were limited to five hits by Roseau's Dennis Nelson. In the first inning, Paul Klungness drew a walk, stole second, and scored on John Aune's single to right field.

In the fourth, Nelson walked Erickson and Mathieu, struck out Dick Johnson and forced Jack Leedahl to lift a pop fly to second base. Jensen then followed with his two-run double to left field.

Minnesota Free of Sheep Scabies

17,873 Flocks Inspecterd Since Last December

All inspections under the sheep scabies elimination program in Minnesota have been completed and the state has applied to the U. S. Department of Agriculture for recognition as a scabies-free area.

The program involved close cooperation among owners of the states 17,873 sheep flock, and representatives of local, state and federal agencies. Initial inspections under the program began Dec. 17, 1962 and the last reinspections were completed in April.

A total of 16,369 flocks were cleared during the first inspection as showing no apparent symptoms of scabies. The remaining 1,504 were reinspected by state and federal veterinarians, and received a second reinspection within the following two months.

Only 15 flocks were eventually determined to be scabies infected.

These and other flocks designated as "suspicious" were dipped and reinspected a month later.

Cooperating in the total program were the University of Minnesota agricultural extention service, vocational agriculture instructors, the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, the Minnesota livestock sanitary board and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Surveillance will be continued on all state sheep flocks. A selected proportion of flocks will be reinspected annually.

Weathermen are predicting cloudiness with intermittent light rain mixed with snow today, tonight and tomorrow. Cooler weather today and tonight is expected with freezing temperatures tonight and continued cool tomorrow. High today will be 44 to 52 with lows of 28 to 34 tonight.

Federal Agent Gets Bootlegging Tip 40 Years Old

Some informant told the Internal Revenue Service that moonshiners were having a field day in the Bigfork, Minn., area. The tipsters said he'd read it in the Grand Rapids Herald- Review.

So the newspaper office, naturally, was the first stop of the agent who came up from St. Paul to investigate.

But the agent left quickly and a bit redfaced upon learning the information had come from a column recounting area events of 40 years ago.

The USA has 360,000 school teachers, trained under the GI Bill of Rights, according to Veterans Administration figures.

A Lost Weekend

The weather, with high winds, snow flurries, and various other miserable inclemencies, made this past weekend more fitting for a late, late duck flight than for a pike fishing season-opener. And most of the anglers who ventured out are charging off May 18th and 19th as a "lost weekend".

There were some walleyed pike limits reported out of the Lake of the Woods area, but the fishermen who came in with these strings deserved their catches. Very few boats ventured out on the big traverse of Lake of the Woods, but the anglers in these boats reported that there were fish, Baldy Dunham's crew was one of the few to make the rough trip to the Buffalo Point area on Saturday, and they caught pike.

Upper Red Lake, at the Tamarac river outlet, felt the fury of the northwest winds, and it was impossible to send boats out into big water without risking the hazard of swamping the boats. And the fishing in the river, which is usually brisk as this time of the year, was very poor.

The only satisfying report we received was from Stan Cockrell who stated that he and Cotton Langevin successfully defended their Wheeler's Point and Four Mile Bay whist championship, winning five of six matches. And in the one match that was lost there were, according to Stan, extenuating circumstances.

A Region Eight Threat

Coach Ambrose Kramer's Roseau Rams won the 32nd District's track and field championship in the tournament held at Roseau. And this isn't a bit unusual, and it would have been news had the Rams lost, for Roseau has won the district title 32 of the 34 times that the tourney has been held. That's a remarkable record.

The Rams outscored the runner-up Hallock Bears by a two-to-one margin, and are assured of ample man-power for the Region Eight tourney at Bemidji on Saturday, June 1.

That Region Eight tourney should be a thriller, and the team title will be pretty much of a toss-up. The Bemidji Lumberjacks, the Thief River Falls Prowlers, and the Rams should be in contention.

Miscellany

The Prowlers baseball squad, in a meeting last week, elected their veteran catcher, John Aune, captain of the 1963 club. John, who is the best catcher in Region Eight baseball, is completing his fifth year as a member of the Prowler squad. In 1959 and 60 he was the team's reserve catcher, with Jim Wegge being the first-stringer. The past three years, '61, '62, and '63, John has been the regular catcher—Two more former Roseau Rams hockey players have decided to enroll at North Dakota U, and both are former all-state tournament selections. Jerry Swenson, a defenseman, and Larry Skime, a forward, will join Bob Lillo and become North Dakota frosh next season. Swenson, who had been expected to collect points in the field events, for coach Ambrose Kramer's Roseau track team, is ineligible. Jerry, following the completion of the high school hockey season, played a game with a Canadian club, and this was a violation of a Minnesota State High School league rule —Gary Johnson, who was shifted from goalie to right wing on the Roseau Rams this past season, and who proved to be a strong scorer, is planning on enrolling at Wisconsin next fall—The fourteen-year-old daughter of Bump Gabrielson, the swimming coach at the University of Georgia, was given a mention in last week's 'Sports Illustrated', because of her golfing prowess. Bump, it will be recalled, was an athletic coach here in the late 1930's, following graduation from Gustavus Adolphus college—Bill Brady, who has been coach of the Ada Vikings basketball and baseball squads the past several years, has resigned his position on the Ada high school faculty. Bill coached the Vikings to a Region Eight basketball title a year ago. Incidentally, Brady will bring his Ada Vikings baseball team here tonight for a game against the Prowlers. Weather permitting, that is.

Charles Rambeck Enlists As Peace Corps Volunteer

By Flora Allison
Times Society Reporter

Charles Rambeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rambeck of this city, a 1960 graduate of Lincoln high school, is one of many Americans who recognizes "in the concept of the Peace Corps, an opportunity to do something of significant value for American and for humanity."

Having completed two years at the University of Minnesota where he majored in economics, he found himself intrigued and motivated by the objectives of the Corps to accept a call to service. Now, his preliminary training completed and a visit to his home here ended, he is stationed in Colombia, South America, a tropical country on the northwest coast of that continent, bordering on two oceans and on strategic Panama.

His exact location has not yet been determined, but he feels that it will be in the Andes mountains, for it is in these areas where most of the population is concentrated. His training prepared him in large part for the situations he would face in this far-away place.

Intensive Training

Sharing in this training were 64 other volunteers, 42 of whom remained to complete the rigorous course. These 64 were all sent to the University of New Mexico at Alburquerque for two months and to an Indian settlement at Taos for an additional month.

"The proximity of the 'U' to Mexican, Indian and Spanish cultures makes it a natural place for study and appreciation of Colombian culture. Other universities are likewise preparing personnel to serve in other areas. University of Minnesota, for example, is a training center for those who will be stationed in Pakistan," Rambeck explained.

Charles Rambeck

Objective of the course is to produce volunteers capable of "independent, self-reliant action, and to develop awareness of, and respect for, the traditions, social customs and beliefs of the cultures in which they will be working," as stated in the training syllabus.

Included in the comprehensive course is training calculated to provide volunteers who can "assist with the work of "changing problem societies into problem-solving socities. Briefly," Mr. Rambeck said. "It encompasses community development projects in which we will probably be taking part, such as running heavy equipment, elementary surveying, simple skills such as slaughtering animals, making bricks, setting up feeding stations, jeep maintenance, horsemanship, shoeing horses, and a number of others."

Candidates study world affairs and communism and receive audio-lingual language training, medical and health instruction, first aid and physical training. "All of this is aimed at enabling the volunteer to assist physically with implementation of the community effort, to establish greater rapport between government and the people. In Colombia at present the smallest unit of local government is about the size of four Minnesota counties. This does not make for close enough harmony between the people and their government to achieve best results."

The class was educated among Spanish-speaking students from Colombia, and practically all communication among them had to be carried on in that language. It was studied constantly and practiced faithfully.

"We will live and work in the same country for 21 months," Rambeck explained, "on a non-salaried basis. However, when we complete our tour of duty, we will receive $75 for each month spent in the Corps, or about $1800. Our training, food, housing, transportation, travel and medical expenses are provided by the Peace Corps, CARE, and the host country. Corps personnel live about on a par with an average middle-class Colombian, eating the same foods, having the same standards of housing. This partially offsets any pre-conceived idea of 'the rich Americans' which might exist in the minds of the people."

There are at present four groups of volunteers serving there. The contingent of which Rambeck is a part will replace one which is leaving. Those already in the field have been assisting with school construction, rural access roads, aquaducts for village water supplies, health centers, 4-H club work, home improvement and repair projects, sanitation efforts and establishment of cooperatives. Many long-range projects and objectives are constantly being added to the list.

"The social structure of Colombia has been an impediment to greater progress. Realizing this, the government has requested Peace Corps workers among them, to help the people into a better, more equitable use of the country's resources.

"This is not accomplished by force or persuasion; rather, it is approached from the standpoint of making desirable the closer integration of the government and the people. We try to show the people what we think is the better way, and they are free to use our suggestions — or reject them. . The fact that they keep asking for our kind of assistance is ample proof of the effectiveness of our program."

Rambeck is one of seven local residents already in the Peace Corps, all of them, as are all of their fellow-corpsmen, dedicated to the furthering of the self-help program, in what might be described as helping other nations to pull themselves out of the slump in which they find themselves. . . "Operation Bootstrap", as it were.

What Is Economy?

1. The present school board has completed selling of bonds for new school construction at an interest rate of 3.43 percent. The estimate had been 3.9 percent. This will save the school district $120,000 on the new building program.
2. To date approximately $4,000 in survey and site work has been done in preparation for construction. Any major change in building plans at this time would mean a needless waste of architectural fees.
3. A committee including and supporting Vigen, Ayers and Randorf protested the school bond election. This cost taxpayers of the district $475.85 in fees. Their attorneys withdrew the protest and fortunately the board was able to sell bonds at a favorable rate. Other delaying tactics by this group could result in higher construction costs and additional rentals.
4. We of the Citizens' Committee for Education have attended many school board meetings and have been impressed with the practical, cost-minded approach of the present board.

Let's not permit further delays . We strongly endorse the incumbents, Lloyd Howick, John Burtness and Rufus Olson.

Field Day Set at Station July 16

Farmers throughout the state will have opportunity to inspect at first hand some of the latest developements in agriculture during a series of experiment station field days scheduled during July, including one at Crookston July 16.

William Hueg, assistant director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Minnesota, says that emphasis of the field days will be on crops and soils.

"Visitors will have an opportunity to see new and recommended varieties of small grains, forage crops and soybeans. They also can see the results of such projects as weed control by both cultural and herbicide, crop rotations and soil fertility studies."

Livestock projects will be displayed at some stations. There will be noon-time speakers programs. Lunches will be available on the grounds or visitors can bring picnic hampers.

Fergus Falls Man Is New Chairman of 7th District Republicans

A Fergus Falls man was elected chairman of the 7th District Republican party over a Moorhead man in a contest May 11 at the district convention at Wadena. Robert Bigwood, personnel manager of Otter Tail Power Company, was elected over James C. Jackson of Moorhead by an unofficial vote of 107 7-12 to 40 5-12. Bigwood has been vice chairman and he succeeds Aurel Parenteau of Brooks.

Republicans also resolved to urge farmers to vote "no" in the May 21 wheat referendum following a keynote address by Congressman Odin Langen who criticized President Kennedy and administration spokesmen for saying Congress will not enact new legislation if the program is rejected.

"The government itself is using the taxpayer's dollars at will to influence the outcome of an election. Congress has a separate identity as far as government is concerned and ought to remain that way.

Neither should congressmen try to influence the election whose purpose is for the people to decide." Langen said.

Others elected included: Mrs. Norman Haugan of Park Rapids, chairwoman over Mrs. Robert Miles of Barrett by a 85½ to 65½ vote and Gale Mitchell of Moorhead over Kenneth Moran of Erskine for second vice chairman. Elected without opposition were: Mrs. Robert Stenerson of Moorhead, first vice chairwomen; Lowell Thorson of Hendrum, first fiee chairman, Mrs. Chester Nightengale of Alexandria, second vice chairwoman; Dr. Rudolph Skogerboe of Karlstad, secretary; Wayne Cease of Bagley, treasurer; Mrs. Miles and P. J. Brewer of Fergus Falls, delegates to the State Central Committee with Mrs. Lewis Yates of Fergus Falls and Winston Naylor of Bemidji, alternates.

Among the resolutions passed by the convention was one favoring a tax cut only if accompanied by an equal reduction in nonessential spending, one urging that Republicans bring pressure to bear for prompt action to eliminate "the dangerous military threat of Cuba", and another censuring contract awards such as the TFX plane. Party designation was favored for legislators and support was favored to have Dr. Walter Judd run for the senate.

Representing Pennington county at the convention were Stuart McLeod and Mrs. Robert Bredeson, delegates, and Ralph Luhman, alternate. Mrs. Bredeson served as chairman of the credential committee.

Editorials . . .

"Education isn't how much you have committed to memory, or even how much you know. It's being able to differentiate between what you do know and what you don't. It's knowing where to go to find out what you need to know; and it's knowing how to use the information once you get it."

—William Feather

We Sympathize

The Alabama race riots have not added to our prestige as a nation. As the New York Times points out, "On the international scene these outrages will be immeasurably costly to the United States."

Unfortunately there is no simple solution for the problem. It is easy to be critical but little of the criticism is constructive. It is easy to write laws but new laws do not change old prejudices immediately.

Desegregation in the South must come gradually and good progress is being made in most of the southern states. Most of the holier-than-thou criticism of northern newspapers is harmful rather than good and encourages meddlesome agitators.

The Alabama riots are getting world-wide publicity. A riot that occurred in our capitol city of Washington last fall received little attention from the northern press, although many people were injured, some seriously.

The South's problem is moving steadily northward. Coming gradually, our adjustment to the problem is less difficult. The people of the South, both the Negroes and the Whites, have our sympathy.

Reviewing the Issues

After expressing strong opposition to the proposed school election program in three elections, why did the voters of the district favor the proposals in the fourth election? It is a good question. The proposals were substantially the same each time. The upset may have been due to the complacency of the opposition, along with a vigorous last-minute emotional appeal by the proponents. Under the circumstances it might be well to review the real issues as they were revealed in the factual and unemotional Domian report, based on the study that was conducted by the Bureau of Field Studies and Surveys of the University of Minnesota.

The opponents at that time aimed their objections at the admited fact that the report recommend an ideal solution for our school problems. The objectors thought the proposed expansion was too costly and urged that greater emphasis be placed on practical solutions rather than the ideal.

The Domian report pointed out that the ideal program could not be achieved at one time because of legal debt limitations, and recommended a two-stage program. It is the first stage of this program that has been emphasized, and as time has passed, the second stage has no longer received public consideration. But the second stage is closely related to the first stage and should have more consideration than it has been receiving.

The Domian report stated its objectives clearly. It said:

> "The ideal solution to the school-housing problem of the Thief River Falls schools would be the immediate construction of a complete elementary school and a properly planned junior and senior high school wherein separate classroom wings would connect with centrally-located common service facilities. This would permit the retirement of all or nearly all substandard classrooms immediately. However, this is not possible under existing legal limitations on school debts. To erect the complete high school plant plus needed elementary classrooms, it would cost the district nearly $3,000,000 according to present building costs. About two and one-half million would be required for the high school plant. It is, therefore, necessary to suggest a program of building the needed classroom space by stages."

After discussing several possible plans for proceeding under such a two-stage program, The Domian report made these recommendations:

1. Proceed to secure state and local approval for the establishment of a junior college at Thief River Falls.
2. Secure additional acreage at the present undeveloped 35-acre site.
3. Plan and build an elementary school of eight general classrooms, one kindergarten, and such general facilities as are needed to operate such a school.
4. Plan the entire building complex of the junior and senior high schools. Bond for and build the junior high school wing.
5. As funds permit, add the high school facilities and such additional central service facilities as needed to complete the junior high and senior high school campus.

These recommendations express briefly the program that is in the making. In a two-stage program an entirely new high school building would be erected at the new location, to provide all of the needed facilities for both the junior and senior high school classes, along with other facilities such as a new gymnasium, a new auditorium, new library and new laboratories, etc. The present high school facilities would be made available for the Vocational school and possibly a junior college — if we get a junior college. The old Washington and the old Lincoln would be junked.

The cost of this two-stage program was estimated at $3,000,000 and the report suggested that the second stage should be started within ten years. The present debt of the school district is about $1,200,000, and that happens to be the amount that was borrowed to build the new facilities that were completed in 1957.

We will not argue with the Domian report and its supporters insofar as it is maintained that what is recommended would be ideal. It is our opinion, however, that at this time we cannot afford that which is ideal and should settle for what is practical. We are sure practical solutions for our problem can be found at a substantially lower cost, and lower costs will mean more moderate tax increases.

More School Hours

A study by one of the nation's leading educational economists concludes that if quality is to be retained in our schools it will be necessary to extend both the school day and the school year. The study was financed by the Carnegie Corp., and has been published by the Syracuse University Pres..

Dr. Benjamin Fine, education editor of the New York Times, sees considerable merit in the idea. He says:

> "For some time educators have considered the possibility of raising the standards in our school program. Because of the huge expenditure of funds for education—estimated at some 36 billion dollars annually—many officials in and out of the school system have sought ways to pace greater efficiency into education. The "all year school" has been considered, but has not as yet been put into practice. Some systems, though, have raised the school day by an hour or more.
> "To increase the quality of education, and at the same time permit more youngsters to finish school at an earlier age, the study recommends that these steps be taken:
> "Extend the school year, increase the school day, increase the amount of home work to a minimum of two hours daily for junior and senior high school students, and use more technological devices in the classroom.
> "Through these practices, the report asserts, it will be possible to save two years of the present 12-year elementary-high school course. In some instances the saving in time will amount to three or even four years. In other words, the average student will be able to complete high school in 10 years, not 12 as at present. The extra two years would become the first two years of college."

Dr. Fine points out that many schools are now using television and are experimenting with teaching machines and other electronics devices. It is reasonable to assume that with education costs rising steadily our education system is due for some revolutionary changes.

In Proper Perspective

There are a few newspapers in our country that approach the nation's race problems realistically, but too many of those that could be helpful in encourging a sensible approach to the difficulties base their appeals on emotional considerations rather than reason. Our trouble may be attributed to the fact that we are too close to the picture to appraise it properly.

The London Times commented editorially on our race problem recently, and, following an informed discussion of the facts, came up with some sensible conclusions that deserve a calm consideration by our so-called moulders of opinion. We like these concluding comments:

> "Amid all this it is easy to forget that segregation is basically a human problem, and there are limits to either legal or political action. Indeed, there is an argument that too much legal pressure slows down the advance of understanding and tolerance. Certainly punitive measures such as that suggested by the Civil Rights Commission would impose a form of collective guilt upon the entire state and probably stiffen resistance. The real need is to foster the forces of change and moderation which are at work within the south itself rather than to compel change from the outside.
> "Economic self-interest is already having a chastening effect, for racial trouble conspicuously drives away investment. The south is also becoming more aware of its guilt and isolation. It may be that as the need for legal pressure abates, as the Negroes win the vote, and as the two-party system makes inroads into the south, the forces of sanity will become more united and active than they are now."

This calm conclusion, we think, is a realistic view of our race problem in proper perspective.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"It is common sense that a dozen books on golf will not enable one to play golf, nor a series of lectures on driving a car make one safe in traffic. Why then should we assume that books on the art of living should enable us to live skillfully? We need direct experience both in the worldly and religious life."

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

by Governor
KARL ROLVAAG

In recent weeks the attention of the whole world has been focused on the United States and our attitudes toward racial minorities. There is no doubt that civil liberties, and our efforts (or lack of them) to provide them for all citizens, hold the attention of people all over the world. And just because we in Minnesota have not set vicious dogs upon small children who are peacefully seeking to grow up strong and free, is no reason for us to become complacent. There is a little bit of Birmingham, Alabama, in every city and town throughout America.

Great Moral Issue

The principles of civil liberty, equal opporunity and equal protection are inherent in our national heritage. Putting these principles into practice has been a continuous challenge to all levels of government and to society. This challenge, I am sorry to say, continues to be unmet and may well be the most critical social and moral issue of our time. Two centuries after the Declaration of Independence, the American dream of equality of opportunity remains, for many, an illusion.

Complex Problem

Racial and religious discrimination is the central civil rights problem. It sometimes results in a denial of constitutional rights. On other occasions, it manifests itself in a basic disregard fo human decency and dignity. A variety of social problems results from racial and religious discrimination. Discrimination in education produces inequality in job opportunities; denial of job opportunity destroys motivation to fully develop individual capacities. Racial housing restrictions result in segregated neighborhoods and schools. Segregated neighborhoods tend to become slums, and slums produce increased crime rates among minority groups — thereby inflaming racial prejudice among those who confuse (or choose to confuse) cause and effect.

Efforts Being Made

Some efforts or gestures toward resolving the problem of civil rights have been made in Minnesota. Minneapolis was the first city in the nation to establish a fair employment ordinance. In 1955 our legislature recognized that discrimination in employment was a problem that required action and it established a fair employment practices commission, now known as the State Commission Against Discrimination (SCAD). By education, persuasion, and conciliation, some employment opportunities previously closed to minority groups have been opened. But it would be less than candid to say that equal opportunity for employment exists today in Minnesota.

Fair Housing

Discrimination in housing is not limited to the South. Today, in both North and South, racial ghettos burgeon in the central city, while the white population moves to the suburbs. In Minnesota, one survey has shown "widespread discrimination" against negroes, Indians, and other non-whites in their search for decent housing. In 1961 we adopted a fair housing law, which has now gone into effect. Similar laws have been adopted by approximately 20 of our sister states. However, we must honestly recognize this law for what it is — a beginning, a compromise of limited application, restricted in powers, and circumscribed by elaborate enforcement procedures. The money and personnel given to SCAD have been woefully inadequate. With a full time staff of four people, it is wishful thinking to hope for significant accomplishments in ending discrimination in Minnesota.

Improve Civil Rights

To improve the general civil rights climate in Minnesota, I recently proposed that our legislature act to (1) approve the full budget requests for SCAD and the Governor's Human Rights Commission; (2) grant SCAD power to enforce the public accomodations law; (3) simplify procedures to obtain swift action on complaints of discrimination; (4) extend the fair housing law to all housing.

Other Recommendations

I have made many other recommendations and will deal with them another time. These constitute a minimum program. They are neither extreme nor expensive. They seek only to help accomplish what we say as Americans we believe. The world is watching our efforts.

One of a series of reports by this newspaper and the Print Advertising Association on the advantages of print media.

Most people do.

They count on advertising in print to give them the information they want on products that interest them—information on features . . . designs . . . and prices, for example.

People not only read about products and services, they show ads to their family and friends; they clip coupons for information and samples; they tear out ads to take along when they go shopping.

When you add it all up, print advertising—the kind you read in the pages of this newspaper—makes sense.

And because it measures up to the buying habits of most consumers, print makes sales.

Most people read—and then buy. Don't you?

ANOTHER IMPORTANT ELECTION is being held in School District 564 this week. This is the annual school board election to be held Tuesday from 4 to 9 p. m. in the Lincoln high school cafeteria. It could be the most important election in the past several years.

Traditionally the turn-out of voters in school board elections has been small. Last year the total vote was 1,700— a record number of voters in a school board election in this district—but only about half of the ballots in the school bond election. Why people should think that the issue of bonds is more important than the election of people to guide the school's finances and program is a mystery not easily solved.

The answer quite likely lies in the voter's perspective. In a bond issue he sees what he believes to be an expense for which he will be paying directly. In a board election he reasons that somebody who knows the candidates better than he does would do a better job of selecting, and he does not vote. Or he believes that the job is not important enough to merit taking the time to select a board member.

On March 5, following a concentrated effort by an informed and spirited citizen's committee, the voters of the district approved a bond issue for a school expansion program. A record turnout of voters—more than 3,000 — made the decision. Another group of citizens organized to protest the election, demand a recount and prevent the issuance of bonds. The contest of election was withdrawn when the recount proved the original count correct and the petitioners found they could be required to post bond assuring the district would not incur loss by delay in the building program.

Three supporters of the recount petition have filed against present incumbents. They profess an interest in the school and the best education which the district can afford. It is to be assumed, from previous actions, that the building project approved by the voters of the district is not within the realm of what these men believe the district can afford.

It is important for the public to realize, with two opponents of the building program elected last year, that this election could swing the balance of power on the board of education to the reactionary group. It would require only the election of two out of three candidates. This would create a 4 to 3 split on the board.

Although the public has approved the issuance of bonds for new construction, the board of education has the power to award contracts for building. Bonds have now been sold—at an interest rate well below the estimated cost—but no construction contract has been let. It is also entirely possible that such a contract will not be let if four or more opponents of the construction gain seats on the board.

While this is the principal surface issue of the election, the thoughtful voter must in truth look a little deeper than the surface. Men elected will serve three years in forming the policies of the local educational system. In a constantly changing and complex world they must decide what is to be offered and how it can best be obtained. In saving both time and money, there is no substitute for experience.

In covering school board meetings personally for the past two years, I have become convinced of the dedication and knowledge of the incumbents. Relations on the board since last year's election have been somewhat strained—as most certainly must be expected. If this election goes the same way as the last one, I would hesitate to predict the future of our school system. . .

"THOUGHTS FOR A SPRING MORNING"

A farm wrapped 'round with winter's cold
Seems such a bleak and desolate place,
Waiting for the springtime sun
To melt the snow from off its face. . .

But when the furrow's steaming
With the warmth that wakes the tree,
And the seeds with life are bursting,
Then it teems with mystery!

American Legion Auxiliary Poppy Sale This Week

Proceeds from Artificial Flower Sale Will Aid Veterans and Families

American Legion auxiliary and junior auxiliary members in Thief River Falls will conduct the annual poppy sale in this city on Friday and Saturday, according to Mrs. Walter Halvorson poppy chairman for the local auxiliary unit. Volunteer workers will be on the street both days.

"We distribute the poppies to promote and continue our program of aid, hope and remembrance," Mrs. Halvorson said. She noted that poppies in the sale are made by disabled veterans as part of their occupational therapy and that the American Legion auxiliary pays them for their work. Poppies are replicas of the Flanders Field poppies.

Mrs. Richard Gearhart, chairman of the national poppy committee, commented on the poppy sale plan: "What a wonderful plan it is! How else could we, a cross-section of American women, realize such sums as that of last year—$1,380,000? How else could we support our child welfare and rehabilitation programs which every year amount to nearly $10,000,000? This is the part of the poppy story that too few of us tell, that too few of our citizens know.

"Last year in the nation a total of $300,000 was paid to 7,062 veterans who made poppies; child welfare totaled $7,230,000 to nearly 3,965,000 children; rehabilitation totaled $2,973,000 with nearly 2,500 families helped; and service given to all 172 Veterans Administration hospitals and 266 others. These are important figures," she concluded.

ZEHLIANS will be displaying their variety of amateur art work at an exposition which will open today at Neal Fox Studio in Thief River Falls. The Zehlian group is comprised of eight housewives who meet on the first and third Thursdays of each month to work on various art projects. Designed to create an interest in amateur art as a hobby, the show this weekend will feature about 25 pictures in oil, watercolor, charcoal and encaustic, the latter being a new art medium which should be of interest to a number of viewers. Inspecting some of the entries for the show above, left to right, are Mrs. James Disse; Mrs. Rudy Sagmoen, secretary; Mrs. Harold Rasmussen, treasurer; and Mrs. Tim Conners, president. Other members are Mrs. Harold Eidson, Mrs. Ray Kiland, Mrs. Art Forsberg Jr., Mrs. Gary Forsberg and Mrs. William Holmes. Members of the group will be present Thursday, Friday and Saturday to visit with people attending the exhibit.

'64 Wheat Plan O.K.'d Here but Fails in Nation

Supported Nearly 3 to 1 by Farmers In Pennington Co.

While Pennington county farmers supported the U. S. Department of Agriculture's 1964 wheat program by a margin of nearly 3 to 1 in Tuesday's wheat referendum, reports Wednesday morning indicated that nation-wide the program was supported by less than half of those voting. A two-thirds margin of "Yes" votes was required for adoption.

P. W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington county ASCS office, announced that, with a record 664 ballots being cast, this county approved the plan for 1964 with 458 "Yes" votes and 167 "No". The remaining 39 ballots were challenged for various reasons, and the county committee was acting on these when the Times went to press.

Culkins also received word that in the state of Minnesota approximately 65 per cent of the ballots were "Yes" votes.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman had predicted that if the department's plan for 1964 was rejected, the price of wheat next year would drop to $1 per bushel, about half the current price. The Farmers Union had campaigned for a "Yes" vote, while the Farm Bureau opposed the plan.

Albert Hanson Found Dead at Farm Tuesday

Albert D. Hanson, 54, Kratka township farmer in Pennington county and president of the board of directors of Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery association, was found dead at his farm Tuesday morning. The body was discovered Tuesday morning by the man who had recently purchased the farm from Hanson. He had been staying at the farm during seeding operations.

Burtness, Howick, Olson Reelected On Record Ballot

Incumbents on the Thief River Falls board of education were returned for three-year terms in the annual school board election held Tuesday in the Lincoln high school cafeteria. A record 1,941 ballots were cast in the election—eclipsing the previous record by 241 votes—as balloting in the national wheat referendum gave rural voters a double reason to come to the city and vote.

Lloyd Howick, member of the board for seven years and currently serving as its president, polled the largest number of votes with 1,123. John Burtness and Rufus Olson, both six-year board members, received 1,097 and 1,091 votes respectively. Of the 1,941 ballots cast, two were spoiled and 14 were absentee votes.

Bert Vigen topped the list of aspirants opposing incumbent board members by polling 858 votes—a margin of 233 votes behind the third-ranking incumbent. Dake Ayers received 823 votes and LaVerne Randorf receive 800 votes in the election. Judges spent about two and one-half hours in counting the ballots.

The election had been regarded as a test of strength between proponents and opponents of the $1,495,000 school bond issue for construction of a new elementary school and junior high school. Incumbents had adopted the bond issue proposal and supported construction. Their opponents had opposed the bond issue and contested the election at which the bond issue was favored on March 5.

Meeting as a canvassing board for the election results, the board of education also held a brief business session. Resignations were accepted from the following teachers: Gene Sack, who has secured a position in Rochester; Rodney Max, who will move to International Falls; and Mrs. Roland Larson, whose husband has accepted a position with the Bloomington Chamber of Commerce.

Contracts for new teachers were approved for Mrs. Patricia Johnson, Thief River Falls, high school English, and Patrick Klemisch, Valley City, N. D., sixth grade in the elementary system.

Roland Larson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, also gave his impressions of the dairy industry, the princess contest and the role of Princess Kay in selling dairy products. "Princess Kay, a wholesome farm girl with a dairy farm background, can open doors for the dairy industry which could be opened in no other way," he said.

BE FAIR TO YOUR GRADUATE

In a few weeks many boys and girls will be graduating. Many will receive a watch for this time-honored occasion. Be fair to your graduate. Make sure you are not giving him an expensive liability. This is a very special watch, one that he or she will treasure through the years. Whether or not it lasts to be a keepsake at a minimum of upkeep, depends on your careful selection. A few years ago you could depend on "brands." Today, with competition so keen in the watch business, you can not rely on name alone.

Avoid excessive jewels — remember they can be the cheapest parts that go in a watch. Some of the finest made are 17 to 23 jewels. Watch vague descriptions such as "jeweled" or "gold-toned case." Looks can be deceiving — they all look alike when new. Be wary of "bargains"— price tags can be changed.

Do not be fooled by very liberal guarantees. The reputation of the jeweler you buy from is your best guarantee. It is quite a distance to the factory.

To avoid disappointment, consult us at the Jewel Box. We are qualified to help you select wisely. Remember . . . *P.O.M.G. (Peace of Mind Guaranteed) costs not a penny more.

St. Hilaire High School Graduates To Hold Reunion

Graduates of St. Hilaire high school from 1920 to 1943 have received invitations to attend a reunion to be held Saturday, July 6, at the St. Hilaire school, according to Woodrow (Woodie) Almquist, chairman of the reunion committee. A total of 314 students graduated from the school in the 23 years it existed and 291 of these graduates are still living and have been located.

"The first class graduated in 1920 and consisted of three girls," Almquist said. "The last class graduated in 1943 and consisted of 14 members. Returns from a questionnaire asking if a reunion should be held were tremendous. We are looking forward to having a large number attend and reservations have already been received from graduates in New York, Oregon, California, Washington, Texas, Wisconsin, North Dakota and Wyoming."

Registration on July 6 will begin at noon in the school and continue through the afternoon which will also serve as a social period for the graduates. Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

A farmstead windbreak planted eight years ago already has paid off for Elmer Neisen, Mahnomen county SWCD cooperator. He planted 2,000 trees on the north and west side of his farmstead and says the windbreak has saved many dollars in snow removal, fuel for heating his house and livestock feed. Besides that he finds an additional return in esthetic value and the songbirds and other wildlife that make the trees a haven.

An eight-acre island he bought as a 4-H'er in 1956 has become a bird sanctuary on the Quintin Bollin farm in Meeker county. An outstanding conservation member of 1958, he attended the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. He took over full responsibility for the family farm in 1961. In two years he increased the butterfat average of his dairy herd from 267 to 421 pounds per cow. The bird sanctuary island now has 13,500 trees and wildlife and soil conservation practices are in use all over the farm.

During the "Dirty Thirties," Morris and Sigward Swenson of Wolverton lost two-thirds of the topsoil on their farm. Crop yields and farm income fell and some fields were abandoned. They asked help from the Soil Conservation Service at Breckenridge and became cooperators in th Wilkin SWCD. They adopted a complete conservation plan. Their fields are 20 rods wide with wind strips running east and west. They have two miles of 2 and 4-row shelterbelts across the farm. Stubble mulching has replaced plowing even on the row crop field. They have a crop rotation of two years row crops, two years grain and two years of alfalfa supplemented by complete formula fertilizer, 250 pounds to the acre. "I expect to use the soil the rest of my life and pass it on in better shape than I got it," says Morris Swenson.

Where corn yields less than 60 bushels to the acre or less without fertilizer, chances are good that it will pay to use extra plant food. University of Minnesota extension soils specialists, Curtis Overdahl and Lowell Hanson, point out that of 218 fields in the 1958 X-tra Corn Yield Contest, 48 had yielded less than 60 bushels to the acre. Adding fertilizer increased yields by 33.7 bushels and the return over fertilizer went up by $14.85 per acre. But where farmers were already getting 100 o 120 bushels per acre, the margin over fertilizer cost was questionable.

Terraces pay, according to Quentin Burg, cooperator with the Root River SWCD. With help from the SCS technicians at Caledonia, Burg installed ten miles of terracing on his farm in 1960. "My terraced fields keep most of the rain right where it falls," he stated. He believes in minimum tillage and has not used a plow for several years.

..Most Minnesota soils can store between 10 and 14 inches of water for availability to crops to a depth of five feet. This moisture may not all be present at planting time. Some may depend on infiltration from rains and snow melt. But if it is present, a good crop should result even though summer rains may be deficient. In most cases, however, the summer rains are needed. Sand and dense silts or clays will hold less than 10 inches of available water.

..Severe gullying on the Milburn Miles farm at Fort Ripley was ended by building an erosion control structure and a diversion terrace. Miles has been a cooperator with the Crow Wing county SCD since 1960. He built 1,500 feet of diversion terrace in the erosion control structure as part of his farm conservation plan. He says "These practices have done everything I expected. Water collects from a large flat area and is carried over a 20-foot drop to the river."

..1,400 Minnesota farmers have saved nearly $200,000 in equipment costs alone by adopting wheel-track planting. This form of minimum tillage means planting corn in tractor tracks directly on freshly plowed but undisked soil. Omitting disking and dragging saves $5 per acre and nearly 40,000 acres were planted this way. Wheel-track planting also protects the soil and is a good conservation practice.

Prowlers Edge Warren Nine 5-3

A pair of late-inning rallies gave the Prowlers a come-from-behind 5 to 3 win over the Warren Ponies in a district conference baseball game played on the Warren diamond on Tuesday afternoon.

The Prowlers will conclude their 1963 schedule with a pair of games on the Fair Ground diamond, meeting the Crookston Pirates on Friday night, with game time at 8:00 p. m., and the Fertile Falcons on Monday night, May 27, also at 8:00 p. m. Coach Ralph Skay's club, with a district mark of six wins and one loss, will be seeded the number one team in the district tournament to be played on the Warren diamond next week.

In Tuesday afternoon's well-chilled game at Warren, the Prowlers trailed the Ponies, 3 to 0, with two men out in the top of the seventh inning and two men on base when John Aune powered a home run over the fence in left-center, tying the game at 3-all and forcing an extra inning of play.

The Ponies gained their 3 to 0 lead in the first inning when, with two runners on base, Mark Horgen lofted a home run over the left-field fence.

Warren held that advantage until the seventh inning. Don Mathieu lined out to right field; Mark Anderson was safe on an error; Paul Klungness legged out a slow roller down the first-base line; and after Rick Jensen had sent a pop fly to shortstop, Aune drove a long homer over the fence to knot the game.

In the game-winning eighth inning, Dave Erickson opened with a double to left field; Gerry Erickson beat out a bunt; Jack Leedahl was given an intentional base on balls, loading the sacks. Mathieu was called to shortstop, but Klungness lined a single to left-center, scoring the Erickson brothers with the Prowlers' fourth and fifth runs.

Tony Poole, who hurled the eight innings for the Prowlers, gave up but three hits, struck out thirteen, and issued eight walks. Mark Horgen, Paul Knutson, and Jerry Cook shared the Warren pitching duties, with Cook taking the loss.

Regulations Are Changed for Users of Motor Scooters

Highway Dept. States Operator Is Required to Pass Drivers Test

The new Minnesota law that raises the minimum driving age to 16 years has turned attention of many young persons to another new provision which allows 15-year-olds to seek a restricted license permitting them to drive a motor scooter.

Many inquiries have been received by the state driver license section in regard to the operation of the scooters and has led the licensing section to list the following answers to questions of those interested:

1. The department of highways may issue a restricted license to operate a motor scooter of not more than five brake horsepower to a person who is 15 years old.

2. Although the applicant may take the written test before he learns how to operate the scooter, and must take it before he takes the driving test, an instruction permit cannot be issued for the purpose of learning to drive a motor scooter. The operator must confine his practice driving to private property until after he has successfully passed a driving test and has been issued a license.

3. After the applicant believes he has learned to drive well enough to pass a driving test, he must make an appointment with driver licensing examiners. Then he can have a licensed driver take the motor scooter to an examining station where the driving test will be given.

4. The applicant may not make an application for the driving test until after he has learned to operate the scooter.

5. The restricted license cannot be issued to the applicant unless the application is approved by and has the age verified by the father of the applicant, if the father is living and has custody. If the father is dead, the application must be approved by and bear the sworn signature of the mother or guardian. If there are no living parents or guardian, the application must bear the sworn signature of an employer.

Game Wardens at Rotary Monday

Discuss Game Laws and Fishing Season Opening

Les Borning, Area I warden supervisor, and Donald Fearn, game warden stationed in Thief River Falls, were guests at the noon meeting of the Thief River Falls Rotary club on Monday. Richard Bjorkman, program chairman for May, introduced the speakers.

Borning noted that he is stationed in Thief River Falls as supervisor for one of four areas in the state. The area extends from Clay and Becker county north to the Canadian border and has 13 warden stations with 11 wardens currently filling these posts.

Fearn discussed the opening of the fishing season and answered questions in regard to game and fish laws. Both men commented on the dumping of debris into the rivers in the city, noting that it is illegal and creates an unsightly appearance. "It's a disgrace to abuse a river like that," Borning said.

Softball League To Open Monday

Reorganization of the city softball association will be discussed at a meeting set for 8 p. m. Wednesday in the Eagles club rooms. Team managers are urged to attend and bring their current season's dues.

Legion Baseball Program

The nine-team Northwest American Legion league — with teams from Thief River Falls, Hallock, Warren, East Grand Forks, Middle River, Lake Bronson, Roseau, East Grand Forks, Warren, Middle River, Lake Bronson, Roseau, Warroad, and Crookston, will begin play on its 1963 schedule on Tuesday, June 4. First-round games on that date, with Hallock gaining the bye, will have Thief River Falls at Warren, East Grand Forks at Middle River, Lake Bronson at Roseau, and Warroad at Crookston.

The sub-district tournament has been awarded to East Grand Forks, and will be played there on July 17, 18, and 19. And the district tournament will be held at Fertile on July 25 to 28.

With the minor leagues becoming more anemic with each passing year as the majors, through radio and television broadcasts, encroach on the minors' territory, the American Legion junior baseball program is increasing in stature as a "feeder" for Organized Baseball.

An indication that the majors are concerned about the development of younger members is given by the support that the "big leagues" are giving to the formation of a midwest league, with teams in Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa, and with these teams being staffed by college players, and with college coaches managing these teams. The Basin league in South Dakota is a league of this caliber.

But it's the American Legion juniors who provide the "grass roots" for baseball.

Where's the Hitting?

The high school baseball season is nearing its latter stages, with the district tournament being on tap next week, and the Region Eight tourney being slated for June 3 and 4. And there doesn't appear to be a "powerhouse" club in the area.

Having watched a number of teams in the district and region, and having had a double look at the defending regional champion Bemidji Lumberjacks, it's pretty much of a toss-up as to which team will represent the region in the state tournament in mid-June.

But what has been noticeable during this past season is the lack of consistent hitting. The defensive play has been quite remarkable, and the pitching has been, in the main, reliable, but it's the hitting that has been noteworthy by its lack. There are some good batters in the area, but these batsmen are not bunched in one club. There hasn't been a "murderer's row" in evidence so far.

The Fertile Falcons have dangerous hitters in Rod Olson and Paul Sannes; Bemidji can show Mary Hanson, John Dow, and Jerry Fossand; the Prowlers have John Aune, David Erickson, and Paul Klungness; Crookston has Pete Mickelson, but none of these batsmen are strokers like Arlo Brunsberg or Ken Weber of Glenn Carlson or Corky Johnson.

I suppose, now, that the Prowlers will run into all kinds of "power" when they enter tournament play. It never fails.

Fishing? What Fishing?

In spite of the weather and winds that prevailed this past weekend, and which kept many fishermen land-bound, there were a number of fish that were caught, and by the more hardy fishermen.

Lake of the Woods, especially the Rainy river area and the Buffalo Bay waters, produced walleyes in limit numbers. Web Mayes and his party, fishing the Manitoba waters of the lake near Birch point, had good luck. The west winds that blew and blew did not cause Web's party too much trouble, and they were able to drift-fish, and the pike would hit quite well.

And on Sunday afternoon, after the winds had moderated somewhat, there was pretty good fishing just off the blinker at Warroad.

While the pike fishermen were having their troubles with wind and waves, Leo Pahlen, the trout fisherman, was skulking along "Purple" river for trout. And Leo came in with a creel that contained one rainbow trout and one brown trout. And there are a number of witnesses, all honorable, to attest to this catch. That "Purple" river business is just so much fancy talk by Leo. He won't tell where he caught those trout, but the only water in this area that contains rainbows and browns of such size is the Clearwater river.

Oh yes, that Pete Klungness breakfast on Saturday morning at Waskish, which was to feature deep-fried walleyed pike, proved to be ham and eggs.

Employment Picks up in State During April

Minnesota's nonagricultural employment in April, spurred largely by gains in nonmanufacturing outdoor activities, jumped to a new high for the month at 979,900; this represented a gain of 20,000 since March and was 13,700 over April last year.

The regular monthly report from Frank T. Starkey, commissioner of employment security for the state, revealed that the largest industrial gains last month occurred in construction (6,400), retail trade (6,600), services (4,100), and manufacturing (1,400). In the manufacturing category, employment in foods, fabricated metals, and in stone, clay, and glass led the gains. These gains were partially off-set by losses in electrical machinery firms and in logging, Starkey said. In the non-electrical machinery industry, approximately 600 workers were idled by a labor dispute.

Most of the large gains in nonmanufacturing occurred in outdoor activities and were related to the spring warming trend, he reported. All of the trade categories except wholesale showed strong gains. Approximately half of the trade gain was due to higher sales related to the Easter season; the other half occurred because of the opening of outdoor eating and drinking places. Again, in the services group much of the gain was recorded with the opening of outdoor theatres and amusements; and in forestry and fishery activities. Construction employment took its usual jump in April with the spring warm-up.

Starkey reported that production workers in Minnesota's manufacturing industries earned an average of $104.41 per week in April, virtually the same as they earned in March; this was an increase of $2.62 from a year ago.

The workweek, at 40.4 hours in April, was 0.1 of an hour below the previous month and 0.2 of an hour below a year ago.

Unemployment in Minnesota dropped to 100,800 in April, compared to 112,300 the previous month and 101,600 a year ago. The rate of unemployment dropped to 6.7 per cent in April compared to 7.9 per cent in March and 6.9 per cent a year ago, said Starkey.

WILDERNESS TREK MAKES GOOD READING

"The Minnesota Wilderness" is the title of a smoothly readable and delightfully interesting item in June issue of Holiday magazine. Beginning on page 22 an outdoorsman and writer by the name of J. R. Humphreys rambles leisurely from Duluth through a Finnish bath at Esko to Cloquet, Brainerd, and Lumbertown, then to Grand Rapids, Marcell, Bovey, Nashwauk, Hibbing, Chisholm, the Laurentian Divide, Orr, and Crane Lake; then Loon Lake, Echo Trail, Ely, Two Harbors, and Duluth again. Mr. Humphreys waxed poetically eloquent over Itasca, "the lake-loaded county of the Arrowhead," and highly appreciative of low prices and high service standards along the way. Mrs. Humphreys shared in all the fun except a seaplane ride at Ely, including the sudden squall and a fresh fish fry on a rocky island in Loon Lake, and the "farewell dinner" at Shorewood Terrace on Lake Superior.

Service Academy Exams Set July 8

Rep. Odin Langen Invites Area Young Men to Apply

Congressman Odin Langen announced that July 8, 1963, has been designated as the date when written civil service examinations will be given for young men who wish to be considered for appointment to the United States military, naval or merchant marine academies in 1964. Langen said applicants should contact his office immediately if they wish to take the July examination.

He explained that his office will not have an appointment for the Air Force Academy in 1964, due to a re-allocation of appointments as the result of Congressional redistricting across the Nation.

Langen reports that the age limitations require that candidates, at the time of entrance to an academy on July 1, 1964, must not be less than 17 and must not have reached their 22nd birthdays. Applicants must be residents of Minnesota's 7th congressional district.

Information and application forms can be obtained by writing to Congressman Odin Langen, 1519 Longworth Office Building, Washington 25, D. C. The actual locations where the examinations will be given are to be announced later, but will be in towns and cities as near the applicants' homes as possible. Langen noted that the written examinations on July 8th will not require any special preparation by candidates who have a good knowledge of high school algebra.

Minnesota TB Unit Opens Campaign on Respiratory Ills

Ailment Ranks Fourth Among All Causes of Death, Association Says

Do you suffer from shortness of breath or a chronic cough? If so, don't take chances. See your doctor, advises the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association. These two symptoms are the early, but often overlooked danger signals of many respiratory diseases, such as bronchitis, asthma, emphysema, pneumonia, hay fever and tuberculosis, said Dr. Sidney Finkelstein, Bemidji, medical consultant to the Northwest Regional council of the state Tuberculosis and Health association.

Because respiratory diseases rank fourth among all causes of death, the tuberculosis and health association is launching a statewide educational campaign to alert people to danger signals of this type of disease.

First step in the educational program which started May 15 will be to emphasize the two most common symptoms of respiratory diseases — chronic cough and shortness of breath. Fact pamphlets on the various respiratory diseases will be available to interested individuals and groups.

About one of four Americans has a cough lasting at least five days during the year. Approximately one of eight Americans suffers from shortness of breath. These statistics were compiled from a nationwide sample check of working adults in a survey just completed by the U. S. Public Health service.

New Law Broadens Health Insurance

Medical Payments Cover Chiropractic Treatment

The basis for payment for chiropractic services to Minnesota citizens by insurance companies providing medical expense benefits has been drastically broadened by passage of a bill sponsored by the Minnesota Chiropractic association according to an announcement by Dr. Julius Theurer, legislative director for the association. The bill was signed by Governor Rolvaag on May 6.

"Significant in the bill is the provision that 'policies containing medical expense benefits shall include treatment by all licensed practitioners of the healing arts' except in those cases where the method of treatment is specifically limited," Dr. Theurer said. He added that previously some companies have refused payment for chiropractic services because of various interpretations of who were included by "licensed physicians" or similar terms.

"It is our belief that this bill, which broadens the accepted coverage of such policies, will be welcomed by the public for it means that those so insured may select their preferred method of treatment without regard to financial implications," Dr. Theurer said.

State Schedules $7.1 Road Letting for Friday, June 7

Another big bid letting, estimated at $7.1 million, in the season's construction program of the Minnesota highway department is set for June 7, the department announces. The work includes improvements on 38.4 miles of trunk highways, construction of 12 bridges and various other kinds of construction in nine counties.

The largest project involves stage construction on TH 35E in St. Paul between Cedar street and Cayuga street, on which nine bridges (highway separations) will be built and a variety of frontage road work and some construction on the main highway will be done.

Another sizeable project is in Anoka on TH 10 between Park street and the west end of the bridge over the Rum river, which involves two bridges (highway separations) and the grading and paving of approaches.

Various other kinds of improvement work construction, traffic control signal systems and building removals are called for on various highways.

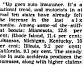
The horse and trappings will be used in the grand entry of his hour and one-half western show at the fair. Featured acts with the show will be trick and fancy roping and riding, dancing horses, singing and guitar playing, rope-jumping Dalmation dogs, beautiful girls with trained white French poodles and the world's only two teams of Roman riding fire-jumping horses.



Growing Glads

Gladioli are among the most popular summer-blooming tender bulbs in Minnesota. They provide a wealth of bloom for cut flowers. They come in enough vivid and diverse colors to strike the fancy of almost every flower lover.

To grow really good glads, it's necessary to start with healthy bulbs (corms) of choice varieties and to grow them in good soil. A well drained, rich, sandy loam soil is best.

Plant the bulbs or corms 6 inches apart in rows that are 18 to 36 inches apart. Plant the bulbs 4 to 6 inches deep, depending on the size of the corm. You may wish to group the glads in the flower border rather than plant them in rows. Label all varieties for your own reference.

Thrips are the worst enemy of glads. These tiny insects feed on the leaves and flower buds. As a result, the flowers may be mottled and misshapen when they open. A dusting with 5 per cent DDT dust or 50 per cent wettable powder will control this pest.

Cut spikes as soon as the first florets have opened. Place the cut stem in water immediately and store in a cool place out of the sun. Use a sharp knife and avoid taking too many of the lower leaves. Leaves left on the plant will help to assure a sturdy bulb for next year.

Car Insurance Costs Reveal Rising Trend

Two subjects brought up in the May issue of "Changing Times" magazine touch on matters of immediate concern to Minnesota highway users.

Let's take them verbatim and in order:

"Up goes auto insurance. It's a national trend, and motorists in at least ten states have already felt the increase in the last six months. Among some of the stiffest boosts: Minnesota, 12.8 per cent; Rhode Island, 11.4 per cent; Arkansas, Michigan, Kentucky, 10 per cent; Illinois, 9.2 per cent; California, 8.1 per cent. The steady rise in auto accidents produces the increases, along with higher claims for property damage and personal injuries. Many companies report they are getting more claims than ever before, and some that have instituted rate cuts for so-called safe drivers (Those with no traffic violation or accident record for three years) now are reconsidering the cuts. They say too many drivers qualify for the discounts, cutting back on revenue to pay claims of less repsonsible drivers.

"And no relief ahead. Costs of protection against accident and injury aren't likely to level soon. The auto population, now 65,644,000, has been increasing at the rate of 2,000,000 vehicles a year, and in a few years the rate of increase will be considerably higher. That means more cars on the road, more traffic congestion and snarls, and more likelihood of smashups and accidents.

"Those teen-age drivers. Statistics show they cause a disproportionate number of accidents, despite stepped-up programs of driver training in the schools. This year, 3,500,000 youngsters will turn 16, the age most states consider right for driver eligibility. But five years from now, almost 3,7000,000 will become 16, practically every one of them dead set on getting that magic license the minute he qualifies. Training and testing will probably get a lot stiffer to weed out the incompetents. Even so, insurance costs will mount to cover the added risks with teen-agers at the wheel."

Liver Is Highly Important Organ

State Medics Point out Variety of Functions

The liver is a highly efficient chemical factory, explains the Minnesota State Medical Association.

"The factory", which is a solid organ is also the largest gland in the body and has many important functions. Heat is generated whenever chemical reaction takes place in the liver and these reactions are responsible for much of the warmth of the body. Bile salts and acids, important to the digestive process of the body are secreted by the liver. The liver also forms red blood corpuscles and stores certain substances which are required to manufacture red blood cells by the bone marrow. Albumins and globulins are also commonly considered products produced by the liver.

The liver acts as a store house for copper and iron, necessary for the production of disease preventing antibodies. It purifies noxious products absorbed into the blood from the intestines and it stores certain forms of carbohydrates and vitamins. The liver also plays a vital role in the metabolism storage of fats. Uric and urea acids, as well as certain amino acids, are produced by the liver. It is possible for the liver to be diseased without apparent symptoms.

Jaundice, or a yellow discoloration of the skin is one of the important symptoms which may indicate the presense of certain forms of liver disease. Hepatitis is one of the more common forms of liver inflammation. Infectious hepatitis is the result of a virus infection.

"Homogenized milk is milk in which the distinctive qualities have been merged and lost. The rich quality of one part is merged with the weak quality of another to produce (it is true) an even, fine blend—but one in which the distinctive qualities of the individual parts have been lost.

"In human affairs, the tendency of communist or fascist governments is to homogenize the population; but in our society our aim should be to separate the distinctive qualities; to discover and encourage uniqueness."

Sugar Shortage

We are going to hear a lot about sugar, or the lack of it, during the coming months. A world shortage developed quite suddenly a few weeks ago and the price has zoomed. The high cost of sugar is expected to increase the price of many other food items.

Because sugar production is controlled by the government, the shortage is likely to have some political repercussions. Why, it will be asked, was the storage supply permitted to decrease to such an extent that a short crop in one year could create a crisis. So goes it with politics.

It is interesting to know, of course, that shortages, as well as surpluses, are possible under government control, as they are in an uncontrolled market.

What we anticipate next is an explosion from those who control these things, lambasting the profiteers who are taking advantage of a short supply.

Comparative Costs

Canadians are concerned about the decline of their merchant marine. According to a recent survey the number of dry-cargo ocean-going ships manned by Canadian crews and flying the Canadian flag has dropped from 48 to four in the past ten years. The reason for this decline is the high cost of operating a ship with a Canadian crew compared with other countries. Only the United States has a higher operating cost.

The figures revealed by this study are interesting. The cost of operating a ship one day with an American crew is $1,910; with a Canadian crew $1,300; with a German crew $844; a Brittish crew $842; a Norwegian crew $793, and with an Italian crew, $620.

It is easy to understand why most American owned ships fly under a foreign flag. The few that do sail under our flag, with American crews, are heavily subsidized by our taxpayers. A few American seamen are no doubt well paid, comparatively. But thousands of American seamen are unemployed.

This Canadian study clearly reveals why we have an unemployment problem in our country. And as our costs get farther out of line with costs in other countries, unemployment will increase. Deficit spending and mounting national debt will not provide solutions.

The Right Appeal, But—

Hoard's Dairyman urges more marketing control by the producers and less by the government. In support of this position it quotes the following remarks by Dr. Walter W. Wilcox, "A highly respected authority on farm policy;"

> "Farmers, if they understood their marketing and price problems as well as they understand their production techniques, would, I believe, develop organizations which could increase their market power with only a minimum of direct government activity such as the use of market orders.

Agreeing with Dr. Wilcox, who is himself a part of government, that all of us "have an inherent fear of big government," Hoard's states:

> "Milk, fortunately, is a commodity exceptionally well-adapted to the suggestion of Dr. Wilcox. We have comparatively strong dairy co-operatives in all regions. We have had long experience with marketing orders. They have served a valuable function, though we believe they are in need of overhaul and modernizing.
> "Insofar as the fluid supply is concerned, this can be done within the respective markets with farm groups assuming major responsibility for the programs and the Secretary of Agriculture limited in his functions to those of administering the orders and protecting the public interest. We like this approach. And, undoubtedly, this is one of the reasons why the Dairymen's Class I Base Plan has received so much favorable attention across the country."

The dairy industry does have strong co-operative marketing organizations thruout the country and a better national marketing program in the interests of the producers probably could be developed if these various marketing agencies wanted controls by the industry rather than by the government. But it appears that these various marketing agencies have become so accustomed to a government guaranteed market that there no longer is any inclination among the marketing leaders to assume the responsibilities that go hand in hand with independence.

Our drift toward stronger government appears to be gaining momentum. As our government grows stronger, we, as individuals, grow weaker. The prospect is not encouraging. The appeal for less government and greater individual responsibility should be encouraged, but the popular trend, unfortunately, is the other way.

Wrong Guessing

President Kennedy and his economic advisors haven't been accurate in forecasting our nation's economic trends. For a long time prosperity was just around the corner but it didn't work out that way. Instead of a boom, things started looking like a bust, as unemployment increased.

Then came a new approach. We were threatened with a recession and what was urgently needed was a big reduction in taxes and some planned deficits. Now it appears that we are moving into a period of expanding business activity and, as the National Observer notes, "Unexpected zip in the economy has placed President Kennedy and his advisers in a peculiar predicament." Says the Observer:

> "They've been pushing the tax cut program in Congress by talking gloomily about the economy's prospects, suggesting a recession might be just around the corner. Then, whoosh! Out come Government statistics indicating that:
> "Gross national product in the first three months of this year jumped by $8.5 billion to an annual rate of $572 billion; March orders to factories for durable goods were running at record high levels; personal income, housing starts, retail sales, industrial production all rose last month while unemployment declined.
> "A tax cut is desirable, all right, but it shouldn't be prescribed as a quick cure for an ailment that doesn't exist."

All of which points up the fact that the smart fellows in Washington who have all the answers don't always come up with the right answer. And maybe a little more of this kind of confusion in the executive branch may give Congress a little more confidence in its own ideas. We are sure most Congressmen would agree that deficit spending cannot be justified as a means of improving business when business is already booming.

Trade with Communists?

Our country permits only a limited exchange of goods with Communist Russia and maintains a completely closed door with Communist China. Our British and Canadian friends, and most of our allies, trade extensively with both Russia and China. It would seem that either we or our friends must be wrong in our respective positions on this question.

The following observations by the Financial Post, published at Toronto, are interesting:

> "Britain and the U. S. disagree about trade with Russia. The British, thinking commercially, regard it as fair business. The Americans, thinking ideologically, view it with suspicion.
> "The British attitude was stated with remarkable vigor recently by F. J. Erroll, trade minister in the Macmillan cabinet. The Russians, he says, preach but do not practice the Leninist doctrine that trade should be a political weapon. They are in business, just like capitalists, for profit.
> "They could, says Erroll, ruin some Western producers and play havoc with commodity markets by dumping; but in fact they do not. "In this respect their trading record is no worse than that of our closest friends," quite a testimonial from a Tory minister.
> "And so, with due regard to the agreed ban on sale of strategic goods to the Reds, Britain intends to continue its present policy. Besides being good business, says Erroll, this policy improves East-West relations. All of which makes sense except perhaps on the assumption, now repudiated by Nikita Khrushchev, that war is inevitable."

While the Post does not mention Canada's position on this question specifically, it clearly supports the present policy which has enabled the Canadians to dispose of most of their huge wheat surplus on favorable terms.

Under the circumstances it is difficult for us to justify our position, thinking in terms of our own selfish interests. We believe our recognition of Communist Russia was wise. Our relations with the Russian people have improved as travel restrictions have gradually been eased, and as our relations with the people have improved the cause of peace and understanding has been served.

The Chinese are a great people, with the most interesting cultural background of any Asiatic nation. It is not clear to us how we are helping our own cause by refusing to trade with them and certainly there is no justification for national hatred. Isn't it about time that we start acting grown-up and recognize the facts as they are, realistically?

Summer's coming, get going!
If this isn't a great time to get yourself a new Chevrolet—well, we just don't know when is. Why, you'd almost have to be anti-summer not to let one of these four convertibles get to you. Or any of Chevrolet's sedans, wagons, sport coupes and sport sedans, for that matter.
And there are a lot of other buy-now reasons besides the season. Like the carefree feeling you get on a long vacation trip in a brand-new car. And it's a smart time to trade, what with your Chevrolet dealer all stocked up for a busy summer. Chances are, he has just the model and color you want—be it Chevrolet, Chevy II, Corvair or Corvette—ready to go right now.
So maybe now you're all wound up? Then spring into summer at your Chevrolet dealer's.
